LARCENY CHARGED PLAYGROUND FETE MAY INDICT POLICE

Man Found Guilty and Was Fined $50

Bernard F. Molloy was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of 24 pairs of shoes from the Western Avenue freight house of the Boston & Maine railroad. He entered a plea of guilty through his counsel, Joseph E. Loughran, and being found guilty by the court was ordered to pay a fine of $50 within three days or be committed to jail for three months.

Molloy was employed as a driver by the Lowell Weaving Co. and had occasion to visit the freight office several times a week. On February 26th he went to the freight house and took a box of shoes which had been consigned to a firm in New Orleans.

The court in imposing the fine said that he did so because he understood that the defendant had a wife and family dependent upon him, but if the conditions were different a jail sentence would have been imposed.

Spoiled His Case

John J. Devine, who is more familiarly known as "Shorty," proved to be the principal attraction in police court this morning. Despite the fact that the testimony offered by the arresting officer was rather damaging it looked as though Devine was going to be placed on probation. He was evidently of that opinion also and became rather flippant in his remarks which led to his being sentenced to the state farm. When Devine was asked to plead to a complaint charging him with being drunk, he shouted "not guilty." Patrolman Markham testified that he found Devine in an intoxicated condition in a cellar in Fenwick street and Patrolman Goggin, who was at the police station when Devine was being booked, testified that the defendant was so drunk he could not stand alone. Devine testifying in his own behalf, said he was not drunk as he had taken but two drinks of beer yesterday.

"How many times have you been here?" asked Judge Hadley.

"I don't know; a good many," was the answer.

"Have you any idea how many times you have appeared before me?"

"Too many times to commit to memory," was Devine's answer.

At this point the court asked Probation Officer Slattery if he had any confidence in the defendant and also if he desired to take him on probation. Devine feeling that he was going to escape imprisonment started to smile and went as far as winking at the newspaper men and some of his friends who occupied reserved seats in the gallery, but this apparently proved to be his undoing for instead of being placed on probation he was sent to the state farm.

Thomas Hart, who was arrested with Devine, also entered a plea of not guilty, but he was found guilty and he also will go to the state farm.

Case Dismissed

The case of Peter Demoulacos, charged with assault with a knife on Peter Heonakos, was dismissed after Judge Hadley had learned the circumstances connected with the fight. The pair got into an argument last week and after some words had been passed Demoulacos and Heonakos started to mix it up. The defendant was cutting broad at the time the argument started and when Heonakos made a motion as if to hit him, he raised the hand which held the knife with the result that two of Heonakos' fingers were cut.

Withdrew Their Appeals

Frederick J. Vallery, who was recently sentenced to six months in jail and appealed, appeared in police court this morning and withdrew his appeal. Elizabeth F. Geniell, who also appealed from a three months' sentence to jail, withdrew her appeal.

Other Offenders

John C. Crowley, drunk, was sentenced to the state farm. John F. Leary was given a suspended sentence of five months in jail. Denis P. Sullivan, Frank McNamara and Marcelle Tessier were fined $5 each, and three first offenders escaped with $2 fines.

RIBS BROKEN

CHILD WAS TRAMPED BENEATH HORSE'S HOOF

BOSTON, Aug. 31—Martin Reynolds, Jr., 3 years old, of 86 Lawn street, Roxbury, was knocked down while playing in the street yesterday afternoon by a horse driven by Samuel Assner. The child was tramped beneath the horse's hoofs and had three ribs broken, in addition to severe internal injuries.

The little boy was running to the house in answer to a call from his mother when the horse ran against him, knocking him down. The screams of the child's mother so bewildered Assner that he tried to back the horse off the boy, instead of allowing the bystanders to take him from under the animal's feet. In this way the child was again trampled upon.

SKETCHES AT THE PLAYGROUNDS FESTIVAL YESTERDAY

The Finest Children's Pageant Ever Witnessed in This City

The boys' races in connection with the closing of the playgrounds and postponed from yesterday were run off on the South common this forenoon. The spectators numbered perhaps less than 1000, but the boys were just as much in earnest as though standing room on the common was at a premium. The prizes, too, were awarded this forenoon.

Chief Supervisor George C. Wilton had the boys all in readiness for the first race, which was a relay race, at 10 o'clock. Some of the boys wore shoes, some wore sneakers while others were barefooted. There was no such thing as holding one's head or hands in a certain position. The boy was allowed to run with his head bowed low or turned far back. There was but one object in view, and that was to get there first. It was a lively scene and one could not but be impressed with the earnestness of the runners and their desire for fair play. This is one of the many splendid things brought about by proper supervision of playgrounds. The boy is taught to give and take, and the boy who a few months ago would threaten to smash the other fellow's jaw because of some little accident of slip-up that hurt his flesh or his feelings, has learned to see things in a different light and to accept with a smile the little cuffs and knocks that go with the game.

The pretty and inspiring scene on the South common yesterday afternoon is the talk of the town today. The attendance at the festival which marked the season's end of supervised playgrounds was attended by more than 10,000 people, an attendance far beyond the expectations of those most interested in the playground movement in this city. It was a sight that one could not well afford to miss and the cheers that went up for the girls in their dances and the boys in their games proved the interest of the crowd. The little girls in their dances presented a very charming picture and one long to be remembered. Many were heard to say that it was one of the prettiest sights ever witnessed in Lowell and to Miss Anna Moran and her assistants great credit is due for the splendid training so expertly demonstrated on the South common yesterday afternoon. That so much could be accomplished in a few months seems almost incredible, but the proof was there. None of the dances, to be sure, was very difficult or intricate, but there was a good deal to them and the children did that good deal well.

An Irish jig and Highland fling were pretty features. Miss Mildred J. Tinker, who had presented Miss Moran a five dollar gold piece in behalf of the children from the South common, danced the Irish jig, and danced it to perfection, concluding her graceful yet joyous movements with a wave of the Irish flag.

Forty pretty misses in Highland costume gave a Highland fling and preceded the dancing of the group were two solo dances, by Stella Matney and Madeline O'Donnell. This number was danced to the music of "Money Music" by the orchestra.

This dance concluded the girls' portion of the program, and the participants went to the piano and sang two verses of "America."

It was announced at this time that Nellie Thomas had won a gold bracelet for good behavior during the summer.

Assisting Miss Moran during the festival, and in fact throughout the summer session were Misses Dorothy Barbery, Pauline Coggeshall, Gretchen Billings, Regina B. Frappier, Mildred

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—Police officials responsible for the vice and violations of the law at Coney Island will not be permitted to escape personal responsibility for their negligence if a grand jury investigation and criminal prosecution can establish their guilt. Acting Mayor Mitchell stated last night after a visit to St. James, where Mayor Gaynor is recuperating from his bullet wound, that he would send the affidavits and reports of his investigators to the district attorney of Kings county.

"I did not intend to say tonight what would be done officially with this evidence," explained Mr. Mitchell at his house, "but since you press the question, I will answer that I will do just what I intended to do right along with the evidence of the investigators, and that is, send it to the prosecuting official of the county. I did not send it today because the affidavit, with regard to human's concert hall had to be used in court in answer to the injunction obtained by the proprietors of that resort."

Acting District Attorney Elder, when informed of the acting mayor's intention, declared that he would do everything in his power to establish the guilt of those in and outside of the police department responsible for the conditions disclosed at the island.

One Case in Hand

Mr. Elder has in hand the prosecution of Police Lieutenant Menegay, who is charged with refusing to listen to the complaint of a Mr. Hesdhan, who says he lost his money in Roger's gambling house.

Evidence also of the direct refusal of police officers to prevent robbery and gambling on the public streets in Coney will be placed before the acting district attorney in addition to the reports of Mr. Mitchell's official investigators.

Mr. Elder explained last night just how far the responsibility of the police can be established.

"It is the duty of the police to enforce the law and to inspect suspected places to repress lawless acts," said he. "To protect persons in violation of the law, or not to repress such lawless acts properly called to the attention of the police or within their observation would be criminal on the part of the policeman furnishing the protection, if purposely furnished, and indictable."

Acting Mayor Mitchell, in his letter to Commissioner Baker, expressly declared that he recalled him from his vacation because of the failure of the police to check the vice and crime at the island that had been previously called to his attention by the acting mayor himself. Mr. Mitchell included Deputy Commissioner Reynolds of Brooklyn in his charge of responsibility for this neglect.

A Case of "Selling Protection"

The grand jury in Kings county will not meet for ten days. In the meantime the information gathered by the mayor's investigators will be sifted by Mr. Elder, who made it plain that his investigation of the charges would be vigorously conducted. It was intimated last night from an unofficial source that the district attorney's investigation would probably lead to the establishment of the identity of police officials engaged in selling police protection at the island.

"The mayor said he had not read a newspaper or spoken a word to anyone on city affairs, and that he did not desire to do so until he was fully recuperated. 'In fact,' continued Mr. Mitchell, 'the mayor was surprised at our visit, and asked us what brought us any way. He was in the garden strolling when we arrived. He looked a little thinner and paler than usual, but that, of course, is natural. His condition is remarkable, considering that it is less than three weeks since he was shot.'"

"The only mention the mayor made of anything pertaining to municipal matters was when he spoke of the condition of his garden, where the grass had been burned by the hot sun and dry weather. He expressed sympathy for Park Commissioner Stover, who, he said, was probably being blamed for a similar state of affairs in the city parks."

H. Dunn, Rose C. Geary and Mabel E. Dockendorf.

The boys' games were started just as soon as the girls got away from the ball grounds. The 60 yards dash took not fewer than 15 trial heats to finish. The winners of the various heats were: 1st, Albert Carmody; 2d, John Bowers; 3d, George Looby; 4th, Henry Sullivan; 5th, Demarion; 6th, Walter Bruce; 7th, Noel; 8th, Harold Lake; 9th, William Newhall; 10th, James Kane; 11th, John Colahan; 12th, Percy Greenwood; 13th, James Brulin; 14th, John Neviniska; and 15th, Tony Medina. The winners of the event in the finals were: First, Albert Carmody; Second, James Kane; third, Tony Medina.

The boys' work, decided that the high jumps, in three classes would end affairs for the day. In Class "C" for boys between 14 and 16 years of age, the winners were: 1st, McDonough; 2d, Devine; 3d, Roane; and 4th, Horgan. In Class "B" for boys between 12 and 14 years of age, the winners were: 1st, Foster; 2d, Looby; 3d, Flanagan, McGrath and Dunn, tied. In Class "A" for boys under 12 years of age, the winners were: 1st, Armstrong; 2d, Callahan; 3d, Brunelle; and 4th, McDonalds and Reynolds tied. These ties were jumped off this morning, at which time the prizes were awarded, and some matters about the baseball game of the season adjusted. Charles R. Church had charge of the high jumping.

The officers of the boys' part of the festival were: Clerks of course, Christopher Seale, physical director at the Y. M. C. A.; Cheney of Lawrence and G. C. Wilton; starter, C. D. Dodge; announcer, Charles R. Church; scorer, R. R. Gumb and Judge, T. R. Williams, of the Y. M. C. A.

PIRATE CAUGHT IN CHASE
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31—Three river pirates who declared they were customs inspectors boarded the steamer Shawmut at Reed street wharf on the Delaware river yesterday and proceeded to rob the Norwegian crew of all their valuables. When they attempted to hold up the cook, who is an American, they were obliged to retreat in a hurry.

A chase along the river front followed. Two of the men escaped, but the third was caught. It was necessary to take him aboard the police boat to prevent the sailors from pummeling him.

dina, and fourth, John Bowers. Altogether over 125 kids started in this event.

In the 75 yards dash the heats were won by the following: 1st, Henry McNulty; 2d, Leandre Marion; 3d, Russell Sullivan; 4th, Thomas Horgan; 5th, John Neviniska; 6th, Michael Murphy; 7th, B. George; 8th, Thomas Danahy; 9th, William O'Brien; 10th, Noel, and 11th, McDonough. The winners in the finals were: 1st, Henry McNulty; 2d, Leandre Marion; 3d, Russell Sullivan, and 4th, Omer Noel.

There were four heats in the 100 yards dash, for the larger boys, the winners of the heats being: 1st, George McDonough; 2d, Harold Devine; 3d, Michael Murphy; and 4th, Arthur Archambault. The heats went as follows: 1st, McDonough; 2d, Devine; 3d, Murphy; and 4th, Archambault. There was considerable rivalry evident between McDonough and Devine, and the former won by a few inches.

A mile race for a distance of 100 yards was run in five heats, the winners of the heats being: 1st, Lambert; 2d, Richard O'Malley and Arthur Archambault; 3d, Jimmy Bratin; 4th, Edward McDermott; 5th, Emil Tetreault; and 6th, Joseph Carmody. Carmody won in the finals, and the other winners were McDermott, Lambert and

THE LYMAN SCHOOL

CONEY ISLAND BEING CLEANED IN EARNEST BY YOUNG ACTING MAYOR MITCHEL

Finding of Suicide in Case of Newman Approved

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—The committee of the house of representatives appointed to investigate the suicide of John Newman of Cambridge and the treatment of boys at the Lyman school made its report yesterday and in it there are several important recommendations.

Trustees of the school testified that, saving as they do without compensation, it has been difficult for them to attend to the work of the school and they advocated the appointment of an executive agent. The committee approves of the appointment of an executive agent with compensation and recommends the abolition of the boards of trustees of the Lyman school, the Industrial school for girls and the Industrial school for boys at Shirley, and the appointment of a board of trustees of five with power to employ an executive agent.

The recommendation, according to the committee, is made in no spirit of hostile criticism of the work of the present board of trustees, but that a consolidation would result in a saving of considerable money, through better management and greater attention.

No Surveillance After Release

One sweeping change is the doing away of the surveillance that boys have been under after being released from the school. It has been customary when boys have been released that the probation officer keep track of them for some time to see how they were doing. Under the new ruling when boys have been discharged on account of good behavior there will be no more probationary restrictions.

The committee with one exception is for the retaining of corporal punishment, but it is recommended that reports of punishment shall be closely scrutinized and that as little of it be done as possible.

Representative Carmody favors the abolishing of corporal punishment. Corporal punishment is not abolished, although the committee recommends that reports of punishment shall be closely scrutinized and that as little of it be done as possible.

The committee, composed of Harry A. Han of Boston, chairman, Henry J. Wood of Greenfield, Zebulon E. Clark of Lowell, Cornelius J. Carmody of Worcester and David C. Ahern of Framingham, devote more than twenty pages of the report to the investigation held from June 9 to June 15 into the circumstances of the death of John Newman of Cambridge.

The report gives a complete statement of facts concerning the case, and the committee approves the finding of Judge Fowler after a thorough investigation, whose conclusion was that young Newman came to his death by his own act, and that no unlawful act of any other person contributed in causing his death.

The committee believes in indeterminate sentences, claiming that the aim of the state is to reform rather than punish a boy; to assign him to the school for a definite period of time would mean that he would have no incentive for improvement in his own welfare and would have no greater desire for good behavior on the last day of the sentence than he had on the first.

At the present time there is a superintendent of the probation department and a superintendent of the school. While the committee feels that there is no friction between them, it believes that it would be better to have one man responsible for the time the boys are on probation as well as while they are in school, and recommends that the superintendent of the schools be made responsible for the work of the probation department.

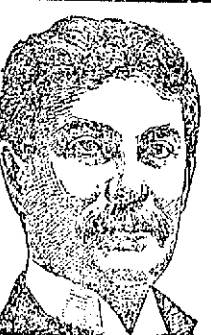

It has been claimed that when boys are armed out there is no proper method whereby a record may be kept of the terms of the contract which has been made, and it is suggested that a systematic record be kept of the terms of every contract.

Corporal Punishment

The detention rooms which are used for punishment purposes come in for condemnation. According to the committee they are a survival of certain primitive features which existed in the old reformatory system, and should be abolished in the modern cottage reformatory system. If they are continued it is the opinion of the committee that another suicide similar to the Newman case is an ever present possibility. In the rooms boys have been placed without observation for from one to three days.

The committee recommends the total abolishment of the detention rooms and suggests that a place of confinement should be so located as to permit constant observation.

Provision should be made for continuous supervision of all the boys in the institution at night, fault being found by the committee with the present system.

Of corporal punishment the committee says: "The subject of corporal punishment of children by those charged with their care has been given deep study, not only by those engaged in conducting reformatory schools, but by many authorities responsible for the education and training of children in the public schools. Recently a Boston school board made a study of the subject, and the result was in favor of corporal punishment. It has been permitted to parents, guardians and those otherwise entrusted with the responsibility of their training to use corporal punishment within sound and reasonable limits."

"It should be remembered that the average boy sent to the school is one whom the home cannot manage, the church influence nor the public schools control. He is a boy who has shown a lack of appreciation for social conventions and restraints, and unless he can be taught the necessity for obedience to proper authority, his reform is well-nigh impossible. To deny the officials of the Lyman school the right to use corporal punishment, no matter what exigency might arise which, in the opinion of the officials, demand its use, would be a step in a retrograde direction and might necessitate the institution of a method of punishment more severe and far more abhorrent than corporal punishment."

"Thoughtless Sentimentality"

"The committee has been urged to recommend that the use of corporal punishment at the Lyman school should be totally abolished, and in doing so the time the committee was organized, and before any investigation had been made, a majority of the committee were inclined to oppose its use; but in view of the searching investigation that has been made, and the testimony that has been given by all who have made a study of the subject from its practical working, the committee is compelled to the conclusion that the objections to the use of corporal punishment are mainly based on thoughtless sentimentality, and are advanced by those who have had no experience in the scope of the work investigated."

"These objections, moreover, are based on no other argument than that the use of corporal punishment is a reason founded in any degree on soundness or logic has been advanced by any one to show that its proper use is not beneficial for the purpose for which it is intended."

"The committee recommends that the trustees in the future not only make a more rigid examination of the monthly reports of corporal punishments which are sent to them, but also cause to be promptly discharged any official who is found violating the spirit of the statute and the law in relation thereto which have been enacted and established."

Carmody Dissents

Representative Carmody favors the abolishment of corporal punishment, his opinion being as follows: "I concur with the other members of the committee with reference to their findings of facts and recommendations, except that I am obliged to dissent from their conclusions as to the necessity for corporal punishment. From the first I have been opposed to flogging, considering it a cruel and ineffective method of punishment. I believe that whipping tends not only to make a boy sullen and resentful, but it tends also to brutalize the master who applies it."

"There is no corrective force in a punishment unless the boy recognizes and admits the justice of it, and the right of the one over him to inflict it. The child admits the right of a parent to whip him, but he resents having any one else usurp that parental right. To his mind it is an act of tyranny, and he goes up in his mind the determination to come back and revenge the insult. He often admits that he is at fault, but he is guilty of the offense, but he can never bring himself to justify the administration of the lash upon his body by any person not his parent."

"The argument is often made that the abolition of corporal punishment in public institutions necessarily means the substitution of some other form of punishment for cruel and injuries to the boy. This argument has little weight with me, for I find myself unable to understand why such a substitution is necessary. There is in every boy's heart a place which can be reached, if only through the use of his own ability to reach it. That is the whole problem, to awaken a spirit of manliness, a spirit of self-respect, an inability to assume a place of respectability with other boys great playground is to be purified—it is being cleaned and will remain clean. These have been familiar words to the readers of newspapers for years, for every time Coney Island is mentioned it is almost sure to be said that reform has seized fast hold on the resorts once existing there. John Purroy Mitchel, New York's 31-year-old acting mayor, evidently did not believe all that he read, for almost as soon as he took the reins of government in hand after Mayor Gaynor was shot he started out for a little trip to Coney Island to see just how far purification and reform have traveled. He asserts that he caught up with both in a short time.

growing into manhood. Awaken in him mind a readiness to reason. During his period of silliness is not the time to talk with him. Give him an opportunity to work out the problem in his own mind apart from others, and then when he is composed appeal to his manhood, and on this appeal I can conceive of no place for corporal punishment."

"I therefore recommend its abolition in the corrective institutions of Massachusetts, as it is being abolished by advanced municipalities in the public schools."

COL. ROOSEVELT Will Fight for Primary Law Plank

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—A formal challenge to that faction of the republican party of New York state which encompassed the defeat of ex-President Roosevelt when the latter's name was presented to the state committee for temporary chairman of the state convention was issued yesterday by Lloyd C. Griscom, chairman of the New York county committee.

Mr. Griscom was in conference during the greater part of the day with Frederick Greiner, the republican leader of Erie county, collector of the Port William Loch and other prominent republicans.

After carefully considering the situation the conference gained the conviction that they could depend upon at least 450 of the 1015 delegates and issued a formal statement to the effect that they would not only present Mr. Roosevelt's name for temporary chairman of the convention, but do their utmost to have a direct nomination plank inserted in the platform.

It had been the intention of the Roosevelt supporters to bring the state committee together again in advance of the convention in order that the action of the committee in selecting Vice President Sherman for temporary chairman might be reconsidered; but after much discussion it was decided to make the attempt to substitute Col. Roosevelt's name Sept. 26, the night before the convention.

CHELMSFORD

Chairman of Selectmen E. T. Adams, in company with Mr. Parkinson, representing the Lowell Electric Light Corporation, have been over the several streets of the village this week to be lighted by electricity, selecting locations for the poles.

A petition for the granting of the locations will be made later. Fifty lights are to be put in. The streets to be covered are: Evergreen, Wildwood and Junior at the Westward; Chelmsford from the Lowell line to Parkhurst's store; Centre from Central square to McLarney square; Westward from the Lowell line to the residence of E. C. Perham, and Littleton street to the residence of E. A. Lane. The gas light at the junction of Westward and Centre streets will be retained, as will the one at the corner of Billerica street, opposite the home of Mrs. B. M. Pike. The lights are to be in service every night in the year from a half-hour after sunset, until 1 a. m. and, besides causing the removal of a police inspector, with reduction in rank, that Coney has ever experienced, not to another part of the city, it is reported he also started some hundreds of chorus girls, music hall attaches and selling liquor, and about the only familiar scenes are the "no dog" and popular corn vendors. The pictures show not only the Bowery, but some of the more respectable show places.

SUPT. WHITCOMB

Was Re-Elected by the School Board Last Night

The school committee met at city hall last night and took favorable action on the recommendations of the committee on teachers relative to various transfers. Arthur K. Whitcomb was elected superintendent of schools of the city of Lowell for the coming year.

All members were present when Chairman Lamoureux called to order at 8 o'clock. Supt. Whitcomb read a communication from Frank M. Dowling, clerk of the committee, stating that the committee on appropriations had decided not to make any further recommendations for loans for the heads of departments and urged the school board to keep within its appropriation. Another communication having to do with unused school houses was referred to the committee on schools.

The first business was the report of the committee on teachers recommending the following transfers: From the training school to the New Moody street school, Miss Adie B. Merrill, as principal; Miss Grace C. Delaney and Miss Mary E. Snow; from the Parkhurst school to the New Moody street school, Miss Maude M. Hardy, and to the Lexington avenue school, Miss Carrie A. Hart; from the Greenhalge to the Varnum school, Miss Annie V. Donoghue; from the Grand street school to the Pawtucket school, Miss Corinna G. Cover; from the Lexington avenue school to the Cheever street school, Miss Helen Kohaver; from the New Moody street school to the Colburn primary, Miss Ellen M. Badden, as principal, and Miss Nellie E. Davidson; from the Colburn primary to the London street school, Miss Mabel H. Ebb; from the New Moody street school to the Cabot street school, Miss Eugenia L. Hogan.

The committee on teachers recommended that a certificate of the first grade be granted to Mrs. Morley D. Canerath, graduate of the Normal Art school in Boston, Mechanical Arts course, 1910, and certificates of the second grade to Miss Frances Masters, Radcliffe, 1910, and to Miss Josephine H. Boynton, Smith, 1908. Adopted.

Supt. Whitcomb gave quite a long talk on the law passed by the state legislature relative to the placing of public drinking fountains in public places in all of the cities of Massachusetts. The law is mandatory and in order to properly observe it public sanitary fountains will have to be installed in the schools. Mr. Whitcomb said he had spoken to the inspector of lands and buildings relative to the matter and the inspector said he could not do the work on his present appropriation. On motion of Mr. Toward it was voted to refer the matter to the committee on school houses and hygiene with full power.

Supt. Whitcomb discussed the matter of opening evening schools, and it was finally decided, on recommendation of the committee on evening schools, to open the coming fall and winter sessions Oct. 10. This is a little earlier than usual, but was recommended by the committee after the chairman had discussed the matter with some of the principals of the evening schools. The latter's argument for an earlier opening was, better attendance is secured before the Christmas holidays and more satisfactory results attained.

It was announced that the examination for candidates for positions as teachers in the evening schools would be held in the high school on Sept. 17. The annual election of the superintendent of schools resulted in the unanimous choice of Arthur K. Whitcomb. Committee Chairman Mahoney was chosen a committee of one to notify Mr. Whitcomb of his election and the latter, after being ushered in, addressed the members briefly.

Mr. Johnson stated that he had received numerous requests from people in the Ayer city district, asking for the opening of a primary school room in the Lincoln school building. The request was accepted, a report recommended, and turned over to the board of advisers.

THE GULF STORM

Caused Great Havor in Texas

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 31.—The gulf storm, which has been sweeping inshore along the western coast of Texas since Monday, increased in severity Monday afternoon, and shows little indications of abating. Point Isabel and Brazos de Santiago Pass, where the brunt of the wind was felt, are cut off from communication with Brownsville, but before the wires failed yesterday afternoon several substantial buildings were reported unroofed, a number of Mexican huts had been wrecked and other minor damage done. Fears are entertained for the safety of the government gasoline launch Florence with Engineer E. M. Hartick, Junior Engineer N. J. Blackburn and P. H. Smith, both of Galveston, Tex., and a crew of about a dozen. The last heard of the boat it was heading for Brazos island, and it is not improbable that those aboard were rescued by the lifesaving crew stationed at that point. Near Point Isabel, several large fishing smacks are reported beached.

MUST PAY OWN FARES

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Customs employees are not allowed to collect fares or the price of meals for unusual service for the government under a ruling made by Controller R. J. Tracewell of the U. S. treasury.

The circular was received yesterday, and created a lot of talk at the custom house. The messengers are the worst sufferers. They get $750 a year and they have to travel every morning with papers to the farthest ends of the town. They must either walk or pay their fare. If they pay they are not under the ruling of the controller, reimbursed. The decision is based on a literal translation of the law that no more than the absolute compensation allowed by the congress shall be paid to an agent of the customs service unless he has to go outside his district on duty.

AN EXCITING TRIP

Of the Balloon "Boston"
Yesterday

Jay E. Benton, city editor of the Boston Transcript, and Frank P. Bowker, also of Boston, had a thrilling experience during their ascension in the balloon "Boston" from the yard of the Lowell Gas Light Co. in School street yesterday afternoon. Owing to the high and changeable wind currents, the ascension was made under most hazardous conditions and the occupants of the basket had a narrow escape from being dashed to the ground as a result of the balloon colliding with a steel trestle and later with a high chimney in the yard.

The balloon reached an altitude of 2500 feet and after being in the air for about an hour landed in Carlisle. When the balloon was released at 1:40 o'clock there was a high wind blowing. Before it could ascend high enough for clear sailing the big gas bag crashed against the steel trestle work in the yard. Pilot Benton realizing the danger threw out a bag of sand, but the bag caught in the ropes. The trestle work was passed, however, and the balloon rose slowly. The wind was blowing from the north and before the aerial craft cleared the obstacles in the yard it struck against a chimney in the yard. The basket struck the chimney with considerable force and the spectators in and about the yard expected to see the occupants dashed to the ground but Mr. Benton succeeded in clearing the obstacle, and the balloon being caught in a strong air current was carried northward over the Merrimack river. After remaining almost stationary over Pawtucketville for several minutes, it was caught in another air current and started to travel in a southerly direction.

While passing over Mt. Vernon street a bag of sand was thrown out, but for some reason or other the bag did not open and fell directly in the yard of Charles T. Upton of 62 Mt. Vernon street.

Several more bags of sand were emptied over the side of the basket at this point and the balloon began to steadily rise until it reached an altitude of 2000 feet, the greatest altitude yet reached by any balloon which ascended from this city.

The landing was made in a large field in Carlisle after the balloon had been in the air about an hour.

Millionaire to Get a Divorce From His Wife

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—William D. Bishop, former secretary and director of the New Haven railroad, and millionaire grandson of its founder, announced yesterday his intention of getting a divorce from his wife, from whom he separated three years ago, in order to marry Mrs. Pauline Valentine, until recently a manicurist, with a parlor on Fifth avenue.

Mr. Bishop declared that if he found it impossible to secure a divorce in the east he would go to Reno and live the necessary six months in Nevada.

Mrs. Bishop was Miss Susan Blackburn, the daughter of a former minister to France and a member of a family that has played a leading part in the politics of three great states. It is expected she will fight the suit if it is brought in New York or Connecticut, which is the legal residence of the former railway magnate.

A reporter saw Mr. Bishop at his country home on the north shore of Long Island. The property is in the name of Mrs. Valentine, who is now at the Miter.

Annoyed by Letters

"I am perfectly willing to make public the whole truth about my domestic affairs," said Mr. Bishop. "I am not afraid of the truth, but I have recently been annoyed by a number of slanderous, anonymous letters, and I hope this will end all doubt about my plans."

"I am determined to marry Mrs. Pauline Valentine. She is the only woman in the world I want, and the only one I have wanted for a long time."

It was suggested that the fact that he had still a legal wife offered some difficulty.

"I know it," he said, "and I can't understand why Mrs. Bishop acts this way. I ought not to have consented to a mere separation. If she wanted to leave me I should have made her get a divorce. She could get one now without any trouble, and why she insists on holding me, a tie that means nothing to either of us, is something I can't understand. I suppose nobody can figure a woman out."

"You see, I didn't think at the time that this situation, could possibly arise. I made everything as smooth as possible for her, and there has never certainly been a question but that I was generous in the matter of settlement. She has both our children and I fixed all of them beyond the reach of want."

"Considerate" for Children

"No, I wouldn't bring suit for divorce at my home in Bridgeport," he went on slowly in reply to a question. "I might be able to win there, because the laws in Connecticut are rather liberal, but I have too much consideration for my wife and children. It would keep public attention fastened on them, and I don't want that."

Mr. Bishop was silent for a few moments and seemed to be thinking deeply.

"No, I have about made up my mind that if Mrs. Bishop cannot be moved to act I will have to go to Reno," he said at last. "But I hate the idea of living there six months."

Mr. Bishop then said that he had the Miter in Mrs. Valentine's name, and that reports to the effect that he was financially involved or embarrassed were utterly untrue.

The first William D. Bishop was president and practically builder of the New Haven road. He was a member of congress under Buchanan, and was later a great friend of President Grant. The William D. Bishop, who is about to begin divorce proceedings, has been active in the railroad and political world. He was beaten for congress but has always been interested in state and national politics. His son, the third William D., is an undergraduate at Yale, and was recently romantically engaged to Blanch West, an actress.

Mrs. Valentine told a reporter she was willing to marry Mr. Bishop if it were necessary to his happiness.

"Yes, I have been a friend of Mr. Bishop's for years," she continued. "Marry him? I would do anything to make him happy. His troubles so far have been too many for him to make any definite plans."

little park a few blocks north was dedicated in 1877 by the late Senator John J. Ingalls.

After a brief stop at the monument the parade will continue to the battlefield two blocks farther on.

Seated on the platform in the park will be five survivors of the battle of Osawatimie.

Immediately after the exercises at the park have been concluded the party will return to the station and the start for Lawrence will be made about 4 o'clock.

WOMAN GONE

SHE DISAPPEARED FROM MAHWAH, N. J.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Mahwah, N. J., the summer rendezvous for numerous notable New Yorkers, is stirred by the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Mary Rudolph, aged 70, one of the fashionable district's wealthiest residents.

Ever since her absence became known on Monday afternoon, searching parties, including prominent persons, have scoured the woods in the vicinity of Mahwah in the hope of finding trace of the missing woman. The search lasted all Monday night and continued yesterday and last night. But up to midnight no clue to the vanished woman had been found.

Mrs. John Van Pelt of Mahwah, daughter of Mrs. Rudolph, appealed yesterday to the authorities and the police took up the hunt. Mrs. Van Pelt said that her mother left the house shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, saying nothing of her intentions, and her daughter thought she had set out for a short walk. At that time Mrs. Rudolph wore a black suit and veil and carried an umbrella. She is described as quite stout and possibly may be identified by a slight affliction of deafness.

Mrs. Van Pelt at first thought that the aged woman had come to New York to visit her son, George Rudolph, who lives at 1801 Sixth avenue. Mr. Rudolph said he had not seen or heard anything from his mother.

INJUNCTION DENIED

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The petition of Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, for a preliminary injunction to restrain Glenn H. Curtiss from interfering with his contracts for flying exhibitions was denied today by Judge Lacombe in the United States circuit court. Hamilton complained that Curtiss blocked his arrangements to appear at the Harvard aeronautical meet.

ROBBED OF JEWELS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Jewels to the value of $4000, the property of Miss Ethel May Davis of Chicago, were stolen from her stateroom on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II during the steamer's voyage from Bremen to this port.

The robbery became known with the arrival of the liner here yesterday, but it took place last Friday morning. Two opportunities were presented. Miss Davis occupied a stateroom with her friend, Mrs. James S. Rodgers. At 2 o'clock on that morning a messenger awoke Miss Davis and delivered a telegram which had been received on the steamer. At 6 o'clock Mrs. Rodgers went on deck, but returned after a few minutes.

Shortly afterward she found that the jewels had disappeared. Search failed to reveal a trace of them or any indication of how they had been abstracted. During Mrs. Rodgers' absence the door of the stateroom was unlocked and Miss Davis was asleep.

A wireless message was set to a detective agency with the request that the steamship be met at quarantine. No trace of the valuables had been found up to the time the steamship reached port yesterday.

STRIKE ALMOST ENDED

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 31.—The strike of the building laborers in this city has almost entirely petered out. There is at present only one job that is not running, the B. F. Smith company's contract at the Textile school. The laborers' union opened a soup kitchen today for the hungry strikers and there were many applicants.

HEINZE IS MARRIED

SOCIALIST CONGRESS

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 31.—Former Pres. Roosevelt came in for a raking incidental to the discussion of anti-militarism at today's session of the international socialist congress. Several speakers turned their guns on the American, the most bitter attack being made by George Ledeboer, a Socialist member of the German reichstag, who described him as a "political drummer." Among other things Herr Ledeboer said:

"He has forgotten that he represents a democratic nation whose existence was due to a revolution. Shame on him for joining the British rulers against Egyptian patriots."

FEAR PARALYSIS IN SCHOOL

FALL RIVER, Aug. 31.—Mayor Coughlin has called a conference for Thursday with the health and school authorities to discuss the infantile paralysis situation. The opening of the school may be delayed by the prevalence of the disease.

The mayor feels that the situation is grave enough to take extraordinary precautions toward safeguarding the school children from contagion.

There was one more case reported yesterday, making the total 50.

It was a citizen of the world, as well as the work of Burr C. Miller of New York and that the event had a world-wide interest, thousands this afternoon will witness the imposing ceremonies of the unveiling of the statue of Thomas Brackett Reed, predecessor of Joseph G. Cannon as speaker of the house of representatives, and congressman from the first Maine district. The seating capacity was limited to 2000, but Western prominence, in the vicinity of the statue, will be packed with spectators, automobiles and carriages.

The statue is of bronze, eight feet high and represents the former speaker in an attitude of repose with a national church.

EX-JUDGE PARKER

Defends the Position of the Supreme Court

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, who wrote the prevailing opinion of the court of appeals in the New York "bake shop case," mention of which was made by Theodore Roosevelt in his recent address to the Colorado legislature, in which the former president criticized the supreme court of the United States, made the following statement today in defense of the supreme court:

"It is safe to assert that the attack upon the supreme court of the United States by Mr. Roosevelt in his address to the legislature of Colorado will not be approved by the bench and bar and the thoughtful people of this country, who appreciate the importance of the judiciary in our governmental system and the necessity for a continuance of the existing public confidence and affection in our courts."

"It happens that in the case of People vs. Lochner, referred to in the address as the 'bake shop case,' the prevailing opinion of the court of appeals of this state was written by myself with concurring opinions by Judges Gray and Vann. Justices O'Brien and Bartlett wrote dissenting opinions; so that in all five opinions were written in the court of appeals showing the appreciation by that court of the fact that the question was a very close one about which minds must differ. Indeed, the fact was made very prominent in the interesting debates around the consultation table as well as in the opinions written."

"The history of this case indicates how narrow was the dividing line between upholding and rejecting the statute."

"The trial judge held the statute constitutional, the appellate division affirmed his decision by a vote of three to two and the court of appeals affirmed the appellate division by vote of four to three. The supreme court of the United States reversed the courts of appeals by a vote of five to four."

"Every Judge in every court gave to this important question his best effort, which is strongly evidenced by the differences of view of the members in the several courts. That fact should be quite sufficient to protect the greatest court in the world from offensive criticism from any source and especially from one who heretofore manifested his dissatisfaction with a department of government which was performing the independent functions conferred upon it by the constitution so as to neither encroach upon its coordinate departments of government nor to allow them to encroach upon it."

WOMAN PROTESTS VOTE

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The recent school election at Rye, whereby William H. Geary, president of the board of education, defeated Mrs. W. H. Parsons by sixteen votes, will be investigated by the state department of education. A petition containing fifty signatures has been filed in appeal at Albany, and a certified copy has also been served on Mr. Geary and the local board of education.

The petitioners assert they have evidence of many illegal votes being cast and also appeal from the decision of the district in voting school accommodations in Edgeland and West Eye districts on the ground that it is an unnecessary expense.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

There is nothing quite so provocative of genuine mirth and lots of it, as to see two gay old boys trying to "whop it up" in a musical comedy performance on the stage. That is why the author has taken the peregrinations of a couple of jolly old rovers as the basis for his story in the piece of that name which is being presented at Lakeview theatre every evening and with matinees all this week.

All the public needs to know is how they finish and what happened in between times is left to the joyous anticipations of the audience. The jolly companions meet at a lawn party at Lester's home and they scheme for a jolly night. Lo! the Pearl, a show girl, is taken into their confidence. Just as things are getting interesting, the jolly rovers are surprised by their wives. Of course their attempted explanations get them into worse complications, and their efforts to extricate themselves furnish no end of fun.

THEATRE VOYONS

One of the hits on the program given today at the Theatre Voyons is a dainty biograph subject, "Wilful Peggy," and it pleases everyone who sees it. Peggy is an Irish lass who marries a great lord and finds it very tiresome to maintain the seclusion and dignified manner required by his family. Her fun loving nature gets her into trouble, but her wit and cleverness always get her out. At last a prank more mad than the others seems to bid fair to get her into serious trouble but she comes out with flying colors and her lord receives additional proofs that she is true to him and that she loves him. "The Three Cherry Pits" is a strong dramatic subject, well presented, and "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" is timely comedy telling of the troubles of a baseball fan whose wife insists on going to the ball game with him. Tomorrow the feature subject is to be "The Yow," a biblical story, magnificently staged and acted in a most impressive manner.

Enjoyed an Outing at Mountain Rock Today

About 1500 poor children are enjoying an outing at Mountain Rock grove today under the auspices of the local branch of the Salvation Army. While Adjutant Harry Hawkins and Mrs. Hawkins of the army have had general charge of the arrangements, the outing was made possible by the generosity of business men and people of Lowell who contributed liberally to the cause.

The weather was ideal for the picnic. It was rather cool about 8 o'clock this morning when the children began to assemble in Paige street, but when the sun rose higher it became warmer and it would be difficult to have chosen a better day.

While there were not as many children in attendance as there have been at the outings conducted by Constable John McManus, it was a very enthusiastic crowd of boys and girls that assembled at the starting point this morning.

Seventeen cars which had been donated by business men and individuals were lined up in Paige and John streets and shortly after 9 o'clock every car was filled between 9 and 9.30 o'clock the New England Provincial Staff band of Boston, Major Sheppard in charge, and Bandmaster Malpass leading, gave an informal concert which was greatly enjoyed by the little ones as well as many grownups, who filled the streets to witness the departure of the merry-makers.

At 2.30 o'clock the band boarded the first car and the signal for the start was given, and the children left for Mountain Rock. There was nothing but cheering and singing going on from the time the cars left this city until they reached the pleasure grounds.

Arriving at Mountain Rock, the children repaired to the pavilion, where lemonade was served and the games were indulged in.

At 12.30 o'clock the baseball grounds was cleared of the children and after the little ones had been formed in line they marched back to the ball grounds, each child being given a box as he or she re-entered the grounds. As soon as the boxes were received the children sought out for comfortable places and started to enjoy the luncheon. Each box contained two sandwiches—one of ham and the other of cheese—a doughnut, a cake and a banana.

After the children's appetites had been appeased, a varied program of sports was carried out, the winners of the different events being awarded suitable prizes. There were sports for the boys and sports for the girls, special sports for the little tots and others for the older children.

Taken as a whole, the affair proved to be a very enjoyable one, and a grand success, and reflects much credit on Adjutant and Mrs. Hawkins.

The return trip to Lowell was made during the latter part of the afternoon.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Starting with a matinee and evening performance next Monday, Labor Day, the theatrical season of 1910-11 will be in full swing at the Opera House and patrons of this theatre will be glad to learn that a fine list of the best in the dramatic and musical line will be seen at this theatre. As the opening attraction for Labor Day, Sept. 5th that earnest and talented portrayal of romantic roles, Daniel Ryan, will be seen in a new play of French Canadian life entitled "The Black Fox." This play which is said to be a well constructed dramatic story of life in the great northwest, permeated with the atmosphere of the Canadian wilds and telling a story that grips the auditor with a tense interest that marks the successful play, is to be given a New York hearing in October and all signs point to a successful New York run for this play. Mr. Ryan's supporting company is said to be an excellent one. The engagement here will be played at popular prices and the sale of seats opens at the box office Thursday morning.

"GIRLS"

Clyde Fitch's greatest comedy "Girls" will be at the Opera House Tuesday, Sept. 6th. No comedy of recent years has made the sustained appeal to the lovers of clever and unique stage writing that "Girls" has, and the fact that all classes and both sexes find it equally diverting is the surest indication the author knew his subject when writing this gently satirical story on the question of women's independence. It will be seen here with all the lavishness as to production and cast that marked its long New York run at Daly's theatre. Seats go on sale Friday morning.

There are two hundred and fifty players in "The Midnight Sons," the famous Lew Fields-Messers, Shubert Broadway theatre production, due here Sept. 9 and 10.

McLain, Tony LeGault, Marie McLain, Henrietta Wheeler and Edna Oliver.

The production is under the musical direction of C. F. Clark. Performances start at 2.30 and 8.15, while seats in advance can be secured at Carter & Sherburne's drug store.

JOHN BROWN PARK

Was Dedicated by Col. Roosevelt This Morning

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., Aug. 31.—Theodore Roosevelt arrived this morning to dedicate as the John Brown park the battlefield of Osawatimie where, over half a century ago, the noted abolitionist and his meagre force fired the first gun in defense of liberty.

Col. Roosevelt was greeted in martial style, cavalry from Fort Riley, a military band from Fort Leavenworth, a company of state troops and hundreds of G. A. R. and Spanish war veterans taking part in the program.

After six hours here amid scenes of the early struggle of the anti-slavery league the ex-president with his party is to continue his trip, going next to Lawrence as the guest of Governor W. R. Stubbs.

Colonel Roosevelt's train is due at Osawatimie at 9.30 over the Missouri Pacific from Pueblo. At the station he will be met by troops G and H. Fifteenth cavalry, which marched fifteen miles from Fort Riley to act as his escort.

The program includes a visit to the Masonic temple where a reception will be held, a journey in automobiles to John Brown's old cabin situated a mile and a half northwest of the town and then luncheon at the state hospital for the insane.

The afternoon exercises are to begin with a parade to be reviewed by Col. Roosevelt.

In line are to be the Thirteenth regiment band from Fort Leavenworth, part of the Fifteenth cavalry, Company D, Kansas National guard, G. A. R. veterans, members of the Women's Relief Corps in autos and civic societies. The modest monument erected to Captain John Brown within a pretty

BODY OF WOMAN

Was Found in Remote Spot of the Scottish Moors

GLASGOW, Aug. 31.—The body of a woman on which there was a large sum of money in notes and gold was found in a remote spot of the Scottish moors last Friday. It was identified on Tuesday as that of Lady Marjorie Gladys Stuart Erskine, second daughter of the Earl of Buchan.

Lady Marjorie was a popular society woman. She was 30 years old. She had been missing for a month. The condition of the body makes it difficult to discover the cause of her death. There is no evidence of foul play, however, and it is believed that she lost her way on the moors and died of exposure.

A man who was searching for white heather found the body lying in a secluded spot on the historic Rock of Craigillachie, whose cliffs rise above Aviemore. Lord Cardross, the brother of the deceased lady, identified the remains from the clothing.

Dropped Out of Sight

Among the papers found on the body was a receipted bill bearing the name of a hotel at Kinross. Inquiries show that Lady Marjorie, accompanied by a maid, arrived at the hotel on July 30. She left the following day, requesting the management to keep any letters sent to her there, as she intended motoring past in a few days.

The maid stayed at Kinross a day longer and then went to Perth. Letters were sent to Lady Erskine at the Kinross hotel. As they remained unanswered her friends and relatives became very anxious and made diligent but unavailing inquiries about her. The maid, who has since returned to London, is being sought to answer questions regarding her mistress' movements.

At present there is nothing to indicate the cause of death. The body is in very bad condition, having apparently lain on the spot where it was found for a month. It was taken to Inverness, where a postmortem will be held.

In Excellent Health

The police are very reticent. They are inclined to accept the theory that death was due to exposure and privation. It is reported that one of the ankles of the deceased shows signs of injury.

It is asserted that at the time of her disappearance Lady Erskine was in excellent health. Her friends are not aware that she had any trouble likely to lead her to commit suicide. Murder for the purpose of robbery is excluded, inasmuch as a considerable sum of money in banknotes and gold was found on the body. There were no signs of violence.

Lady Marjorie surprised her friends in 1904 by entering a hospital in London as a probationary nurse. She was called Nurse Erskine, and her identity was not generally known. She wore the regulation uniform and was always pleasant. Her reason for leaving the institution after a short course was understood to have been because her friends persuaded her.

Worked as a Nurse

While she was at the hospital, Lady Marjorie, like the other probationers, rose at 5 o'clock in the morning, did night duty and helped to scrub the wards. She was a general favorite.

Her engagement to Arthur Broderick, youngest brother of Viscount Middleton, was announced in December, 1908. This caused a sensation. Ten days later it was stated that the marriage would not occur, although the date had been fixed and the banns published. No reason was given for the breaking off of the engagement.

The coroner's jury has returned a verdict ascribing Lady Marjorie's death to exposure and privation, in accordance with the doctor's assumption, based on an examination of the remains. Friends are of the opinion that she either broke or sprained an ankle among the rocks and was unable to walk.

All chances were against her cries being heard in the wild and remote region where her body was found. The weather was stormy early in August and cold enough in the mountains to cause death comparatively soon under such circumstances as seem to have befallen Lady Marjorie.

Lady Marjorie Gladys Stuart Erskine was born in 1880. Lord Cardross is her only brother, but there are an elder and a younger sister, both of whom are married. Lady Muriel, the elder, is the wife of Strathavon Heathcote-Drummond-Willoghby, son of the Earl of Ancaster. Lady Evelyn married Walter Edward Guinness, son of Lord Moagh. The Buchan (pronounced Buck-an) earldom dates back to 1610. It is a Scotch peerage. The present earl is the 14th, the countess, mother of Lady Marjorie, was Rosalie Louise Sartoris. The couple were married in 1876. The family seat is in Linlithgowshire, of which the earl is a deputy-lieutenant.

Kinross is in the Highlands. It is in Inverness county on the Strathspey river, in a very wild and lonely region.

IN ORDER TO PROTECT HER PROPERTY

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—"A Romance of Winter" might be the title of the story of the marriage license issued yesterday to Jeremiah H. Jenkins, 50 years old, and Mrs. Elizabeth Walter, 55 years, were it not for the facts. The address of the couple is 116 Monroe street, Brooklyn. Jenkins is an inspector in the sewer department. A year and a half ago his wife died and Mrs. Walter, then the widow of a newspaperman, took care of her. Her dying wish was that Mrs. Walter take care of the old man.

Jenkins and the widow Walter bought the two-family house in which they live jointly. She has looked after him ever since.

"Mr. Jenkins," said the widow who will be a bride, when seen last night, "believes that he will die soon. He desires to see that I am protected in the matter of the purchase of the house and I am recompensed for my care of him. We have obtained the license and will use it. It is true there is not much affection, but we have the greatest regard for each other."

GIRL WAS KILLED

By a Fall From Fire Escape

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Ethel Baude, four years old, the daughter of William and Helen Baude, was instantly killed last evening by a fall from the fire escape of her parents' home, No. 622 E. One Hundred and Sixty-ninth street.

The family lives on the fifth floor of the six-story apartment, opposite McKim Square. With her sister, two years older, little Ethel was playing house on the fire escape. The father, who is an electrical engineer, was expected home for dinner in a few minutes, and the mother had called the children to come in and get dressed for dinner.

There was a scream, and the little one in some manner not explained had fallen from the escape. It is said she had squeezed through the uprights of the railing.

John Delaney, the janitor of the apartment, saw her fall. She landed on the cement court in the rear of the building. Delaney picked up the body and ran to the home of Dr. Ashley at No. 623, across the street. He said she had been instantly killed. Her skull was fractured and nearly every bone in her body broken.

Another child, Arthur Nuss, five years old, living on the fifth floor of No. 517 East One Hundred and Thirtieth street, was killed by a fall from the fire escape of his home about the same hour as the Baude child.

HOTEL GUESTS WERE GIVEN A SCARE BY FIRE

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—At midnight the guests of the New American House, on Hanover street, were aroused from their slumbers by hearing the house fire alarm ring. When they heard the engines coming they hastily dressed, and gathering together their valuable possessions fled to the office corridor below and to the street.

The fire started in an awning on the fourth floor front and as the lace curtains were flying out the window it caught the curtains. The guest in whose room the curtains were pulled in the house alarm and the clerk rang in the alarm to start the engine and house lines working.

The fire rapidly spread from awning to awning until it seemed that the entire front of the house was ablaze.

Some hastily pulled in an alarm from the new fire box which has just been installed at the corner at Hanover and Portland streets, and it only took a few minutes after the arrival of the fire apparatus until the flames were extinguished and the frightened and half-clad guests were induced to return to their rooms.

The damage was slight and will not be known until today.

REV. DR. BERLE

Says Parents Are Not Fully Acquainted With Children

SAGAMORE BEACH, Aug. 31.—Thousands of parents are less acquainted with their children than their teachers, their pastors, their playmates or their neighbors, was one of the declarations in the paper read by Dr. Berle of Boston before the Sagamore Beach conference on the moral and religious training of the young. Dr. Berle's topic at the forenoon session today was "The Training of the Youth in the Home and the Church."

The clergyman was unexpectedly prevented at the last moment from attending the conference and reading his paper in person and one of the delegates read it for him.

After making his statement concerning the lack of parental acquaintance with children, Dr. Berle said:

"The standing and conspicuous excuse of parents when confronted with the facts about their children is that they never dreamed that such things were possible concerning their children. As a rule, teachers, public officials and the public generally discount the parental opinion of their own children."

"It is because of this fact that the extra-domestic agencies for child training and child education have arisen. Sunday schools, when they first appeared, were opposed, among other reasons for the particular one that religious training was a function of the home. But the home did not do it; hence the Sunday school."

"Young people's societies and the like would never have come into being if the home had been properly organized and the young people trained in it. The public schools today are assuming functions which belong to the home and which, being delegated to an agency outside of the home, makes for disintegration of the unity of home life. Others have been given over to the church, which likewise is today doing scores of things which it has no proper business to be doing. The only reason why it is doing them is because they are not being done in the home. In so far as this is true the church also is a disintegrating force in modern society."

"Judged by opportunity the children of the poorer and middle classes are better bred, morally cleaner and educationally more responsive than those of the families of greater wealth. But this does not compensate them for their fearful losses in the destruction of the home life."

"The home provides the church, the state, or any instrument of the state, in authority. It has the first chance at the child and the best chance. Give the home ideals and principles and every school, every church, every so-

REV. BRO. JOHN

Popular Teacher Leaves St. Patrick's School

Rev. Brother John, who has been associated with the teaching staff of St. Patrick's academy for the past six years and to whom much credit is due for the present standard of the sanctuary choir of the church with which the school is affiliated, will leave this afternoon to join the teaching staff of a parochial school in Worcester, Mass. In the short time that Brother John has been with the boys of St. Patrick's, through his untiring efforts and zeal, he has endeared himself to all, and the school hall of St. Patrick's, where the members of the choir assembled last evening after enjoying their annual picnic at Canobie Lake park, presented a sombre scene when the reverend brother bade the boys among whom he has labored for the past six years, good-bye.

In a few words Brother Osmund, the principal of the academy, who will assume charge of the sanctuary choir upon Brother John's departure, paid a high tribute to the zeal and perseverance of the departing brother. Upon concluding his remarks Brother Osmund called upon Brother John to address the members of the choir. After his remarks Brother John bade each member, individually, farewell. Although regretting to see him depart, the members of the choir are pleased to know that Brother John has been given a more congenial field to labor, as his health has been poor during the past two years, and it is believed that the change will be of benefit to him. Brother Osmund, impressed upon the boys that it was not "a last good-bye," they were given to Brother John and intimated that providing his health shows an improvement within a short time, he will be returned to his duty to continue his work among the boys who he so dearly loved.

BOARD OF POLICE

Enjoyed a Band Concert
Last Night

The regular meeting of the board of police held last night took the form of a band concert, for the feature of the meeting proved to be the concert program carried out by the band of the Eastern-North Institute for colored boys and girls at Cane Spring, near Louisville, Kentucky. Besides the members of the police board there were present Supt. Welch, Clerk Flaherty, newspaper men, a couple of proprietors of Greek coffee houses and a score of newsmen and youngsters, the latter having been attracted to the office by the sound of the music.

The band is composed of eight colored boys who range in age from 8 to 14 years, the big bass drum being pounded by the youngest member of the organization, while the oldest toots through a bass horn. The uniforms worn by the youngsters are of blue and gilt.

The boys are in charge of one of the teachers at the institution, John W. White and Robert H. Brown, another member of the institution. They are making a tour in order to raise funds to finish their education. They came to the meeting last night to obtain a permit to play in the public streets for a day or two. They use the old fashioned method of playing to attract a crowd and then passing the hat.

All three members of the police board, when told of what the band desired, were for having the band come into the office and play several numbers. The band came and played, opening up with "Old Kentucky Home," Next "The American Hallelujah" was played, after which the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Dixie" were rendered in a manner which reflected much credit on the ability of the youngsters.

At the conclusion of the concert the board unanimously presented the band a permit free of charge, to play in the streets of the city for two days.

The board then considered a few minor license applications and later went into brief executive session. It granted the following minor licenses:

Billard and pool; Theophilus Clatsburg, 113 Merrimack street, five tables; Thomas P. Ryan, transfer from 350 Central street to 375 Central street; Thomas McEvoy, 304 Lakeview avenue.

AMES' REPLY

TO THE STATEMENT OF CONGRESSMAN GREENE

FALL RIVER, Aug. 31.—Hon. Butler Ames gave out yesterday his answer to the statements passed upon him by Congressman William S. Greene on the former's campaigning methods in this section of the state. In his reply he said:

"Congressman Greene's attack upon me for daring to fight the bosses and machine in his district is entirely unwarranted and, moreover, is based upon facts. I have so far made no public utterances against Mr. Greene, nor have I publicly or privately threatened to make him sorry if he did not support me against Lodge."

"If Mr. Greene would attend to his business of being a congressman, and not try to dictate the political beliefs of every aspirant for political office in his district, he would command even greater respect from his constituents."

"In my visits to Fall River and New Bedford I have only endeavored to indicate to the legislature who will stand as Ames men against the Lodge machine candidates, thus giving the voters a chance to express their preference. I have not 'damned' anybody's campaign, nor have I promised to do so."

"I am fighting Senator Lodge and his corrupt machine and I hope I am not, therefore, fighting Mr. Ames. If I do fight Mr. Lodge it is because of my party, if I arrange for candidates opposed to his improper political practices, so that the voters may have a chance to vote on that issue, is objection to my part then I am willing to bear the burden."

1000 DELEGATES

At the Waterways Convention
Opened in Providence Today

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 31.—The betterment of waterways throughout the entire country but mainly those in the eastern part of the United States, was the object of discussion among more than 1000 delegates at the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association which opened here today amid great enthusiasm. The visitors, who came from all sections of the country, were greeted by a gaily decorated city and on every side were reminded that the whole state of Rhode Island was trying to make the four days' meeting a memorable one.

The Atlantic Deeper Waterways association was organized in Philadelphia in 1907 by men interested in the development of inland waterways. The purpose of the convention today was to make suggestions that may best bring about the deepening of such waterways and to form plans for a chain of inland waterways stretching from Maine to Florida. The advantage of these canals in the country, it is claimed, would be cheaper freight rates, less loss of life from marine disasters and benefit to the navy in case of war.

The convention was called to order in the convention hall of the Providence Opera House. Rev. Samuel H. Webb of this city gave the invocation, following which Mayor Henry Fletcher of Providence welcomed the delegates. Mayor Fletcher said in part:

"Mr. Chairman and delegates to the third annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association:

"Back of the verbal greeting which it is my privilege and pleasure to extend to you today on behalf of the city of Providence beats in unison of welcome the pulse of a quarter of a million persons. It was here that man received the God-given freedom of religious liberty, a boon obtained, not by force of arms, but by the roar of cannon, the rattle of musketry or the ring of steel, nor yet by threading the devious and oft-times dubious pathway of subtle statecraft, but by the sheer force of the magnetic personality and the prophetic power of Roger Williams, the founder of these plantations. To a city whose birth was amid such circumstances we receive you today."

"To us it seems especially fitting that Providence should play its part in the promotion of the great and magnificent enterprise to which you have pledged your energies. Therefore, we are with you heart and soul in your efforts to develop the inland waterways of this fair land for the fulfillment of your purposes will provide the solution of many an economic problem in the direction of transportation cost, the conservation of time, the elimination of dangers and the consequent protection of life and property that now so frequently pay a costly toll to wind and wave. Finally, your plan means the ultimate bringing together in closer bonds of commercial and therefore national unity of all our people, north, south, east and west."

After Governor Dorr had welcomed the delegates on behalf of the state Congressman William S. Greene of Massachusetts, chairman of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries gave a brief address. Congressman John H. Small of North Carolina then voiced the appreciation of the delegates from the south for the cordial welcome which had been extended to them.

"While I am a loyal son of the south," he said, "yet my colleagues and I from that section have received the same welcome and will, I am sure, receive the same consideration as the delegates from the north for the same great republic, protected by the same laws and loyal to the same flag."

Referring to the purposes of the convention, Congressman Small said: "The bonds of commerce stretching to the remotest boundaries made the resources and prosperity of each section the common heritage of all. During the past nine years the exports from the ports of the South Atlantic and gulf states have increased more than thirty-five per cent, while imports have increased more than one hundred per cent, yet their exports aggregate more than six and a half times the value of their imports."

"Our length of coastline assures us a prominent position in the world's commerce. When the Panama canal shall be opened the trend of inter-oceanic commerce will be southward and the commerce of these ports will receive even greater impetus."

Mr. Small then spoke of the great possibilities of development of 18,215 miles of navigable streams in the south.

"Not alone do these streams furnish navigation," he said, "but inexhaustible and abundant water power. There are in the south not less than five million horsepower, most of which is produced by streams which flow in the south Atlantic states and have their source in the Appalachians. This is considerable under estimate. It is merely suggestive of the wonderful resources of this section when it is all made available."

"The sun is shining, the sun is shining every day at both ends of the Union station in Boston. Don't forget this when taking your train for Lowell."

SHOT HIMSELF

Pistol Found Beside the Body of Man

VINEYARD HAVEN, Aug. 31.—The body of William A. Vanderhoof, aged 54, was found today on the wharf of the New Bedford, Martha's Vineyard & Nantucket Steamboat Co. at Oak Bluffs, where was employed as freight agent by the company, had apparently shot himself in the head late last night and the police declare it a case of suicide. It was presumed that he expected his body to fall off the wharf into the water. No cause for the act is known.

Vanderhoof was unmarried and had lived in Oak Bluffs for 30 years.

JUDGE PARKER

MAY ACT AS COUNSEL FOR THE STRIKERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Announcement was made at the headquarters of the striking cloak makers here yesterday that Judge Alton B. Parker, one time democratic presidential candidate, had been retained as special counsel for the union.

He is to seek a reversal by the higher courts of the recent decision of Justice Goff holding the purpose of the strike to be illegal in that it demanded the closed shop, and the enjoining of the strikers.

Judge Parker is of the opinion that the Goff decision is too sweeping as it forbids the right of peaceful assembly and free speech.

The broad effect of Justice Goff's ruling, which caused some disorder Monday night, became apparent yesterday, when it was announced that picketing of the factories will be stopped by the police.

MAYOR'S MAN

WAS DEFEATED BY SALEM ALDERMEN

SALEM, Aug. 31.—As had been predicted, the board of aldermen last night refused to confirm Mayor Howard's nomination of Sergt. John J. Carr for captain of the police force. The vote against confirmation was 10 to 6. Aldermen Coffey, Wilkins and Whipple voted yes, and Capill, Colbert and Doyle voted yes. The name of Lieut. Lewis A. Manning, the ranking officer, was then presented by the mayor, and under the rules this went over until the next meeting.

It is said to be the intention of Mayor Howard to place in nomination for the lieutenant the name of Sergt. Carr if Lieut. Manning is confirmed for captain.

As a result of his attempt to pass over the heads of several of the officers ranking Sergt. Carr there has been stirred up considerable feeling against the mayor, and charges have been made that he is playing politics and bringing racial and religious issues to the fore. Aldermen Adams, Gifford and Wilkins refused institutions east upon them by the mayor in his newspaper articles accusing them of being influenced by religious prejudices.

Altogether, this afternoon's meeting was a decidedly lively one. There was offered by Alderman Gifford an order that the committee on police and licenses report on the advisability of doing away with the office of sergeant of the police force. Alderman Adams introduced an order to reduce the number of police from 37 to 35. The force was only recently increased one man on account of the illness of the late Capt. Blinn.

Both orders went to the committee on police and licenses.

GOV. PATTERSON

Refuses to Quit the Race

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 31.—Governor Malcolm H. Patterson refuses to quit the fight for renomination, and denounces of the state are reading a statement he is sending through the mails which is as follows: "Owing to the insidious and persistent attempts of the convention was called to order in the convention hall of the Providence Opera House. Rev. Samuel H. Webb of this city gave the invocation, following which Mayor Henry Fletcher of Providence welcomed the delegates. Mayor Fletcher said in part:

"Mr. Chairman and delegates to the third annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association:

"Back of the verbal greeting which it is my privilege and pleasure to extend to you today on behalf of the city of Providence beats in unison of welcome the pulse of a quarter of a million persons. It was here that man received the God-given freedom of religious liberty, a boon obtained, not by force of arms, but by the roar of cannon, the rattle of musketry or the ring of steel, nor yet by threading the devious and oft-times dubious pathway of subtle statecraft, but by the sheer force of the magnetic personality and the prophetic power of Roger Williams, the founder of these plantations. To a city whose birth was amid such circumstances we receive you today."

"To us it seems especially fitting that Providence should play its part in the promotion of the great and magnificent enterprise to which you have pledged your energies. Therefore, we are with you heart and soul in your efforts to develop the inland waterways of this fair land for the fulfillment of your purposes will provide the solution of many an economic problem in the direction of transportation cost, the conservation of time, the elimination of dangers and the consequent protection of life and property that now so frequently pay a costly toll to wind and wave. Finally, your plan means the ultimate bringing together in closer bonds of commercial and therefore national unity of all our people, north, south, east and west."

After Governor Dorr had welcomed the delegates on behalf of the state Congressman William S. Greene of Massachusetts, chairman of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries gave a brief address. Congressman John H. Small of North Carolina then voiced the appreciation of the delegates from the south for the cordial welcome which had been extended to them.

"While I am a loyal son of the south," he said, "yet my colleagues and I from that section have received the same welcome and will, I am sure, receive the same consideration as the delegates from the north for the same great republic, protected by the same laws and loyal to the same flag."

Referring to the purposes of the convention, Congressman Small said: "The bonds of commerce stretching to the remotest boundaries made the resources and prosperity of each section the common heritage of all. During the past nine years the exports from the ports of the South Atlantic and gulf states have increased more than thirty-five per cent, while imports have increased more than one hundred per cent, yet their exports aggregate more than six and a half times the value of their imports."

"Our length of coastline assures us a prominent position in the world's commerce. When the Panama canal shall be opened the trend of inter-oceanic commerce will be southward and the commerce of these ports will receive even greater impetus."

Mr. Small then spoke of the great possibilities of development of 18,215 miles of navigable streams in the south.

"Not alone do these streams furnish navigation," he said, "but inexhaustible and abundant water power. There are in the south not less than five million horsepower, most of which is produced by streams which flow in the south Atlantic states and have their source in the Appalachians. This is considerable under estimate. It is merely suggestive of the wonderful resources of this section when it is all made available."

"The sun is shining, the sun is shining every day at both ends of the Union station in Boston. Don't forget this when taking your train for Lowell."

Brockton and Lowell played a double header at Spalding park this afternoon, about 1800 fans being present to witness the games. Lowell presented Yount on the mound, while Sullivan was on the receiving end of the battery. The Shoe City aggregation had Edwards, a new man on the slab, and Lavigne was behind the bat.

Calls a Halt on the Alleged Swindle Game

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—The "gas bag" of the Co-operative United Exchange, a $20,000,000 get rich quick corporation, organized last April under the laws of Arizona, was punctured yesterday with the arrest of William H. Holcomb, vice president and general counsel, by U. S. postoffice inspectors at the Park row depot following his arrival here from Washington.

Holcomb is charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes. Warrants for the arrest of the acknowledged principals in the big swindling deal have been sworn out and a score of arrests are expected in various parts of the United States by today. Strenuous efforts were put forth by the government officials to keep the arrest a secret and the information only became public through the arraignment of Holcomb before United States Commissioner Mark A. Foote, where he was released in $5000.

Half an hour after the apprehension of Holcomb, the main offices of the concern, room 420 at 139 La Salle street, were raided and a wagonload of literature was confiscated.

The concern was organized at Phoenix, Ariz., in April of this year. Its alleged purpose was to investigate corporations, underwrite bond issues, to sell bond issues and to act as a general financial information bureau. The general offices were located in Chicago, with branches at Phoenix, San Francisco and Washington. According to the post office officials its real purpose was to sell its own $20,000,000 worth of bonds, bonds in the California Sanitarium and Farm company, another alleged wildcat scheme, and to bond "its own employees" at $5 a head in the Metropolitan Deposit and Trust company, another Arizona concern, organized with branches at Phoenix, San Francisco and Washington. A QUEER CRAFT
Is Being Built in New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Boating parties on the Harlem have had their curiosity aroused by a queer craft under construction in a shed at the foot of 212th street. What appears to be the stern projects from the river end of the shed. It is covered by a metallic hood, and not much can be seen of the hull, but a rudder below is plainly discernible. The boat, or whatever it is—some of the neighboring residents say it is a hydroplane, others a hydroplane and aeroplane combined—has been constructed in secret. Signs on the doors and sides of the shed warn visitors that admittance is not allowed under any pretext whatsoever.

The owner of a houseboat lying at the foot of the street next to the shed said yesterday that the queer craft was the production of a Dr. Albertson, who proposed to demonstrate with it a principle in speed or navigation discovered by himself. No work has been done on it for at least a month. The hull appears, so far as it can be seen, to be complete, and some persons in the neighborhood say that the builder is waiting for his motor.

Dr. Albertson until recently had an office in the Marbridge building, at Broadway and 34th street, but he has moved out, and nobody knows where to find him at present. The houseboat man said the doctor's lease of the shed will expire on Sept. 1 and he would then have to take the queer craft out.

MAY INDICT POLICE
In the Alleged Vice Cases in Coney Island

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Police officials responsible for the vice and violations of the law at Coney Island will not be permitted to escape personal responsibility for their negligence if a grand jury investigation and criminal prosecution can establish their guilt. Acting Mayor Mitchell stated last night after a visit to St. James, where Mayor Gaynor is recuperating from his bullet wound, that he would send the affidavits and reports of his investigators to the district attorney of Kings county.

"I did not intend to say tonight what would be done officially with this evidence," explained Mr. Mitchell at his house, "but since you press the question, I will answer that I will do just what I intended to do right along with the evidence of the investigators, and that is, send it to the prosecuting official of the county. I did not send it today because the affidavit with regard to Inman's concert hall had to be used in court in answer to the injunction obtained by the proprietors of that resort."

Acting District Attorney Elder, when informed of the acting mayor's intention, declared that he would do everything in his power to establish the guilt of those in and outside of the police department responsible for the conditions disclosed at the island.

One Case in Hand
Mr. Elder has in hand the prosecution of Police Lieutenant Menegay, who is charged with refusing to listen to the complaint of a Mr. Hesodan, who says he lost his money in Roger's gambling house.

Evidence also of the direct refusal of police officers to prevent robbery and gambling on the public streets in Coney will be placed before the acting district attorney in addition to the reports of Mr. Mitchell's official investigators.

Mr. Elder explained last night just how far the responsibility of the police can be established.

"It is the duty of the police to enforce the law and to inspect suspected places to repress lawless acts," said he. "To protect persons in violation

HAGUE TRIBUNAL
May Render a Decision
by Sept. 10

OTTAWA, Aug. 31.—J. S. Ewart, one of Canada's counsel in the Newfoundland fisheries case recently heard by the Hague tribunal, got back here today.

"Regarding the outcome of the case I can say nothing," said Mr. Ewart. "I should like, however, to correct an impression that got abroad that the arbitrators were unable to speak English. From this the conclusion was drawn that it was a farce to go on with the case, as the judges would find it impossible to follow the arguments. So far is this from being the case the four gentlemen who sat on the bench took part in the debates on various points and were able to express themselves clearly. Dr. Larnach, the president of the tribunal, speaks splendid English and is a gentleman of ability and astuteness."

"There was nothing exceptional in the case, but it was very acceptable to those who desire a development of the principle of arbitration. The conduct of the case was all that could be desired. The members of the American party were friendly and sociable and the arbitrators treated the representatives of both sides with extreme courtesy."

Freed from technical details, Mr. Ewart said the questions submitted were:

1. As to whether the British legislation has the right to make fishery regulations that are binding on United States subjects as well as on British subjects.
2. As to the legality of the employment by Americans of foreigners as crews.
3. Whether or not American fishermen had the right to exercise commercial privileges, viz., to buy bait and other supplies within Newfoundland waters.

"In arguing on this point," said Mr. Ewart, "I used as an example the sealing islands in the possession of the United States, urging the question as to the possibility of Japanese sealers coming to the islands, getting seals and then enjoying commercial privileges which would enable them to carry on the industry. This would be very convenient, but would not be allowed. Mr. Ewart thinks there may be a decision about September 10."

CEAR AND CZARINA IN RESSE
BERLIN, Aug. 31.—The Czar and Czarina arrived safely at Friedberg, Hesse, today. It is figured that 100,000 Russian and German troops were employed in guarding the 1400 miles of railway over which they traveled.

Detectives arrested three supposed Russian terrorists today in the neighborhood of Friedberg.

NO REPLY RECEIVED
LONDON, Aug. 31.—The court has not yet received a reply from the vatican to its protest against criticism of certain members of the government by Mr. Totti, the papal nuncio. ## CAR DYNAMITED

Several Persons Are Reported Injured

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 31.—A Mount Vernon avenue car was dynamited at Sandusky and Broad streets at 7.30 last night. Several injuries were sustained by a woman passenger and by a pedestrian on the sidewalk. Both were rendered unconscious.

The car crew escaped without hurts and the car was not so badly damaged as to prevent its being taken to the car barns with its own power.

Although the trouble occurred in the heart of a district notably in sympathy with the car strike it was not followed by demonstrations of any kind.

W. D. Mahon, international president, and C. O. Pratt, chairman of the Carriers' International union, and a group of other labor leaders from Columbus and other Ohio cities yesterday formally called upon General Manager Stewart of the Columbus Railway and Light company to arbitrate the strike difficulties. Stewart refused. He said that not one man

SHE WILL MARRY
Girl Went Abroad to Study

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Lieut. Bela Schwarz of the Royal Guards of the Austro-Hungarian army came ashore from the Kaiser Wilhelm II. yesterday morning carrying under his arm a bundle of swords. On his face was a happy smile. The lieutenant has come over to get married to Miss Margaret Amelia Bruenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis S. Bruenn of 200 West 118th street. Mr. Bruenn is the superintendent of a branch of one of the life insurance companies.

The bride-to-be, her family and several friends were on the pier to greet the traveler, and one of them said that this was a real genuine romance.

Miss Bruenn, who turned 16 only in July, some six months ago got ahead of her classes in studies. So her mother took her over to Budapest to study there. They had not been in the Hungarian city a month before Lieut. Schwarz turned up and he immediately began to woo.

Such impetuosity did he display that the two were soon engaged and Mrs. Bruenn brought her daughter back here to get the trousseau ready. The marriage will take place next Sunday. The reason why the lieutenant brought his sword along was that he wanted to put on his uniform when he gets married. He also brought the uniform, which is said to be very gorgeous.

PERIL OF MODERNISM
ROME, Aug. 31.—The pope in removing Signor Gentile, president of the Catholic union, insisted on the peril of modernism in all countries and under all forms.

The pontiff said that he had displayed the greatest toleration in the matter of the Sillonists, condemning the society only after repeated complaints on the part of the French episcopate, which had declared that their doctrines contained errors common to all workers for Christian democracy by false interpretations of the precepts of Pope Leo XIII.

ASK MERCY FOR MORSE
OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 31.—N. D. Jordan of Kansas City is in Omaha to get signatures to a monster petition asking the president to pardon Charles W. Morse.

Jordan says that more than 300,000 names have been obtained since the movement began.

It is the intention to secure an even million signatures.

Mr. Jordan got the names of 420 Omaha men yesterday. Mayor Dahlman's name being one of the first on the list.

WON'T INSURE BALLOONERS
PITTSFIELD, Mass., Aug. 31.—Sidney Draw of St. Louis, who had arranged for a series of qualifying flights in the balloon Pittsfield, his object being to get a license as a balloon pilot, has written to the Pittsfield Aero club that he will not make the flights.

He carries large insurance and life and accident companies have threatened to cancel the policies if he takes up ballooning as a sport.

JEWELRY ROBBERY
Reported by Prof. Matthews of Columbia University

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 31.—The third jewelry robbery of the season was reported to the police today by Prof. Brander Matthews of Columbia university, who stated that his house was entered yesterday evening and about $300 worth of jewelry stolen. The property was owned by his daughter, Mrs. Nelson Macy of New York, who was visiting him.

Yesterday Louis Kaufman reported that $500 worth of jewels were stolen from the cottage of Dr. Richard Johnson of Philadelphia on Saturday night, and about a month ago the cottage of Irving Chase of Waterbury, Conn., was entered and jewelry valued at $2000 taken.

REFeree CLINCH
FAVORS AN INCREASE IN ALI-MONY

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Edward S. Clinch, the referee who took testimony on an application by Chauncey P. McKnight, a heating contractor, to amend a decree of separation from Louise S. McKnight, filed his report yesterday refusing to permit Mrs. McKnight to have the custody of two children, a boy of 13 and a girl aged 5 years, for three days a week, although McKnight was willing.

McKnight got the custody of the children on the ground of his wife's intemperance and a ruling that Mrs. McKnight may only call and see the children twice a week. The referee said:

"The children are the wards of the court and their welfare is of supreme importance."

Under the separation decree Mrs. McKnight at first got the children and the use of a house at 520 West 175th street. Then her husband took them away and when Mrs. McKnight tried to get them back by habeas corpus proceedings she lost. McKnight asked that his wife give up the house, but that she be allowed to have the children, and that question came up before the referee, who decided that she must give up the house, but increased her alimony from $15 a week to $20.

HUNGARIAN TREASURER HELD
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—George Kolath, who is also known as Ernest Kern, was arrested yesterday by United States Marshal Henkel on a warrant issued at the instance of Alexander von Nuber, the Austro-Hungarian consul-general in this city. Kolath was formerly treasurer of Eszterhazy, a village in Hungary. Last March he left Hungary and after his departure it was found that 30,000 kronen in cash and 25,000 kronen in securities were missing from the village treasury.

Recently the police of Budapest arrested an American in that city named John Zorut. It does not appear why Zorut was arrested, but the police learned that he knew Kolath. Through him they learned that Kolath was in New York. The arrested man was found at 247 Avenue A and his arrest followed. It is said that Kolath owns the house at that address.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Corinne Bella Dr. Blou, the actress, better known as Corinne, head of one of the "Mile. Mischiefs" companies, won yesterday her suit against Clarence M. Busch, a real estate broker at 69 Wall street, to compel him to surrender to her jewelry which values at $30,000, upon the payment of $7000 which Busch loaned her, with interest from December, 1908. Busch asserted that he held a bill of sale for the jewelry and would not permit the actress to redeem it.

The suit was tried before Supreme Court Justice Bischoff last June and he gave his decision yesterday, ruling that Corinne may have until next December to redeem the jewelry. It consists of a sunburst containing 800 diamonds, a solitaire diamond of 40 carats, and a Swiss watch encrusted with diamonds. The jewelry had been pledged with a Sixth avenue pawnbroker for $5800, when Corinne got a friend to try to raise $7000 to keep the pawnbroker from selling it. The money obtained from Busch was used for that purpose.

6 O'CLOCK LARCENY CHARGED

Man Found Guilty and Was Fined $50

Bernard F. Molloy was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of 24 pairs of shoes from the Western avenue freight house of the Boston & Maine railroad. He entered a plea of guilty through his counsel, Joseph E. Loughran, and being found guilty by the court was ordered to pay a fine of $50 within three days or be committed to jail for three months.

Molloy was employed as a driver by the Lowell Weaving Co. and had occasion to visit the freight office several times a week. On February 26th he went to the freight house and took a box of shoes which had been consigned to a firm in New Orleans.

The court in imposing the fine said that he did so because he understood that the defendant had a wife and family dependent upon him, but if the conditions were different a jail sentence would have been imposed.

Spoiled His Case

John J. Devine, who is more familiarly known as "Shorty," proved to be the principal attraction in police court this morning. Despite the fact that the testimony offered by the arresting officer was rather damaging it looked as though Devine was going to be placed on probation. He was evidently of that opinion also and became rather flippant in his remarks which led to his being sentenced to the state farm.

When Devine was asked to plead to a complaint charging him with being drunk, he shouted "not guilty." Patrolman Markham testified that he found Devine in an intoxicated condition in a cellar in Fenwick street and Patrolman Goggin, who was at the police station when Devine was being booked, testified that the defendant he could not stand before.

Devine testifying in his own behalf said he was not drunk as he had taken but two drinks of beer yesterday.

"How many times have you been here?" asked Judge Hadley.

"I don't know, a good many," was the answer.

"Have you any idea how many times you have appeared before me?"

"Too many times to count to memory," was Devine's answer.

At this point the court asked Probation Officer Slattery if he had any confidence in the defendant and also if he desired to take him on probation. Devine feeling that he was going to escape imprisonment started to smile and went as far as winking at the gallery, but this apparently proved to be his undoing for instead of being placed on probation he was sent to the state farm.

Thomas Hart, who was arrested with Devine, also entered a plea of not guilty, but he was found guilty and also will go to the state farm.

Case Dismissed
The case of Peter Demoulacos, charged with assault with a knife on Peter Heonakos, was dismissed after

Judge Hadley had learned the circumstances connected with the affair. The pair got into an argument last week and after some words had been passed Demoulacos and Heonakos started to mix it up. The defendant was cutting broad at the time the argument started and when Heonakos made a motion as if to hit him, he raised the hand which held the knife with the result that two of Heonakos' fingers were cut.

Withdrew Their Appeals

Frederick J. Vallery, who was recently sentenced to six months in jail and appealed, appeared in police court this morning and withdrew his appeal. Elizabeth F. Gennell, who also appealed from a three months' sentence to jail, withdrew her appeal.

Other Offenders

John C. Crowley, drunk, was sentenced to the state farm. John F. Leary was given a suspended sentence of five months in jail. Denis F. Sullivan, Frank McNamara and Marcelle Tessier were fined $5 each, and three first offenders escaped with $2 fines.

RIBS BROKEN

CHILD WAS TRAMPED BENEATH HORSE'S HOOF

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Martin Reynolds, Jr., 3 years old, of 86 Lawn street, Roxbury, was knocked down while playing in the street yesterday afternoon by a horse driven by Samuel Assessor. The child was tramped beneath the horse's hoofs and had three ribs broken, in addition to severe internal injuries.

The little boy was running to the house in answer to a call from his mother when the horse ran against him, knocking him down. The screams of the child's mother so bewildered the driver that he tried to back the horse off the boy, instead of allowing the bystanders to take him from under the animal's feet. In this way the child was again tramped upon.

FREIGHT RATE ADVANCE

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—James Peabody, statistician of the Santa Fe system, belittled the effect of the proposed freight rate advance before the interstate commerce committee here today. "If the proposed advance were to be put into effect and to remain in effect for one year," said Mr. Peabody, "the Santa Fe would earn only $94,000 more than it is earning right now."

ADMITS KILLING STEPBROTHER

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—When arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Nash in the Myrtle avenue court, Brooklyn, James C. Egan, 20 years old, admitted that the stab wounds from which his stepbrother, Patrick Rhale, died on Monday at the Swedish hospital, were inflicted by him at their home, 772 Bergen street. He said that while he was trying to protect their mother from his abuse his stepbrother attacked him and that he used the knife to defend himself. Egan was held without bail for examination on September 8. All that Rhale would say when dying at the hospital was: "Never mind, I know who stabbed me."

DRIVER WAS KILLED

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—A West Shore railroad passenger train struck a sand wagon owned by the Nagel Contracting company at an unprotected crossing of the Weehawken branch at Baldwin avenue, Weehawken, yesterday. John Strodel, 45 years old, of 125 Blum street, Union Hill, who was driving, was instantly killed. The wagon was smashed, but the horse was uninjured. Strodel's body was taken to Undertaker Sharpe's morgue in Union Hill. The crossing is much used by teams. A sign alongside the tracks announces that it is a "private crossing."

KILLED BY DOORS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Thomas Kenny, 30 years old, of 498 Bergen avenue, Jersey City, was crushed to death yesterday afternoon by seven fireproof doors which fell upon him as he was helping to take them from a freight car at 449 Communipaw avenue, that city. The doors were constructed of concrete, sandvust and steel and weighed a ton apiece. The body was sent to Hughes's morgue.

PLAYGROUND FETE

SKETCHES AT THE PLAYGROUNDS FESTIVAL YESTERDAY

The Finest Children's Pageant Ever Witnessed in This City

The boys' races in connection with the closing of the playgrounds and postponed from yesterday were run off on the South common this forenoon. The spectators numbered perhaps less than 1000, but the boys were just as much in earnest as though standing room on the common was at a premium. The prizes, too, were awarded this forenoon.

Chief Supervisor George C. Wilton had the boys all in readiness for the first race, which was a relay race, at 10 o'clock. Some of the boys wore shoes, some wore sneakers while others were barefooted. There was no such thing as holding one's head or hands in a certain position. The boy was allowed to run with his head bowed low or turned back. There was but one object in view and that was to get there first. It was a lively scene and one could not but be impressed with the earnestness of the runners and their desire for fair play. "This is one of the many splendid things brought about by proper supervision of playgrounds. The boy is taught to give and take, and the boy who a few months ago would threaten to smash the other fellow's jaw because of some little accident of slip-up that hurt his flesh or his feelings, has learned to see things in a different light and to accept with a smile the little cuffs and knocks that go with the game."

The pretty and inspiring scene on the South common yesterday afternoon is the talk of the town today. The attendance at the festival which marked the season's end of supervised playgrounds was attended by more than 10,000 people, an attendance far beyond the expectations of those most interested in the playground movement in this city. It was a sight that one could not well afford to miss and the cheers that went up for the girls in their dances and the boys in their games proved the interest of the crowd. The little girls in their dances presented a very charming picture and one long to be remembered. Many were heard to say that it was one of the prettiest sights ever witnessed in Lowell and to Miss Anna Moran and her assistants great credit is due for the splendid training so expertly demonstrated on the South common yesterday afternoon. That so much could be accomplished in a few months seemed almost incredible, but the proof was there. None of the dances, to be sure, were very difficult or intricate, but there was a good deal to them and the children did that good deal well.

An Irish jig and Highland fling were pretty features. Miss Mildred J. Tucker, who had presented Miss Moran a five dollar gold piece in behalf of the children from the South common, danced the Irish jig, and danced it to perfection, concluding her graceful yet vigorous movements with a wave of the Irish flag.

MISS ANNA MORAN
The Supervisor of Girls' Games

Forty pretty misses in Highland costume gave a Highland fling and preceded the dancing of the group were two solo dances, by Stella Maloney and Madeline O'Donnell. This number was danced to the music of "Money Musk" by the orchestra.

This dance concluded the girls' portion of the program, and the participants went to the piano and sang two verses of "America."

It was announced at this time that Nellie Thomas had won a gold bracelet for good behavior during the summer.

Assisting Miss Moran during the festival, and in fact throughout the summer session were Misses Dorothy Barclay, Pauline Coggeshall, Gretchen Billings, Regina B. Frappier, Mildred H. Dunn, Rose C. Geary and Mabel E. Deckerdorff.

The boys' games were started just as soon as the girls got away from the ball grounds. The 60 yards dash took not fewer than 15 trial heats to finish. The winners of the various heats were: 1st, Albert Carmody; 2d, John Bowers; 3d, George Looby; 4th, Henry Sullivan; 5th, Demarion; 6th, Walter Bruce; 7th, Noel; 8th, Harold Lake; 9th, William Newhall; 10th, James Kane; 11th, John Callahan; 12th, Percy Greenwood; 13th, James Bruin; 14th, John Nevinska; and 15th, Tony Medina. The winners of the event in the finals were: First, Albert Carmody; Second, James Kane; third, Tony Medina; and fourth, John Bowers. Altogether over 125 heats started in this event.

In the 75 yards dash the heats were won by the following: 1st, Henry McNulty; 2d, Leandro Marion; 3d, Russell Sullivan; 4th, Thomas Horgan; 5th, John Nevinska; 6th, Michael Murphy; 7th, Di George; 8th, Thomas Donnelly; 9th, William O'Brien; 10th, Noel, and 11th, McDermott. The winners in the finals were: 1st, Henry McNulty; 2d, Leandro Marion; 3d, Russell Sullivan; and 4th, Omer Noel.

There were four heats in the 100 yards dash, for the larger boys, the winners of the heats being: 1st, George McDermott; 2d, Harold Devine; 3d, Michael Murphy; and 4th, Arthur Archambault. The finals went as follows: 1st, McDermott; 2d, Devine; 3d, Murphy; and 4th, Archambault. There was considerable rivalry evident between McDermott and Devine, and the former won by a few inches.

A midge's race, for a distance of 100 yards, was run in five heats, the winners of the heats being: 1st, Lambert, 2d, Richard O'Malley and Arthur McNally tied, 3d, Jimmy Bruin; 4th,

N. Y. POLITICAL SITUATION

BEVERLY, Aug. 31.—The New York political situation loomed up again in Beverly today when District Attorney Henry A. Wise of New York city and Representative W. S. Bennett, also of the metropolis, arrived here seeking interviews with the president. They did not come together, and the fact that the visits came on the same day was said to be a coincidence and nothing more. The president was golfing when they reached the executive office this morning but they were told the president would see them during the afternoon.

Mr. Bennett has been mentioned for the republican gubernatorial nominal. President Taft's last intimation of his attitude was that he was going to leave the New York situation entirely to the party leaders in that state, including Col. Roosevelt, of course. Mr. Taft feels he made his position quite clear enough in his letter to Mr. Griscom.

The president this afternoon will lay the cornerstone of the new Y. M. C. A. building in this city. Last year he headed the subscription list for the structure.

Edward McDermott; 5th, Emil Treault and 6th, Joseph Carmody. Carmody won in the finals, and the other winners were McDermott, Lambert and Allen, although the latter was not listed as the winner of a trial heat.

The bag race furnished much amusement. Partell won it, with Carmody second; Espinola, third, and Mann fourth. A peanut scramble gave 100 lads a chance for fun. A big paper bag was opened and thousands of the peanuts were scattered broadcast. The scramble didn't last long, but it was a very hot affair while it was on. No eyes were lost, nor were limbs broken, but there were numerous bruises and scratches in evidence when it was over.

G. C. Wilton, head supervisor of the boys' work, decided that the high jumps, in three classes would end affairs for the day. In Class "C," for boys between 14 and 16 years of age, the winners were: 1st, McDermott; 2d, Devine; 3d, Roane; and 4th, Horgan. In Class "D," for boys between 12 and 14 years of age, the winners were: 1st, Foster; 2d, Looby; 3d, Flanagan, McGrath and Dunn, tied. In Class "A," for boys under 12 years of age, the winners were: 1st, Armstrong; 2d, Callahan; 3d, Brunelle, and 4th, McAndrews and Reynolds tied. These boys were jumped off this morning, at which time the prizes were awarded, and some matters about the baseball game of the season adjusted. Charles R. Church had charge of the high jumping.

The officers of the boys' part of the festival were: Clerk of course, Christopher Scario, physical director at the Y. M. C. A.; Cheney of Lawrence and G. C. Wilton; starter, C. P. Dodge; announcer, Charles H. Church; scorer, R. R. Gumb and judge, T. R. Williams, of the Y. M. C. A.

TODAY'S EVENTS

The results of today's athletic events on the South common were as follows: Double relay race, Class A, won by J. Callahan's team.

Double relay race, Class B, won by George Tighe's team.

Double relay race, Class C, won by H. Devine's team.

One mile run, free for all (28 starters)—First, Martin Hayden; second, Harold Devine; third, Welch; fourth, Forges. Time—5 minutes.

The Supervisors

Head Supervisor of Playgrounds George C. Wilton and Miss Anna Moran, supervisor-in-chief of the girls, have done an excellent work during their time in Lowell, because they are both well qualified for the work.

Mr. Wilton took the playground work in New York and in his examination for teacher he scored 100. Mr. Wilton is an enthusiastic worker and his work in Lowell as elsewhere has been very satisfactory.

Miss Moran is a graduate of the Pose Normal School of Gymnastics, Boston. Her home is in Springfield and she was engaged in playground work in her home city before coming to Lowell. Miss Moran is very much in love with the playground work, but she realizes that her energy has been severely taxed and for the next six weeks she will enjoy a well deserved and much needed rest.

The prizes awarded the double relay teams this morning consisted of bananas, each runner receiving a dozen bananas. The baseball pennant winners each received watch fobs. The members of the team winning second place received a half pound box of candy each. Members of the third team received popcorn packages.

Total Playground Attendance

The total playground attendance for the season was, as near as could be calculated, as follows:

Alken Street—July, 2000; August, 2500.

North common—July, 8000; August, 8800.

South common—July, 12,000; August, 14,500; making a grand total of 18,000.

Total attendance at swimming classes, 800. Number of boys taught to swim, 100.

PIRATE CAUGHT IN CHASE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Three river pirates who declared they were cautious inspectors boarded the steamer Shawmut at Reed street wharf on the Delaware river yesterday and proceeded to rob the Norwegian crew of all their valuables. When they attempted to hold up the cook, who is an American, they were obliged to retreat in a hurry.

A party along the river front followed the three of the men escaped, but the third was caught. It was necessary to take him aboard the police boat to prevent the sailors from pummeling him.

RAJAH IS DEAD

Was New York Zoo's Big Tiger

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Rajah, the big tiger of the Bronx zoo, paced restlessly back and forth in his cage yesterday afternoon at feeding time yesterday afternoon because of his hunger. Schwartz and Grove to bring him his dinner. The nearer they came the more impatient he got, for he was very hungry. Finally it was his turn and Rajah stood there lashing his tail while Schwartz selected the largest chunk of meat in the basket and tossed it between the bars.

The tiger began to gnaw at the meat, gulping it down in great bites. Before the keepers had passed on to the adjoining cage and before they had time to realize that anything was wrong, Rajah had choked to death. He gasped for a few seconds, struggled a little and then lay still.

Schwartz and his partner made mighty sure that the dead was dead before they ventured into the cage, too, for Rajah had the reputation of being one of the ugliest tigers in the country, although one of the finest. One of the other keepers suggested last night that Rajah had throat trouble and that it was the throat trouble that killed him. Dr. W. Reid Blair, the veterinarian of the zoo, will perform an autopsy today to find out.

Rajah was caught in India thirteen years ago when less than a year old by a Hagenback expedition. When Director Hornaday went to Europe in 1902 to buy a tiger for the Bronx zoo he selected Rajah as the finest specimen in Europe and paid $1,000 for him. The money was donated by the late Charles T. Barney. What attracted Director Hornaday was the animal's massive head and shoulders. He weighed 300 pounds and was nine and a half feet long.

A mate was obtained for Rajah at the same time, but he mauled her and abused her so that it was necessary to separate them at the end of the year. Since that time Rajah had occupied solitary quarters. He was always admired, but he never became a favorite because he was vicious and ugly.

Kroper Hornaday said last night that a male tiger was ordered from agents in Siberia nine months ago. Men who were sent out into the eastern part of the country succeeded in catching one and he is expected here within the next three weeks. The Siberian tigers, said Mr. Hornaday, are the largest of all. The new arrival will occupy Rajah's cage.

SEEK TIN BOX

It is Said to Contain $30,000

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Special Surrogate Joseph M. Wilkes of Montgomery arrived in the city yesterday in quest of a tin box that is presumed to contain upward of $30,000 that is in storage in some banking institution in Newburgh or elsewhere.

John Hinkley of Montgomery died a few months ago. He had been a recluse for years, and during two years past had been more or less of an invalid. When his father died many years ago he left to the son a life interest in a fine farm in the town of Wallkill. This Hinkley leased for $250 a year, being just sufficient to pay his board. He was well to do in his own right and his father preferred to deed his farm to those whom he wanted to have it on the death of his son. Seven or eight years ago Hinkley, who was ill, withdrew and dictated to him his will, whereby he too made provision for the distribution of the property. In doing so he referred to his railroad bonds and stock.

Two years ago Hinkley was stricken with paralysis. A few months later a second attack with apoplexy caused his death. The woman with whom he boarded said that during his illness just prior to his death he had told her that the executors of his will would find all his papers, bonds, etc., in a tin box he had left at a bank. His voice was low and indistinct. She is under the impression that he said at Newburgh. When Wilkes heard of it, he remembered drawing the will, and going to his safe he found the instrument duly witnessed and attested, and being surrogate for this month he set out to find the box. Yesterday morning he visited every bank in Newburgh, but without avail. There was no clue to the box and no one seemed to know Hinkley.

At the Newburgh Savings Bank was found a small balance of an account that had been of years standing, showing that there had been no attempt to squander money, hence whatever he had in the way of vested funds must be safe somewhere. A search will be made of all the banking institutions in Orange and adjoining counties.

TO WED MANICURE

Millionaire to Get a Divorce From His Wife

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—William D. Bishop, former secretary and director of the New Haven railroad, and millionaire grandson of its founder, announced yesterday his intention of getting a divorce from his wife, from whom he separated three years ago, in order to marry Mrs. Pauline Valentine, until recently a manicurist, with a parlor on Fifth avenue.

Mr. Bishop declared that if he found it impossible to secure a divorce in the east he would go to Reno and live the necessary six months in Nevada.

Mrs. Bishop was Miss Susan Blackburn, the daughter of a former minister to France and a member of a family that has played a leading part in the politics of three great states. It is expected she will fight the suit, if it is brought in New York or Connecticut, which is the legal residence of the former railway magnate.

A reporter saw Mr. Bishop at his country home on the north shore of Long Island. The property is in the name of Mrs. Valentine, who is now at the Miter.

Annoyed by Letters

"I am perfectly willing to make public the whole truth about my domestic affairs," said Mr. Bishop. "I am not afraid of the truth, but I have recently been annoyed by a number of scandalous, anonymous letters, and I hope this will end all doubt about my plans."

"I am determined to marry Mrs. Pauline Valentine. She is the only woman in the world I want, and the only one I have wanted for a long time."

It was suggested that the fact that he had still a legal wife offered some difficulty.

"I know it," he said, "and I can't understand why Mrs. Bishop acts this way. I ought not to have consented to a mere separation. If she wanted to leave me I should have made her get a divorce. She could get one now without any trouble, and why she insists on holding me, a tie that means nothing to either of us, is something I can't understand. I suppose nobody can figure a woman out."

"You see, I didn't think at the time that this situation could possibly arise. I made everything as smooth as possible for her, and there has never certainly been a question but that I was generous in the matter of settlement. She has both our children and I fixed all of them beyond the reach of want."

"Considerate" for Children
"No, I wouldn't bring suit for divorce at my home in Bridgeport," he went on slowly in reply to a question. "I might be able to win there, because the laws in Connecticut are rather liberal, but I have too much consideration for my wife and children. I would keep public attention fastened on them, and I don't want that."

Mr. Bishop was silent for a few moments and seemed to be thinking deeply.

"No, I have about made up my mind that if Mrs. Bishop cannot be moved to act I will have to go to Reno," he said at last. "But I hate the idea of living there six months."

Mr. Bishop then said that he had the Miter in Mrs. Valentine's name, and that reports to the effect that he was financially involved or embarrassed were utterly untrue.

The first William D. Bishop was president and practically builder of the New Haven road. He was a member of congress under Buchanan, and was later a great friend of President Grant. The William D. Bishop, who is about to begin divorce proceedings, has been active in the railroad and political world. He was beaten for congress but has always been interested in state and national politics. His son, the third William D., is an undergraduate at Yale, and was recently romantically engaged to Blanche West, an actress.

Mrs. Valentine told a reporter she was willing to marry Mr. Bishop if it were necessary to his happiness.

"Yes, I have been a friend of Mr. Bishop's for years," she continued. "I have known him since he was a boy. I would do anything to make him happy. His troubles so far have been too many for him to make any definite plans."

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., Aug. 31.—Theodore Roosevelt arrived this morning to dedicate as the John Brown park the battlefield of Osawatomie where, over half a century ago, the noted abolitionist and his meagre force fired the first gun in defense of liberty.

Col. Roosevelt was greeted in martial style, cavalry from Fort Riley, a military band from Fort Leavenworth, a company of state troops and hundreds of G. A. R. and Spanish war veterans taking part in the program.

After six hours here amid scenes of the early struggle of the anti-slavery league the ex-president with his party is to continue his trip, going next to Lawrence as the guest of Governor W. R. Stubbs.

Colonel Roosevelt's train is due at Osawatomie at 3.30 over the Missouri Pacific from Pueblo. At the station he will be met by troops G and H. Fifteenth cavalry, which marched fifteen miles from Fort Riley to act as his escort.

The program includes a visit to the Masonic temple where a reception will be held, a journey in automobiles to John Brown's old cabin situated a mile and a half northwest of the town and then luncheon at the state hotel for the insane.

The afternoon exercises are to begin with a parade to be reviewed by Col. Roosevelt.

In line are to be the Thirteenth regimental band from Fort Leavenworth, part of the Fifteenth cavalry, Company D. Kansas National guard, G. A. R. veterans, members of the "Women's Relief Corps" in autos and civic societies. The modest monument erected to Captain John Brown within a pretty little park a few blocks north was dedicated in 1877 by the late Senator John J. Ingalls.

After a brief stop at the monument the parade will continue to the battlefield two blocks farther on.

Seated on the platform in the park will be the survivors of the battle of Osawatomie.

Immediately after the exercises at the park have been concluded the party will return to the station and the start for Lawrence will be made about 4 o'clock.

WOMAN CONE
SHE DISAPPEARED FROM MAHWAH, N. J.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Mahwah, N. J., the summer rendezvous for numerous notable New Yorkers, is stirred by the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Mary Rudolph, aged 70, one of the fashionable district's wealthiest residents.

Ever since her absence became known on Monday afternoon, searching parties, including prominent persons, have scoured the woods in the vicinity of Mahwah in the hope of finding trace of the missing woman. The search lasted all Monday night and continued yesterday and last night. But up to midnight no clue to the vanished woman had been found.

Mrs. John Van Pelt of Mahwah, daughter of Mrs. Rudolph, appealed yesterday to the authorities and the police took up the hunt. Mrs. Van Pelt said that her mother left the house shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, saying nothing of her intentions, and her daughter thought she had set out for a short walk. At that time Mrs. Rudolph wore a black suit and veil and carried an umbrella. She is described as quite stout and possibly may be identified by a slight affliction of deafness.

Mrs. Van Pelt at first thought that the aged woman had come to New York to visit her son, George Rudolph, who lives at 1001 Sixth avenue. Mr. Rudolph said he had not seen or heard anything from his mother.

INJUNCTION DENIED
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The petition of Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, for a preliminary injunction to restrain Glenn H. Curtiss from interfering with his contracts for flying exhibitions was denied today by Judge Lacombe in the United States circuit court. Hamilton complained that Curtiss blocked his arrangements to appear at the Harvard aeronautical meet.

ROBBERED OF JEWELS
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Jewels to the value of $4000, the property of Miss Ethel May Davis of Chicago, were stolen from her stateroom on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II during the steamer's voyage from Bremen to this port.

The robbery became known with the arrival of the liner here yesterday, but it took place last Friday morning. Two opportunities were presented. Miss Davis occupied a stateroom with her friend, Mrs. James S. Rodgers. At 2 o'clock on that morning a messenger awoke Miss Davis and delivered a telegram which had been received on the steamer. At 6 o'clock Mrs. Rodgers went on deck, but returned after a few minutes.

Shortly afterward she found that the jewels had disappeared. Search failed to reveal a trace of them or any indication of how they had been abstracted. During Mrs. Rodgers' absence the door of the stateroom was unlocked and Miss Davis was asleep.

A wireless message was set to a detective agency with the request that the steamship be met at quarantine. No trace of the valuables had been found up to the time the steamship reached port yesterday.

STRIKE ALMOST ENDED
NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 31.—The strike of the building laborers in this city has almost entirely petered out. There is at present only one job that is not running, the B. F. Smith company's contract at the Textile school. The laborers' union opened a soup kitchen today for the hungry strikers and there were many applicants.

HEINZE IS MARRIED

SOCIALIST CONGRESS
COPENHAGEN, Aug. 31.—Former Pres. Roosevelt came in for a raking incidental to the discussion of anti-militarism at today's session of the international socialist congress. Several speakers turned their guns on the American, the most bitter attack being made by George Leidebour, a Socialist member of the German reichstag, who described him as a "political drummer." Among other things Herr Leidebour said:

"He has forgotten that he represents a democratic nation whose existence was due to a revolution. Shame on him for joining the British rulers against Egyptian patriots."

FEAR PARALYSIS IN SCHOOL
FALL RIVER, Aug. 31.—Mayor Connelley has called a conference for Thursday with the health and school authorities to discuss the infantile paralysis situation. The opening of the school may be delayed by the prevalence of the disease.

The mayor feels that the situation is grave enough to take extraordinary precautions toward safeguarding the school children from contagion.

There was one more case reported yesterday, making the total 50.

Was Found in Remote Spot of the Scottish Moors

GLASGOW, Aug. 31.—The body of a woman on which there was a large sum of money in notes and gold was found in a remote spot of the Scottish moors last Friday. It was identified on Tuesday as that of Lady Marjorie Gladys Stuart Erskine, second daughter of the Earl of Buchan.

Lady Marjorie was a popular society woman. She was 30 years old. She had been missing for a month. The condition of the body makes it difficult to discover the cause of her death. There is no evidence of foul play, however, and it is believed that she lost her way on the moors and died of exposure.

A man who was searching for white heather found the body lying in a secluded spot on the historic Rock of Craighallach, whose cliffs rise above Aviemore. Lord Cardross, the brother of the deceased lady, identified the remains from the clothing.

Dropped Out of Sight

Among the papers found on the body was a receipted bill bearing the name of a hotel at Kingussie. Inquiries show that Lady Marjorie, accompanied by a maid, arrived at the hotel on July 30. She left the following day, requesting the management to keep any letters sent to her there, as she intended motoring past in a few days.

The maid stayed at Kingussie a day longer and then went to Perth. Letters were sent to Lady Erskine at the Kingussie hotel. As they remained unanswered her friends and relatives became very anxious and made diligent but unavailing inquiries about her. The maid, who has since returned to London, is being sought to answer questions regarding her mistress' movements.

At present there is nothing to indicate the cause of death. The body is in very bad condition, having apparently lain on the spot where it was found for a month. It was taken to Inverness, where a postmortem will be held.

In Excellent Health

The police are very reticent. They are inclined to accept the theory that death was due to exposure and privation. It is reported that one of the ankles of the deceased shows signs of injury.

It is asserted that at the time of her disappearance Lady Erskine was in excellent health. Her friends are not aware that she had any trouble likely to lead her to commit suicide. Murder for the purpose of robbery is excluded, inasmuch as a considerable sum of money in banknotes and gold was found on the body. There were no signs of violence.

Lady Marjorie surprised her friends in 1904 by entering a hospital in London as a probationary nurse. She was called Nurse Erskine, and her identity was not generally known. She wore the regulation uniform and was always pleasant. Her reason for leaving the institution after a short course was understood to have been because her friends persuaded her.

Worked as a Nurse

While she was at the hospital, Lady Marjorie, like the other probationers, rose at 6 o'clock in the morning, did duty and helped to scrub the wards. She was a general favorite.

Her engagement to Arthur Broderick, youngest brother of Viscount Middleton, was announced in December, 1908. This caused a sensation. Ten days later it was stated that the marriage would not occur, although the date had been fixed and the banns published. No reason was given for the breaking off of the engagement.

The coroner's jury has returned a verdict ascribing Lady Marjorie's death to exposure and privation, in accordance with the doctor's assumption, based on an examination of the remains. Friends are of the opinion that she either broke or sprained an ankle among the rocks and was unable to walk.

All chances were against her cries being heard in the wild and remote region where her body was found. The weather was stormy early in August and cold enough in the mountains to cause death comparatively soon under such circumstances as seem to have befallen Lady Marjorie.

Lady Marjorie Gladys Stuart Erskine was born in 1880. Lord Cardross is her only brother, but there are an elder and a younger sister, both of whom are married. Lady Muriel, the elder, is the wife of Strathavon Heathcote-Drummond-Wilburghy, son of the Earl of Ancaster. Lady Evelyn married Walter Edward Guinness, son of Lord Mervill. The Buchan (pronounced Buck-an) earldom dates back to 1610. It is a Scotch peerage. The present earl is the 14th, the countess, mother of Lady Marjorie, was Rosalie Louise Sartoris. The couple were married in 1876. The family seat is in Linlithgowshire, of which the earl is a deputy-lieutenant.

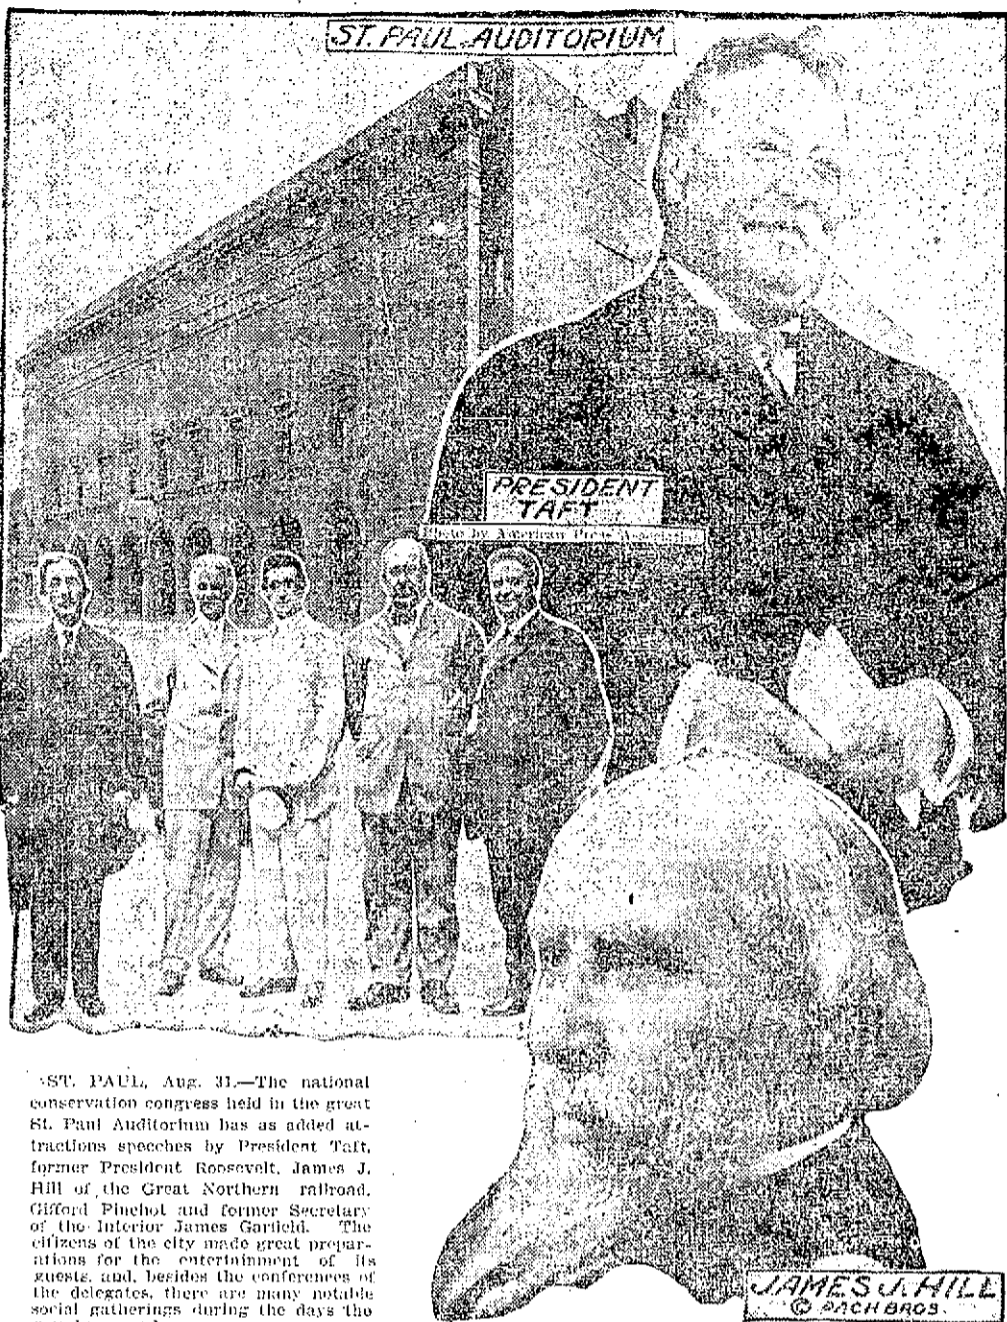

Kingussie is in the Highlands. It is in Inverness county on the Strathspay river, in a very wild and lonely region.

WEDS WIDOW

IN ORDER TO PROTECT HER PROPERTY

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—"A Romance of Winter" might be the title of the story of the marriage license issued yesterday to Jeremiah H. Jenkins, 80 years old, and Mrs. Elizabeth Walter, 56 years, were it not for the facts. The address of the couple is 116 Monroe street, Brooklyn. Jenkins is an inspector in the sewer department. A year and a half ago his wife died and Mrs. Walter, then the widow of a newspaperman, took care of her. Her

MANY NOTABLE MEN WILL TALK TO DELEGATES AT CONSERVATION CONGRESS

ST. PAUL, Aug. 31.—The national conservation congress held in the great St. Paul Auditorium has as added attractions speeches by President Taft, former President Roosevelt, James J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad, Clifford Phibbs and former Secretary of the Interior James Garfield. The citizens of the city made great preparations for the entertainment of its guests, and besides the conferences of the delegates, there are many notable social gatherings during the days the members are here.

dying wish was that Mrs. Walter take care of the old man. Jenkins and the widow Walter bought the two family house in which they live jointly. She has looked after him ever since.

"Mr. Jenkins," said the widow who will be a bride, when seen last night, "believes that he will die soon. He desires to see that I am protected in the matter of the purchase of the house and I am recompensed for my care of him. We have obtained the license and will use it. It is true there is not much affection, but we have the greatest regard for each other."

HOTEL GUESTS

WERE GIVEN A SCARE BY FIRE

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—At midnight the guests of the New American House, on Hanover street, were aroused from their slumbers by hearing the house fire alarm ring. When they heard the engines coming they hastily dressed, and gathering together their valuable possessions fled to the office corridor below and to the street.

The fire started in an awning on the fourth floor front and as the curtains were flying out the window it caught the curtains. The guest in whose room the curtains were pulled in the house alarm and the clerk rang in the alarm to start the engine and house lines working.

The fire rapidly spread from awning to awning until it seemed that the entire front of the house was ablaze. Some persons called in an alarm from the new fire box which has just been installed at the corner at Hanover and Portland streets, and it only took a few minutes after the arrival of the fire apparatus until the flames were extinguished and the frightened and half-dazed guests were induced to return to their rooms.

The damage was slight and will not be known until today.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Less than three weeks more at Camp Riverlook, and only two more Sundays. As the time is shortening, it would be the part both of wisdom and pleasure for those intending to visit the camp to do so at once. A cordial invitation is extended to those who would enjoy an outing over Labor day to spend Sunday and Monday at Riverlook. Register not later than Saturday morning.

The "True Blue" club meets again tonight at 8 o'clock for special business.

The home girls gathered in the recreation room last evening for an informal "Homey" time, listening to the graphophone and playing games. Present in our fun were three of the supervisors of the playgrounds, who have formed a happy, helpful part of our family during the summer.

After being cleaned and freshened with paint and varnish, the dining room will be opened again to our friends and patrons under the able management of Mrs. Munsey on Sept. 12.

In addition to the regular meals that have been served, meals will also be served in a canteen.

GIRL WAS KILLED

By a Fall From Fire Escape

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Ethel Baude, four years old, the daughter of William and Helen Baude, was instantly killed last evening by a fall from the fire escape of her parents' home, No. 622 E. One Hundred and Sixty-ninth street.

The family lives on the fifth floor of the six-story apartment, opposite McKim Square. With her sister, two years older, Ethel Baude was playing house on the fire escape. The father, who is an electrical engineer, was expected home for dinner in a few minutes, and the mother had called the children to come in and get dressed for dinner.

There was a scream, and the little one in some manner not explained had fallen from the escape. It is said she had squeezed through the uprights of the railing.

John Delaney, the janitor of the apartment, saw her fall. She landed on the cement court in the rear of the building. Delaney picked up the body and ran to the home of Dr. Ashley at No. 623, across the street. He said she had been instantly killed. Her skull was fractured and nearly every bone in her body broken.

Another child, Arthur Nass, five years old, living on the fifth floor of No. 517 East one Hundred and Thirtieth street, was killed by a fall from the fire escape of his home about the same hour as the Baude child.

Rev. Brother John, who has been associated with the teaching staff of St. Patrick's academy for the past six years and to whom much credit is due for the present standard of the sanctuary choir of the church with which the school is affiliated, will leave this afternoon to join the teaching staff of a parochial school in Worcester, Mass.

In the short time that Brother John has been with the boys of St. Patrick's, through his untiring efforts and zeal, the school hall of St. Patrick's, where the members of the choir assembled last evening after enjoying their annual picnic at Canobie Lake park, presented a sombre scene when the reverend brother bade the boys adieu, when he has labored for the past six years, good-bye.

In a few words Brother Osmond, the principal of the academy, who will assume charge of the sanctuary choir upon Brother John's departure, paid a high tribute to the zeal and perseverance of the departing brother. Upon concluding his remarks Brother Osmond called upon Brother John to address the members of the choir. After his remarks Brother John, bade each member, individually, farewell. Although regretting to see him depart, the members of the choir are pleased to know that Brother John has been given a more congenial field to labor in, as his health has been poor during the past two years, and it is believed that the change will be of benefit to him.

Brother Osmond, impressed upon the boys that it was not a last good-bye, they were given to Brother John and indicated that providing his health shows an improvement within a short time, he will be returned to this city to continue his work among the boys who he so dearly loved.

REV. DR. BERLE

Says Parents Are Not Fully Acquainted With Children

SAGAMORE BEACH, Aug. 31.—Thousands of parents are less acquainted with their children than their teachers, their pastors, their playmates or their neighbors, was one of the declarations in the paper read by Dr. Berle of Boston before the Sagamore Beach conference on the moral and religious training of the young. Dr. Berle's topic at the forenoon session today was "The Training of the Youth in the Home and the Church."

The clergyman was unexpectedly prevented at the last moment from attending the conference and reading his paper in person and one of the delegates read it for him.

After making his statement concerning the lack of parental acquaintance with children, Dr. Berle said: "The standing and conspicuous excuse of parents when confronted with the facts about their children is that they never dreamed that such things were possible concerning their children. As a rule, teachers, public officials and the public generally discount the parental opinion of their own children."

"It is because of this fact that the extra-domiciliary agencies for child training and child education have arisen. Sunday schools, when they first appeared, were opposed, among other reasons for the particular one that religious training was a function of the home. But the home did not do it; hence the Sunday school."

"Young people's societies and the like would never have come into being if the home had been properly organized and the young people trained in it."

"The public schools today are assuming functions which belong to the home and which, being delegated to an agency outside of the home, makes for disintegration of the unity of home life. Others have been given over to the church, which likewise is today doing scores of things which it has no proper business to be doing. The only reason why it is doing them is because they are not being done in the home. In so far as this is true the church also is a disintegrating force in modern society."

"Judged by opportunity the children of the poorer and middle classes are better bred, morally cleaner and educationally more responsive than those of the families of greater wealth. But this does not compensate them for their fearful losses in the destruction of the home life."

"The home precedes the church, the state, or any instrument of the state in authority. It has the first chance at the child and the best chance. Give the home ideals and principles and every school, every church, every social institution will have to live up to them. Develop the home. Educate the parents. Do everything you can for the children but make the home the instrument and the parents the agents. Make the children and the parents grow up together. Best anything that can take any function from the home. Assist everything that adds functional power to the home."

The other speaker at the forenoon session was F. D. Mead of Boston, who discussed "The Larger Patriotism."

THE PICKETS of PEACE

A Labor Day Poem By ALOYSIUS COLL

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association

The olive waves her symbol from the sea to bordering sea,
The dove has dropt a plume in every hamlet of the land,
The musket leans unloaded in the fort and armory,
And silent in the parapet the muzzled cannon stand.
But the town is like a heaven with her starry fields of blue;
The strains of martial music thrill the thousands through and through,
Till not a throat is silent, and not a heart is still,
For the double-stepping feet
Of the legions in the street—
The caravan of toilers from the shop and mart and mill!

The hulks of belted armor plunge across the warless wave;
The stallion of the charges stands unsaddled in the stall;
The veteran's hair is silver, and the turf is on the grave
Of his brother in the bivouac who went out to fight and fall.
But the shout of marching armies has arisen loud and long;
Bright are the eyes of daughters and the pride of mothers strong,
With bell and bugle swelling the clamor and the hum
For the long and steady lines
From the furnace and the mines
That double step the chorus of the trumpet and the drum.

The buttercup and daisy bloom on Cemetery Ridge;
The wheat and purple clover choke the mouth of Devil's Den;
The laurel drops her berries in the dust of Wilson Bridge
In rosaries of requiem for the souls of slaughtered men.
But the soldier of the anvil and the pulley cog and wheel,
His sword a flaming bubble from a pot of puddled steel,
Is singing in the cities, from Tampa up to Nome,
The stirring battlecry
Of the men that do and die
To save the glory of the land, the altar and the home.

The lark has built her nest upon the grass of Bunker Hill,
Whose canister is buried with the hatred of the foe;
The wilderness surrenders to the wooing whippoorwill,
And all her deadly shot and shell were relics long ago.
But the pickets of the throttle and the sentries of the mine
Are flanked on every crowded curb and falling into line—
The legions of the drill and forge, the soldiers of the soil,
That guard the smiling land
With heart and soul and hand,
The God Almighty armament of capital and toil!

STATE OR NATIONAL CONSERVATION?

The Question at the Coming Big St. Paul Congress

IT is an irrepressible conflict between opposing and enduring forces," said William H. Seward in 1858, referring to the struggle between slavery and free labor. Were he alive today he might apply the phrase with justice to the contest between the proponents of the two theories of conservation to be maintained at the coming national conservation congress which will begin in St. Paul Sept. 5.

It is a question of enormous magnitude and far-reaching importance that will be discussed during the deliberations of the congress. In it are involved phases of the state rights dispute which brought turmoil in Jackson's time and almost rent the nation asunder in 1861-5. Political pessimists assert that the dispute is endless; that we shall have it as a perpetual thorn in our sides so long as our confederation of states, with its delimitations of the respective rights and duties of the state and federal governments, shall last.

Simply put, the present question is this: Shall the states control the conservation of the natural resources within their boundaries, when such resources are to be drawn from land owned by the government, or do the interests of the nation, taken as a whole, require the conservation of land and water and their products by the central government? It has been asserted that the dispute may be defined as the clashing of section against section, the west against the east. But if this be so—and it is open to grave doubt—the lines are not drawn with any approach to closeness.

The matter is one of those on which men may differ honestly without laying themselves open to the charge of roguery.

The upholders of the state rights idea assert their belief that their opponents' view of conservation means locking up the nation's resources for an indefinite period of time, preserving them so well that no use can be made of them until the present generation at least has passed off the stage. The states are able to govern their own property, they say, and may be trusted to see that the wolves of selfish interest do not raven among the sheep of public property. The "federalists," on the other hand, declare that the stand of the "state righters" is that of the man who said he would do nothing for posterity since posterity had never done anything for him. The cornerstone of the "federalists' faith is the belief that conservation without the strong protecting arm of the federal government is a mockery and that turning over the nation's resources to the care of the individual states means intrusting them to the land shark and the despoiler.

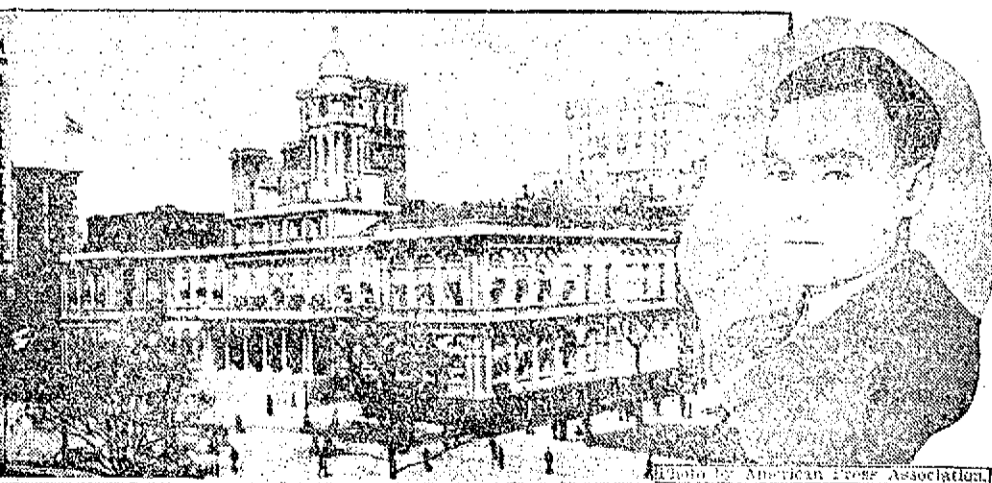

It is a brilliant array of speakers that will address the congress. On the opening day President Taft will deliver the great speech. A day later his predecessor, Mr. Roosevelt, will reiterate the views on conservation already made familiar to the public in messages, speeches and articles. Colonel Roosevelt will be followed by Governor Eberhart of Minnesota, and the latter by Gifford Pinchot, the deposed chief forester. Among the other speakers will be Mr. Pinchot's successor, Henry S. Graves; Former Secretary of the Interior James R. Garfield, James J. Hill, Senators Dooliver, Nelson, Dixon of Montana and Beveridge, Governors Stubbs of Kansas and Hadley of Missouri, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Thomas L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, Herbert Knox Smith of the department of commerce and labor, Director John Barrett of the bureau of American republics and Francis J. Heney of San Francisco.

It was announced recently that the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee will meet in St. Paul during the sessions of the congress to announce the result of the probe into the charges against the secretary of the interior. As in these charges is involved in some degree the question of conservation, it is expected that the announcement of the findings of the committee will arouse as much interest as the deliberations of the congress.

ARNOLD MADAMS.

MAN OF 31 NOW NEW YORK'S HEAD

CITY HALL, NEW YORK.

JOHN PURROY MITCHELL.

AT the head of the government of the great city of New York is a young man, a very young man for so exalted a position. He is John Purroy Mitchell, elevated to the mayor's chair for the time being by the pistol shot which laid low Mayor William J. Gaynor. Mitchell stepped into the mayor's place from that of the president of the board of aldermen, who holds in the city's government a position analogous to that of the vice president in the federal government.

According to the comments of the public and the press immediately after the shooting of Mayor Gaynor, the reins of power fell from his hands into others capable of holding them firmly over the multifarious branches of the city government. No doubt was cast on the ability of Mr. Mitchell to serve acceptably as mayor, despite his lack of years. He is the youngest executive New York has ever had and one of the youngest on record in the United States. He was thirty-one years old on July 19 of the present year. In justifying their optimistic view of his abilities his friends are pointing out the fact that Napoleon Bonaparte was only twenty-seven when he won his brilliant victories in Italy.

It was as a lawyer and reformer that Mitchell was known to New York before his nomination on the fusion ticket last fall for the important position of president of the board of aldermen. By his successful searching into numerous cases of official misconduct in office and graft he had won for himself the titles of "the watchdog of the city government" and "Torquemada," the latter from the name of the celebrated Spanish inquisitor.

His thoroughness is the quality that first brought him into public notice about three years ago. At that time he occupied a minor position in the office of the corporation counsel of the city, William H. Ellison. It was the duty of the latter to see that the city was represented before the commissioners of accounts when charges were brought against John F. Ahern, president of the borough of Manhattan. Mr. Ellison delegated the task to Mr. Mitchell, and then Mr. Ahern, probably not liking the quiet setting of the mouth muscles with which Mr. Mitchell went about the job, raised legal objections to his appointment. Whereupon Mayor McClellan showed most admirable judgment in the choice of an investigator and appointed Mr. Mitchell commissioner of accounts to conduct the investigation himself. Later, as a result of Mr. Mitchell's handling of the probe, the connection of Mr. Ahern with the city government was severed. The same fate befell President Berzel ius of the borough of Queens, likewise accused of misconduct in office.

From investigating high city officials and bringing about their removal young Mr. Mitchell—he was only twenty-eight then—turned his pitiless searchlight on other parts of the city service. He revealed scandalous conditions in the fire department and elsewhere and helped materially in bringing about their abatement. It took a lot of hard work on his part, of course, but he has never been known to shy at hard work. And he does not flinch either when some one of the numerous men whom he has ousted or helped to oust, and their friends speak in determined tones of "getting" him. He comes of the Scotch-Irish ancestry that has always treated as an insult the suggestion that it might be afraid of anything.

Mr. Mitchell's uncle, the late Henry D. Purroy, was a great power in the Democratic politics of New York twenty years ago. Henry D. Purroy is remembered in the city as having been one of the bitterest and most determined opponents Tammany Hall ever had within the Democratic party.

In person Mr. Mitchell is tall, spare and ascetic looking. He is an indefatigable student of men and affairs. He was married last year and resides in a flat on the west side of Manhattan.

THE LYMAN SCHOOL

CONEY ISLAND BEING CLEANED IN EARNEST
BY YOUNG ACTING MAYOR MITCHELFinding of Suicide in Case of Newman Approved

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—The committee of the house of representatives appointed to investigate the suicide of John Newman of Cambridge and the treatment of boys at the Lyman school made its report yesterday and in it there are several important recommendations.

Trustees of the school testified that, serving as they do without compensation, it has been difficult for them to attend to the work of the school and they advocated the appointment of an executive agent. The committee approves of the appointment of an executive agent with compensation and recommends the abolition of the boards of trustees of the Lyman school, the industrial school for girls and the industrial school for boys at Shirley, and the appointment of a board of trustees of five with power to employ an executive agent.

The recommendation, according to the committee, is made in no spirit of hostile criticism of the work of the present board of trustees, but that a consolidation would result in a saving of considerable money, through better management and greater attention.

No Surveillance After Release

One sweeping change is the doing away of the surveillance that boys have been under after being released from the school. It has been customary when boys were released that the probation officer keep track of them for some time to see how they were doing. Under the new ruling when boys have been discharged on account of good behavior there will be no more probationary restrictions.

The committee with one exception is for the retaining of corporal punishment, but it is recommended that reports of punishment shall be closely scrutinized and that as little of it be done as possible.

Representative Carmody favors the abolishment of corporal punishment.

Corporal punishment is not abolished, although the committee recommends that reports of punishment shall be closely scrutinized and that as little of it be done as possible.

The committee, composed of Harry H. Ham of Boston, chairman, Henry F. Ham of Greenfield, Zebulon E. Cliff of Somerville, Cornelius J. Ahern of Worcester and David C. Ahern of Framingham, devote more than twenty pages of the report to the investigation held from June 9 to June 15 into the circumstances of the death of John Newman of Cambridge.

The report gives a complete statement of facts concerning the case, and the committee approves the finding of Judge Bowler that the death of Newman came to his death by his own act and that no unlawful act of any other person contributed in causing his death.

The committee believes in indeterminate sentences, claiming that the aim of the state is to reform rather than punish a boy, to assign him to the school for a definite period of time, would mean that he would have no incentive for improvement in his own welfare and would have no greater desire for good behavior on the last day of the sentence than he had on the first.

At the present time there is a superintendent of the probation department and a superintendent of the school. While the committee feels that there is no friction between them, it believes that it would be better to have one man responsible for the time the boys are on probation as well as while they are in school, and recommends that the superintendent of the schools be made responsible for the work of the probation department.

It has been claimed that when boys are released there is no proper method whereby a record may be kept of the terms of the contract which has been made, and it is suggested that a systematic record be kept of the terms of every contract.

Corporal Punishment

The detention rooms which are used for punishment purposes come in for denunciation. According to the committee they are a survival of certain practices which existed in the old reformatory system. The committee recommends that they be abolished in the modern cottage reformatory system. If they are continued it is the opinion of the committee that another suicide similar to the Newman case is an ever present possibility. In these rooms boys have been placed without observation for from one to three days.

The committee recommends the total abolishment of the detention rooms and suggests that a place of confinement should be so located as to permit constant observation.

Provision should be made for continuous supervision of all the boys in the institution at night, fault being found by the committee with the present system.

Of corporal punishment the committee says: "The subject of corporal punishment of children by those charged with their care has been given deep study, not only by those engaged in conducting reformatory schools, but by many authorities responsible for the education and training of children in the public schools. Recently a Boston school board made particular investigation of the subject, and still is in favor of corporal punishment. In the common law, from time immemorial, it has been permitted to parents, guardians and those otherwise entrusted with the care of children and charged with the responsibility of their training, to use corporal punishment within sound and reasonable limits.

"It should be remembered that the average boy sent to the school is one whom the home cannot manage, the church influence nor the public schools control. He is a boy who has shown a lack of appreciation for social conventions and restraints, and unless he can be taught the necessity for obedience to proper authority, his reformation is well-nigh impossible. To deny the official of the Lyman school the right to use corporal punishment, no matter what exigency might arise which, in the opinion of the officials, demands its use, would be a step in a retrograde direction and might necessitate the substitution of a method of punishment more severe and far more abhorrent than corporal punishment.

"Thoughtless Sentimentality"

"The committee has been urged to recommend that the use of corporal punishment at the Lyman school should be totally abolished, and, indeed, at the time the committee was organized, and before any investigation had been made, a majority of the committee were inclined to oppose its use; but in view of the searching investigation that has been given by all who have made a study of the subject from its practical working, the committee is compelled to the conclusion that the objections to the use of corporal punishment spring mainly from thoughtless sentimentality, and are advanced by those who have had no experience in the scope of the work investigated.

"These objections, moreover, are based on no other argument than that occasionally abuses have grown out of reason for corporal punishment. No soundness or logic has been advanced by any one to show that its proper use is not beneficial for the purpose for which it is intended.

"The committee recommends that the trustees in the future not only make a more rigid examination of the monthly reports of corporal punishment which are sent to them than has been their custom in the past, but also cause to be promptly discharged any official who is found violating the spirit of the statute and the rules in relation thereto which have been enacted and established."

Carmody Dissents

Representative Carmody favors the abolishment of corporal punishment, his opinion being as follows:

"I concur with the other members of the committee with reference to their findings of facts and recommendations, except that I am obliged to dissent from their conclusions as to the necessity for corporal punishment. From the first I have been opposed to flogging, considering it a cruel and ineffective method of punishment. I believe that whipping tends not only to make a boy sullen and resentful, but it tends also to brutalize the master who applies it.

"There is no corrective force in a punishment unless the boy recognizes and admits the justice of it, and the right of the one over him to inflict it. The child admits the right of a parent to whip him, but he resents having any one else usurp that parental right. To him it is an act of tyranny, and he lays up in his mind the determination some day to revenge the indignity. He often admits that he is at fault, that he is guilty of the offense, but he can never bring himself to justify the administration of the lash upon his body by any person not his parent.

"The abolition of corporal punishment in public institutions necessarily means the substitution of some other form of punishment far more cruel and injurious to the boy. This argument has little weight with me, for I find myself unable to understand why such substitution is necessary. There is in every boy's heart a place which can be reached, if only those in charge of him have the ability to reach it. That is the whole problem,—to awaken a spirit of manliness, a spirit of self-respect, an ambition to assume a place of respectability with other boys

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—New York's great playground is to be purified—it is being cleaned and will remain clean.

These have been familiar words to the readers of newspapers for years, for every time Coney Island is mentioned it is almost sure to be said that reform has seized fast hold on the resorts once existing there. John Purroy Mitchel, New York's 31-year-old acting mayor, evidently did not believe all that he read, for almost as soon as he took the reins of government in hand after Mayor Gaynor was shot he started out for a little trip to Coney Island to see just how far purification and reform have traveled. He asserts that he caught up with both in a short time, and, besides causing the removal of a police inspector, with reduction in rank, to another part of the city, it is reported he also started some hundreds of chorus girls, music hall attaches and their friends on a parade in abbreviated costumes that only ended when Coney Island was far behind. Friends of the acting mayor assert that this is really the first and only genuine reform that Coney has ever experienced, notwithstanding reports to the contrary. Only one or two of the resorts are now selling liquor, and about the only familiar scenes are the "ho dog" and popcorn vendors. The pictures show not only the Bowery, but some of the more respectable show places.

SUPT. WHITCOMB

Was Re-Elected by the School Board Last Night

The school committee met at city hall last night and took favorable action on the recommendations of the committee on teachers relative to various transfers. Arthur K. Whitcomb was elected superintendent of schools of the city of Lowell for the coming year.

All members were present when Chairman Lamoureux called to order at 8 o'clock. Supt. Whitcomb read a communication from Frank M. Dowling, clerk of committee, stating that the committee on appropriations had decided not to make any further recommendations for loans for the heads of departments and urged the school board to keep within its appropriation. Another communication having to do with unused school houses was referred to the committee on schools.

The first business was the report of the committee on teachers recommending the following transfers:

From the training school to the New Moody street school, Miss Addie E. Merrill, as principal; Miss Grace C. Delaney and Miss Mary E. Snow; from the Pawtucket school to the New Moody street school, Miss Maude M. Hardin; and to the Lexington avenue school, Miss Carrie A. Hart; from the school, Miss Carrie A. Hart; from the Greenhalge to the Varnum school, Miss Annie V. Donoghue; from the Grand street school to the Pawtucket school, Miss Corlana G. Cover; from the Lexington avenue school to the Cheever street school, Miss Helen Kohaw; from the New Moody street school to the Colburn primary, Miss Ellen M. Holden, as principal, and Miss Nellie F. Davidson; from the Colburn primary to the London street school, Miss Mabel H. Elm; from the New Moody street school to the Cabot street school, Miss Eugenia L. Hogan.

The committee's report was accepted and adopted, and the following report from the same committee was also adopted:

We recommend that Miss Helen M. Shean be made principal of the Colburn school, and that Miss Mary T. Wholey be made principal of the Cabot street school.

We recommend that teachers elected last June be assigned as follows: Minnie E. Colburn to the Laura Lee school; Anna T. Coffey to the Morrill school; Eugene V. Frappier to the Cheever street school; Grace E. Frye to the Greenhalge school; Loretta A. Hannan to the Lyon street school; Anna M.

Adopted. The committee on teachers recommended that a certificate of the first grade be granted to Mrs. Morley D. Cameron, a graduate of the Normal Art school in Boston, Mechanic Arts course, 1910, and certificates of the second grade to Miss Frances Macerston, Radcliffe, 1910, and to Miss Josephine H. Boynton, Smith, 1908. Adopted.

Supt. Whitcomb gave quite a long talk on the law passed by the state legislature relative to the placing of public drinking fountains in public places in all of the cities of Massachusetts. The law is mandatory and in order to properly observe it public sanitary fountains will have to be installed in the schools. Mr. Whitcomb said he had spoken to the inspector of lands and buildings relative to the matter and the inspector said he could not do the work on his present appropriation. On motion of Mr. Goward it was voted to refer the matter to the committee on school houses and hygiene with full power.

Supt. Whitcomb discussed the matter of opening evening schools, and it was finally decided, on recommendation of the committee, to open evening schools, to open the coming fall and winter sessions. Oct. 10. This is a trifle earlier than usual, but was recommended by the committee after the chairman had discussed the matter with some of the principals of the evening schools. The latter's argument for an earlier opening was, better attendance is recorded previous to the Christmas holidays and more satisfactory results are attained.

It was announced that the examination for candidates for positions as teachers in the evening schools would be held in the high school on Sept. 17. The annual election of the superintendents of schools resulted in the unanimous choice of Arthur K. Whitcomb. Committee Chairman Mahoney was chosen a committee of five to notify Mr. Whitcomb of his election and the latter, after being ushered in, addressed the members briefly.

Mr. Johnson stated that he had received numerous requests from people in the Aver city district, asking for the opening of a primary school room in the Lincoln school building. The request was accepted as a report, recommended, and turned over to the board of advisors.

Caused Great Havor in Texas

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 31.—The gulf storm, which has been sweeping inshore along the western coast of Texas since Monday, increased in severity Monday afternoon, and shows little indications of abating. Point Isabel and Brazos de Santiago Pass, where the brunt of the wind was felt, are cut off from communication with Brownsville, but before the wires failed yesterday afternoon several substantial buildings were reported unroofed, a number of Mexican huts had been wrecked and other minor damage done.

Fears are entertained for the safety of the government gasoline launch Florence with Engineer F. M. Hartick, Junior Engineer N. J. Blackburn and P. H. Smith, both of Galveston, Tex., and a crew of five aboard. The last heard of the boat it was heading for Brazos Island, and it is not improbable that those aboard were rescued by the lifesaving crew stationed at that point.

Near Point Isabel, several large fishing smacks are reported beached.

MUST PAY OWN FARES

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Customs employees are not allowed to collect fares or the price of meals for unusual service for the government under a ruling made by Controller R. J. Tracewell of the U. S. treasury.

The circular was received yesterday and created a lot of talk at the custom house. The messengers are the worst sufferers. They get $750 a year and they have to travel every morning with papers to the farthest ends of the town. They must either walk or pay their fare. If they pay they are not, under the ruling of the controller, reimbursed.

The decision is based on a literal translation of the law that no more than the absolute compensation allowed by the customs shall be paid to an agent of the customs service unless he has to go outside his district on duty.

Jay B. Benton, city editor of the Boston Transcript, and Frank P. Bowker, also of Boston, had a thrilling experience during their ascension in the balloon "Boston" from the yard of the Lowell Gas Light Co. in School street yesterday afternoon. Owing to the high and changeable wind currents, the ascension was made under most hazardous conditions and the occupants of the basket had a narrow escape from being dashed to the ground as a result of the balloon colliding with a steel trestle and later with a high chimney in the yard.

The balloon reached an altitude of 700 feet and after being in the air for about an hour landed in Carlisle.

When the balloon was released at 4:40 o'clock, there was a high wind blowing. Before it could ascend high enough for clear sailing the big gas bag crashed against the steel trestle work in the yard. Pilot Benton realizing the danger threw out a bag of sand, but the bag caught in the ropes. The trestle work was passed, however, and the balloon rose slowly. The wind was blowing from the north and before the aerial craft cleared the obstacles in the yard it struck against a chimney in the yard. The basket struck the chimney with considerable force and the spectators in and about the yard expected to see the occupants dashed to the ground but Mr. Benton succeeded in clearing the obstacle, and the balloon being caught in a strong air current was carried northward over the Merrimack river. After remaining almost stationary over Pawtucketville for several minutes, it was caught in another air current and started to travel in a southerly direction.

While passing over Mt. Vernon street a bag of sand was thrown out, but for some reason or other the bag did not open and fell directly in the yard of Charles T. Upton of 68 Mt. Vernon street.

Several more bags of sand were emptied over the side of the basket at this point and the balloon began to steadily rise until it reached an altitude of 700 feet, the greatest altitude yet reached by any balloon which ascended from this city.

The landing was made in a large field in Carlisle after the balloon had been in the air about an hour.

BOARD OF POLICE THREE AMERICANS MAY BE MADE CARDINALS IN NOVEMBER

Enjoyed a Band Concert Last Night

The regular meeting of the board of police held last night took the form of a band concert, for the feature of the meeting proved to be the concert program carried out by the band of the Exalted-Order Institute for colored boys and girls at Cane Spring, near Louisville, Kentucky. Besides the members of the police board there were present Supt. Welch, Clerk Flaherty, newspaper men, a couple of proprietors of Greek coffee houses and later a score of newboys and youngsters, the latter having been attracted to the office by the sound of the music.

The band is composed of eight colored boys who range in age from 8 to 14 years; the big bass drum being pounded by the youngest member of the organization, while the oldest toots through a bass horn. The uniforms worn by the youngsters are of blue and gilt.

The boys are in charge of one of the teachers at the institution, John W. White and Robert R. Brown, another official of the institution. They are making a tour in order to raise funds to finish their education. They came to the meeting last night to obtain a permit to play in the public streets for a day or two. They use the old-fashioned method of playing to attract a crowd and then passing the hat.

All three members of the police board, when told of what the band desired, were for having the band come into the office and play several numbers. The band came and played, opening up with "Old Kentucky Home." Next "The American Hail" was played, after which the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Dixie" were rendered in a manner which reflected much credit on the ability of the youngsters.

At the conclusion of the concert the board unanimously presented the band a permit free of charge, to play in the streets of the city for two days.

The board then considered a few minor license applications and later went into brief executive session. It granted the following minor licenses:

Billiard and pool, Theophile Clairmont, 613 Merrimack street, five tables; Thomas P. Flynn, transfer from 350 Central street to 375 Central street; Thomas McEvoy, 305 Lakeview avenue.

SHOT HIMSELF

Pistol Found Beside the Body of Man

VINEYARD HAVEN, Aug. 31.—The body of William A. Vanderhoof, aged 64, was found today on the wharf of the New Bedford, Martha's Vineyard & Nantucket Steamboat Co. at Oak Bluffs with a pistol by its side. Vanderhoof, who was employed as freight agent by the company, had apparently shot himself in the head late last night and the police declare it a case of suicide. It was presumed that he expected his body to fall off the wharf into the water. No cause for the act is known.

Vanderhoof was unmarried and had lived in Oak Bluffs for 30 years.

MAY ACT AS COUNSEL FOR THE STRIKERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Announcement was made at the headquarters of the striking clock makers here yesterday that Judge Alton B. Parker, one time democratic presidential candidate, had been retained as special counsel for the union.

He is to seek a reversal by the higher courts of the recent decision of Justice Goff holding the purpose of the strike to be illegal in that it demanded the clerk of shop, and the enjoining of the strikers.

Judge Parker is of the opinion that the Goff decision is too sweeping as it forbids the right of peaceful assembly and free speech.

The broad effect of Justice Goff's ruling, which caused some disorder Monday night, became apparent yesterday, when it was announced that picketing of the factories will be stopped by the police.

MAYOR'S MAN

WAS DEFEATED BY SALEM ALDERMEN

SALEM, Aug. 31.—As had been predicted, the board of aldermen last night refused to confirm Mayor Howard's nomination of Sergt. John J. Carr for captain of the police force. The vote against confirmation was 4 to 3. Adams, Gifford, Wilkins and Whipple voted yes, and Caplin, Calbert and Doyle voting yes. The name of Lieut. Lewis A. Manning, the ranking officer, was then presented by the mayor, and under the rules this went over until the next meeting.

It is said to be the intention of Mayor Howard to place in nomination for the lieutenant the name of Sergt. Carr if Lieut. Manning is confirmed for captain.

As a result of his attempt to pass over the heads of several of the officers ranking Sergt. Carr there has been stirred up considerable feeling against the mayor, and charges have been made that he is playing politics and bringing racial and religious issues into the way of the advisability of doing away with the office of sergeant of the police force. Alderman Adams introduced an order to reduce the number of police from 37 to 35. The force was only recently increased one man on account of the illness of the late Capt. Blinn.

Both orders went to the committee on police and license.

ARCHBISHOP FARLEY
ARCHBISHOP O'CONNELL

ROME, Aug. 31.—At the consistory to be held in November it is stated on good authority that Archbishop Farley of New York and Archbishop O'Connell of Boston will be made cardinals. This will be the first consistory in three years and it is also said that Mgr. Thomas McKeeney of Philadelphia will be raised to the cardinalate as a token of the affection of the pope for the American people. Mgr. Kennedy has been rector of the American college in Rome for the last five years, and he will probably be attached to the papal court and reside in Rome. Should these three prelates be named by the consistory America will have one-third of the whole number of red hats distributed, as only nine prelates are to be promoted.

AMES' REPLY

TO THE STATEMENT OF CONGRESSMAN GREENE

PALL RIVER, Aug. 31.—Hon. Butler Ames gave out yesterday his answer to the strictures passed upon him by Congressman William S. Greene on the former's campaigning methods in this section of the state. In it he says:

"Congressman Greene's attack upon me for daring to fight the bosses and machine in his district is entirely unwarranted and, moreover, is based upon and composed of utter misstatements of fact. I have so far made no public utterances against Mr. Greene, nor have I publicly or privately threatened to make him sorry if he did not support me against Lodge."

"If Mr. Greene would attend to his business of being a congressman, and not try to dictate the political beliefs of every aspirant for political office in his district, he would command even greater respect from his constituents."

"In my visits to Pall River and New Bedford I have only endeavored to find candidates for the legislature who will stand as Ames men against the Lodge machine candidates, thus giving the voters a chance to express their preference. I have not 'flattered' anybody's campaign, nor have I promised to do so."

"I am fighting Senator Lodge and his corrupt machine and I hope I am not, therefore, flouting Mr. Greene. If to fight Mr. Lodge is 'bossism' on my part, it is to arrange for candidates opposed to his improper political practices, so that the voters may have a chance to vote on that issue, is 'bossism' on my part, then I am willing to bear the burden."

AIDE TO LINCOLN DYING

HANOVER, Germany, Aug. 31.—Major Henry Reed Rathbone, who was an aide to President Lincoln and received a stab wound in attempting to save the life of his chief on the night of the assassination, is near death in the criminal ward of the insane asylum at Middleheim, of which he has long been an inmate.

Refuses to Quit the Race

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 31.—Governor Malcolm H. Patterson refuses to quit the fight for renomination, and democrats of the state are reading a statement he is sending through the mails which is as follows: "Owing to the invidious and persistent attempts of

"Back of the verbal greeting which it is my privilege and pleasure to extend to you today on behalf of the city of Knoxville, beats in unison of welcome the pulse of a quarter of a million persons. It was here that man received the God-given freedom of religious liberty, a boon obtained, not by force of arms, but with the roar of cannon, the rattle of musketry or the ring of steel, not yet by threatening the devious and oft-times dubious pathway of subtle statecraft, but by the sheer force of the magnetic personality and the prophetic power of Roger Williams, the founder of these plantations. To a city whose birth was amid such circumstances we receive you today."

"To us it seems especially fitting that Providence should play its part in the promotion of the great and magnificent enterprise to which you have pledged your energies. Therefore, we are with you heart and soul in your efforts to develop the inland waterways of this fair land for the fulfillment of your purposes will provide the solution of many an economic problem in the region of the transportation cost, the conservation of time, the elimination of dangers and the consequent protection of life and property that now so frequently pay a costly toll to wind and wave. Finally, your plan means the ultimate bringing together in closer bonds of commercial, and therefore national unity of all our people, north, south, east and west."

After Governor Fotherill had welcomed the delegates on behalf of the state Congressman William S. Greene of Massachusetts, chairman of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries gave a brief address. Congressman John H. Small of North Carolina then voiced the appreciation of the delegates from the south for the cardinal voyage which had been extended to them.

"While I am a loyal son of the south," he said, "yet my colleagues and I from that section have received the same welcome and will, I am sure, receive the same consideration as the men of New England or Pennsylvania, because we are all citizens of the same great republic, protected by the same laws and loyal to the same flag."

Referring to the purposes of the convention, Congressman Small said: "The bonds of commerce stretching to the remotest boundaries made the resources and prosperity of each section the common heritage of all. During the past few years the exports from the ports of the South Atlantic and gulf states have increased more than thirty-five per cent, while imports have increased more than one hundred per cent, yet their exports aggregate more than six and a half times the value of their imports."

"Our length of coastline assures us a preeminent position in the world's commerce. When the Panama canal shall be opened the trend of international commerce will be southward and the commerce of these ports will receive even greater impetus."

Mr. Small then spoke of the great possibilities of development of the inland waterways of the south. "Not alone do these streams furnish navigation," he said, "but marvelous and potential water power. There are in the south not less than five million horsepower, most of which is produced by streams which lie in the south Atlantic states and have their source in the Appalachians. This is conceded an under estimate. It is merely suggestive of the wonderful resources of this section when it is all made available by protecting headwaters and by wise conservation in the building of reservoirs so as to preserve the regularity of their flow."

Congressman Small dwelt on the

certain newspapers which are incapable of dealing with public men and questions with fairness or decency it becomes necessary to state that there is not a particle of truth in the rumor that I will withdraw from the contest for governor. I am representing not my personal ambition, but the party that has honored me, and with it I will go to victory or defeat."

1000 DELEGATES

At the Waterways Convention Opened in Providence Today

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 31.—The betterment of waterways throughout the entire country but mainly those in the eastern part of the United States, was the object of discussion among more than 1000 delegates at the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association which opened here today amid great enthusiasm. The visitors, who came from all sections of the country, were greeted by a gaily decorated city and on every side were reminded that the whole state of Rhode Island was trying to make the four days' meeting a memorable one.

The Atlantic Deeper Waterways association was organized in Philadelphia in 1907 by men interested in the development of inland waterways. The purpose of the convention today was to pass upon measures that may best bring about the deepening of such waterways and to form plans for a chain of inland waterways stretching from Maine to Florida. The advantage of these canals in the country, if the channel would be cheaper, if freight rates, less loss of life from marine disasters and benefit to the navy in case of war.

The convention was called to order in the convention hall of the Providence Opera House. Rev. Samuel R. Webb of this city gave the invocation, following which Mayor Henry H. Fletcher of Providence welcomed the delegates. Mayor Fletcher said in part:

"Mr. Chairman and delegates to the third annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association: It is my privilege and pleasure to extend to you today on behalf of the city of Providence, beats in unison of welcome the pulse of a quarter of a million persons. It was here that man received the God-given freedom of religious liberty, a boon obtained, not by force of arms, but with the roar of cannon, the rattle of musketry or the ring of steel, not yet by threatening the devious and oft-times dubious pathway of subtle statecraft, but by the sheer force of the magnetic personality and the prophetic power of Roger Williams, the founder of these plantations. To a city whose birth was amid such circumstances we receive you today."

"To us it seems especially fitting that Providence should play its part in the promotion of the great and magnificent enterprise to which you have pledged your energies. Therefore, we are with you heart and soul in your efforts to develop the inland waterways of this fair land for the fulfillment of your purposes will provide the solution of many an economic problem in the region of the transportation cost, the conservation of time, the elimination of dangers and the consequent protection of life and property that now so frequently pay a costly toll to wind and wave. Finally, your plan means the ultimate bringing together in closer bonds of commercial, and therefore national unity of all our people, north, south, east and west."

After Governor Fotherill had welcomed the delegates on behalf of the state Congressman William S. Greene of Massachusetts, chairman of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries gave a brief address. Congressman John H. "While I am a loyal son of the south," he said, "yet my colleagues and I from that section have received the same welcome and will, I am sure, receive the same consideration as the men of New England or Pennsylvania, because we are all citizens of the same great republic, protected by the same laws and loyal to the same flag."

Referring to the purposes of the convention, Congressman Small said: "The bonds of commerce stretching to the remotest boundaries made the resources and prosperity of each section the common heritage of all. This is conceded an under estimate. It is merely suggestive of the wonderful resources of this section when it is all made available by protecting headwaters and by wise conservation in the building of reservoirs so as to preserve the regularity of their flow."

great products and natural resources of the south and added:

"Far removed as we are from you we need to shorten the lines of communication and cheapen the cost of movement in our interchange of products. You need the output of our fields and forests and mines. We require your machinery and your fine manufactured goods. The railroads have served and still subserve a most important part in transportation but there are limitations which they have reached. We must construct canals. These are the links which separate these inland sounds and bays along the Atlantic seaboard and make the inter coastal waterway a reality. Then not only shall our ports but our more than four thousand miles of navigable rivers in the South Atlantic states have cheap and easy communication with your ports and your thousands of miles of rivers and the commercial millennium of prosperity and peace will have arrived."

GROCERY STORE

IN DRACUT WAS ENTERED BY BURGLARS

The grocery and variety store of George W. Ducey at the corner of Pleasant and School streets, Dracut Navy Yard, was entered by burglars early yesterday morning, and cigars, tobacco and cigarettes, amounting to $15, and about $1 in money were taken. Entrance was made through a bulkhead on the side of the building and by forcing a trapdoor which leads from the cellar to the grocery department.

When Mr. Ducey discovered that a break had been made he reported the matter to the Dracut police, and the latter, in turn, notified the Lowell police.

There is no clue to the identity of the burglars. Albert Currier, who is employed by the D. Gage Ice Co., reports for work early in the morning. As he came near the store he heard what he now believes to be hammering going on inside the store and as he turned from School street into Pleasant street he saw a man standing in front of Ducey's store, but as he suspected nothing wrong he did not take particular notice of the man to describe him.

Earn More Than 4%

I have a few shares of stock of the United Fishers' Supply Corporation, incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and doing a daily cash business. I believe this stock will pay dividends of more than 10 per cent on every dollar you invest in it. The corporation owns and controls valuable patents. The reason it is placing this stock on the market is to increase the factory space and present capacity. The above is practically a monopoly with no competition.

This is a very short while this stock should be worth a great deal more than its par value. It is now selling at $10 per share.

This is not a risk. It is a sure thing. This business has existed four years and each day has brought a larger increase in its present capacity. Full information and circulars sent on request.

EXTRA LOWELLS BEATEN

In the First Game at Spalding Park Today

The Score Was 6 to 2—Large Crowd Saw the Double-Header With Brockton This Afternoon

Brockton and Lowell played a double header at Spalding park this afternoon, about 1800 fans being present to witness the games. Lowell presented Yount on the mound, while Sullivan was on the receiving end of the battery. The Shoe City aggregation had 500, a new man on the slab, and Lavigne was behind the bat.

The double umpire system was used, Horly being the decision maker on balls and strikes, while Tommy Duffy looked after the bases.

The first game was called at two o'clock, the batting order of the teams being as follows:

Lowell	Brockton
Blakely cf	cf Hendrickson
Fitzpatrick 2b	2b McLane
Cooney ss	1b McGovern
Magee lf	lf Pond
Tennery rf	rf Smith
Fluharty rf	3b Dullin
Boultes 3b	as Jolly
Sullivan c	c Lavigne
Yount p	p Edwards

Brockton made two runs off the real in the first inning, while Lowell had to be contented with one. Hendrickson was tapped by a pitched ball and failed to reach first, Blakely traveling to left, scoring Blakely, but Tennery failed to steal second but was nailed. Pond drew a base on balls and percolated second. Smith singled to center field and Hendrickson and Pond scored. Dullin was third out.

In the latter half of the inning Blakely drew a free pass and Fitz fled to Jolly. Cooney hit to Jolly and failed to reach first, Blakely traveling to left, scoring Blakely, but Tennery failed to steal second but was nailed. Pond drew a base on balls and percolated second. Smith singled to center field and Hendrickson and Pond scored. Dullin was third out.

Second Inning
A couple of good eggs were registered in the second inning. Jolly was out on strikes and Lavigne followed with four balls. Edwards bunted to Boultes who threw to second getting Jolly and the ball was sent to first for a double play.

In Lowell's half Fluharty singled and went to second on Boultes' sacrifice. Sullivan fled to Hendrickson and Yount struck out.

Third Inning
The visitors scored another run in the third inning while we failed to tally. McLane hit to Boultes and was out at first. McGovern slammed the ball over the left field fence for a home run and "Terrible Teddy," he of the sorrel top and a former member of the Lowell team, was given a great ovation. Pond hit in front of the plate but Sully had the ball at first ahead of the runner. Smith was third out on a fly to Yount.

Blakely hit a grounder to Jolly and failed to reach first. Fitz followed with a fly to Lavigne. Cooney hit to Jolly and was out at first.

Fourth Inning
Still another one for the visitors in the fourth. Dullin walked to first on a free pass and by good running went to second on a wild pitch. McGovern hit to Wolfgang and McLane was caught between the bases. McGovern stole second and Sullivan's bad throw allowed him to score. Pond singled over second base but was thrown out while trying to steal second.

Lowell descended on McLane with both feet in the latter half of the first inning. Twelve men came to bat, seven hits were made and six runs scored. Blakely drew the distinction of making two hits in this inning, one being a three bagger and the other a single.

Blakely opened with a three bagger and after Fitz got hit by a pitched ball walked to first. Cooney singled to center field scoring Blakely. Magee sacrificed walking the men on base. Tennery singled to center field and Fitz scored. Fluharty singled Cooney and Tennery scored. Boultes and Sullivan followed with a single to right field and Fluharty scored. Wolfgang fled to Smith. Blakely singled and Boultes went to third and when Fitz drew a base on balls Boultes was forced in for the sixth run. Cooney was third out on a fly to Hendrickson.

Score—Lowell 2, Brockton 4.

Fifth Inning
It was a case of one, two, three in the fifth inning. McLane fled to Cooney, McGovern fled to Magee and

CAR DYNAMITED SHE WILL MARRY

Several Persons Are Re- ported Injured Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 31.—A Mount Vernon avenue car was dynamited at Sandusky and Broad streets at 7:30 last night. Several injuries were sustained by a woman passenger and by a pedestrian on the sidewalk. Both were rendered unconscious.

The car crew escaped without hurt and the car was not so badly damaged as to prevent its being taken to the car burns with its own power.

Although the trouble occurred in the heart of a district notably in sympathy with the car strike it was not followed by demonstrations of any kind.

W. D. Mahon, international president, and C. O. Pratt, chairman of the Carman's international union, and a group of other labor leaders from Columbus and other Ohio cities yesterday formally called upon General Manager Stewart of the Columbus Railway and Light company to arbitrate the strike difficulties. Stewart refused. He said that not one man in a million was competent to arbitrate.

The labor leaders then arranged for a conference with Gov. Harmon. Their announced purpose was to induce him to come out in a public statement demanding that the company submit to arbitration. As the governor was at Fort Ancient yesterday they were unable to see him until late last night.

HOBOKEN POLICE

Caught Man Wanted in Bremen

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—In response to a cable from the district attorney of Bremen, Detectives Weinthal and Schaefer of the Hoboken police boarded the Kaiser Wilhelm II on her arrival yesterday to arrest Edward Goldmann, who is charged on the other side with being a swindler. The immigration authorities had got ahead of them, however, and Goldmann was sent to Ellis Island to await an investigation and possible deportation.

Nothing is known of the particular offense for which Goldmann is wanted. The cable said:

"Edward Goldmann, from Boryslaw, Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II, first cabin 291, is wanted for swindling. Prevent landing, arrest and return him. Exclusive money found to criminal police, Bremen." This was signed by Pakilowski, district attorney.

Goldmann was taken by the immigration inspectors to the second cabin dining saloon, where he was kept until some time after the ship had docked. He looked prosperous, is short and rather stout and gave his age as 25. He said that he was a broker on the crude oil exchange at Lumburg, and had had dealings with American oil firms. He said that he had come over to inspect some oil fields at Rochester, Pa., and did not know any reason why he should be detained.

SEVERAL KILLED
MADRID, Aug. 31.—A private letter received from Portugal today says that the official despatches from Lisbon minimize the excitement that attended the parliamentary elections. The writer says that there was much rioting during which several persons were killed. It is especially strong in the navy, Admirals De Los Reis and Capos having been the republican candidates at Lisbon and Oporto respectively.

MAY INDICT POLICE

In the Alleged Vice Cases in Coney Island

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Police officials responsible for the vice and violations of the law at Coney Island will not be permitted to escape personal responsibility for their negligence if a grand jury investigation and criminal prosecution can establish their guilt. Acting Mayor Mitchell stated last night, after a visit to St. James, where Mayor Gaynor is recuperating from his bullet wound, that he would send the affidavits and reports of his investigators to the district attorney of Kings county.

"I did not intend to say tonight what would be done officially with this evidence," explained Mr. Mitchell at his house, "but since you press the question, I will answer that I will do just what I intended to do right along with the evidence of the investigators, and that is send it to the prosecuting official of the county. I did not send it today because the affidavit with regard to Innan's answer had had to be used in court in connection with the injunction obtained by the proprietors of that resort."

Acting District Attorney Elder, when informed of the acting mayor's intention, declared that he would do everything in his power to establish the guilt of those in and outside of the police department responsible for the conditions disclosed at the island.

One Case in Hand
Mr. Elder has in hand the prosecution of Police Lieutenant Menegay, who is charged with refusing to listen to the complaint of a Mr. Hesodan, who says he lost his money in Roger's gambling house.

Evidence also of the direct refusal of police officers to prevent robbery and gambling on the public streets in Coney will be placed before the acting district attorney in addition to the reports of Mr. Mitchell's official investigators.

Mr. Elder explained last night just how far the responsibility of the police can be established.

"It is the duty of the police to enforce the law and to inspect suspected places to repress lawless acts," said he. "To protect persons in violation of the law, or not to repress such lawless acts properly called to the attention of the police or within their observation would be criminal on the part of the policeman furnishing the protection, if purposely furnished, and indictable."

Acting Mayor Mitchell, in his letter to Commissioner Baker, expressly declared that he recalled him from his vacation because of the failure of the police to check the vice and crime at the island that had been previously called to his attention by the acting mayor himself. Mr. Mitchell included Deputy Commissioner Reynolds of Brooklyn in his charge of responsibility for this neglect.

A Case of "Selling Protection"
The grand jury in Kings county will meet for ten days in the meantime the information gathered by the mayor's investigators will be sifted by Mr. Elder, who made it plain that his investigation of the charges would be vigorously conducted. It was intimated last night from an unofficial source that the district attorney's investigation would probably lead to the establishment of the identity of police officials engaged in selling police protection at the island.

"The mayor said he had not read a newspaper or spoken a word to anyone, on city affairs, and that he did not desire to do so until he was fully recuperated," "in fact," continued Mr. Mitchell, "the mayor was surprised at 'our' suit, and asked us what brought us, any way. He was in the garden strolling when we arrived. He looked a little thinner and paler than usual, but that, of course, is natural. His condition is remarkable, considering that it is less than three weeks since he was shot."

"The only mention the mayor made of anything pertaining to municipal matters was when he spoke of the condition of his garden, where the grass had been burned by the hot sun and dry weather. He expressed sympathy for Park Commissioner Stover, who, he said, was probably being blamed for a similar state of affairs in the city parks."

ROOSEVELT MEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The announcement of friends of Colonel Roosevelt that they will offer his name in the convention in opposition to Vice President Sherman came out at the state republican headquarters today when William Barnes dropped in from Albany to confer with Chairman Woodruff. The state chairman had nothing to say but Mr. Barnes said:

"I am shocked to learn that certain forces in the republican party in this state contemplate an attempt to undo the action of the state committee in recommending Vice President Sherman to be temporary chairman of the state convention. Such a proceeding as this threatened affront to the man between whom and the presidency of the United States there stands but a single line should meet with universal condemnation and defeat by the convention."

Lloyd C. Griscom, to whom President Taft recently addressed his letter in regard to the selection of temporary chairman, made the following statement this afternoon when he learned what Mr. Barnes had said:

"No one deplores more than I that the vice president of the United States should have permitted his name to be used in an effort to perpetuate the power of a particular faction of the republican party in this state or that he should have disregarded the advice of the president to consult with Mr. Roosevelt before the meeting of the state committee on Aug. 16. Mr. Sherman telephoned the president on Aug. 15 and informed him that it was proposed to oppose Mr. Roosevelt's selection as temporary chairman with Mr. Barnes' name. The president's reply is set forth in his letter to me of Aug. 28. I protested against the idea of a contest on such a matter, peremptorily declined to be drawn into a contest against Mr. Roosevelt, and again renewed my urgent advice that there be a prompt and full conference with Mr. Roosevelt before the committee meeting with a view to securing harmony and victory for the party."

"It is a matter of public knowledge that Messrs. Sherman, Barnes, and Woodruff avoided all conference with Mr. Roosevelt before the meeting and thrust Mr. Sherman's name before the committee without previous consultation with myself and a large proportion of the committee. The mis-use of President Taft's name, which brought about the election of Mr. Sherman, is also a matter of public knowledge. I still confidently hope that Mr. Sherman and his best friends will see that he cannot accept an election surrounded by such deceit. Mr. Barnes and his friends have drawn Mr. Sherman into an untenable position and I can well understand that they would like to make further use of him. I am sure that Mr. Sherman's real friends will not welcome Mr. Barnes' statement."

NEUTRALIZE PANAMA CANAL
BRUSSELS, Aug. 31.—The Inter-parliamentary peace conference unanimously adopted yesterday a resolution submitted by Herr Fehrenbach of Germany in favor of keeping all straits and oceanic canals open to the world's commerce in time of war as well as in time of peace.

Mr. Koller of the United States urged the neutralization of the Panama canal. He said: "It ought to be made a sacred example of peace, where no fortifications, threatening guns, army battalions, battle flags or other evidence of war will ever be seen."

Mr. Koller foreshadowed as possible sequences of the neutralization of the canal the neutralization of the high seas and the prevention of war everywhere.

6 O'CLOCK LARCENY CHARGED PLAYGROUND FETE

Man Found Guilty and Was Fined $50

Bernard F. Molloy was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of 24 pairs of shoes from the Western avenue freight house of the Boston & Maine railroad. He entered a plea of guilty through his counsel, Joseph E. Laughlin, and was found guilty by the court. He was ordered to pay a fine of $50 within three days or be committed to jail for three months.

Molloy was employed as a driver by the Lowell Weaving Co. and had occasion to visit the freight office several times a week. On February 20th he went to the freight house and took a box of shoes which had been consigned to a firm in New Orleans.

The court in imposing the fine said that he did so because he understood that the defendant had a wife and family dependent upon him, but if the conditions were different a jail sentence would have been imposed.

Spoiled His Case
John J. Devine, who is more familiarly known as "Shirley," proved to be the principal attraction in the court this morning. Despite the fact that the testimony offered by the arresting officer was rather damaging it looked as though Devine was going to be placed on probation. He was evidently of that opinion also and became rather flippant in his remarks which led to his being sentenced to the strait jacket.

When Devine was asked to plead to a complaint charging him with being drunk, he shouted "not guilty." Patrolman Markham testified that he found Devine in an intoxicated condition in a cell in Fenwick street and that he was taken to the police station when Devine was being booked, testified that the defendant was so drunk he could not stand alone. Devine testifying in his own behalf, said he was not drunk as he had taken but two drinks of beer yesterday.

"How many times have you been here?" asked Judge Hadley.

"I don't know; a good many," was the answer.

"Have you any idea how many times you have appeared before me?"

"Too many times to commit to memory," was Devine's answer.

At this point the court asked Probation Officer Slatery if he had any confidence in the defendant and also if he desired to take him on probation. Devine feeling that he was going to escape imprisonment started to smile and went as far as winking at the newspaper men and some of his friends who occupied reserved seats in the gallery, but this apparently proved to be his undoing for instead of being placed on probation he was sent to the state farm.

Thomas Hart, who was arrested with Devine, also entered a plea of not guilty, but he was found guilty and he also will go to the state farm.

Case Dismissed
The case of Peter Demoulacos, charged with assault with a knife on Peter Heonakos, was dismissed after

Judge Hadley had learned the circumstances connected with the affair. The pair got into an argument last week and after some words had been passed Demoulacos and Heonakos started to mix it up. The defendant was cutting bread at the time the argument started and when Heonakos made a motion as if to hit him, he raised the hand which held the knife with the result that two of Heonakos' fingers were cut.

Withdrew Their Appeals
Frederick J. Vallery, who was recently sentenced to six months in jail and appealed, appeared in police court this morning and withdrew his appeal. Elizabeth F. Gennell, who also appealed from a three months' sentence to jail, withdrew her appeal.

Other Offenders
John C. Crowley, drunk, was sentenced to the state farm. John P. Leary was given a suspended sentence of five months in jail. Denis F. Sullivan, Frank McNamara and Marcelle Tessier were fined $5 each, and three first offenders escaped with $2 fines.

RIBS BROKEN
CHILD WAS TRAMPED BENEATH HORSE'S HOOF

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Martin Reynolds, Jr., 3 years old, of 86 Lawn street, Roxbury, was knocked down while playing in the street yesterday afternoon by a horse driven by Samuel Assner. The child was trampled beneath the horse's hoofs and had three ribs broken, in addition to severe internal injuries.

The little boy was running to the house in answer to a call from his mother when the horse ran against him, knocking him down. The screams of the child's mother so bewildered Assner that he tried to back the horse off the boy, instead of allowing the bystanders to take him from under the animal's feet. In this way the child was again trampled upon.

OFF FOR MEXICO
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The commission named by congress to represent this government at the centennial celebration to be held in Mexico City next month, departed today. The party will be made up as follows:

Senators Overman of North Carolina, Guggenheim of Colorado, Crawford of South Dakota; Representatives Foster of Vermont, Slayden of Texas, Denby of Michigan; Judge Jas. W. Gerard of the supreme court of the state of New York; Gen. Harrison Gray Otis of California and Charles Alexander Rook of Pennsylvania.

Ex-Gov. Curtis Guild of Massachusetts will go as personal representative of the president. Rep. Wm. H. Howard, who was a member of the commission, asked to be relieved of the assignment. The vacancy was filled by the resignation of Rep. Slayden.

The Finest Children's Pageant Ever Witnessed in This City

The boys' races in connection with the closing of the playgrounds and postponed from yesterday were run off on the South common this forenoon. The spectators numbered perhaps less than 1000, but the boys were just as much in earnest as though standing room on the common was at a premium. The prizes, too, were awarded this forenoon.

Chief Supervisor George C. Wilton had the boys all in readiness for the first race, which was a relay race, at 10 o'clock. Some of the boys wore shoes, some wore sneakers while others were barefooted. There was no such thing as holding one's head or hands in a certain position. The boy was allowed to run with his head bowed low or turned far back. There was but one object in view, and that was to get there first. It was a lively scene and one could not but be impressed with the earnestness of the runners and their desire for fair play. This is one of the many splendid things brought about by proper supervision of playgrounds. The boy is taught to give and take, and the boy who a few months ago would threaten to smash the other fellow's jaw because of some little accident of slip-up that hurt his flesh or his feelings, has learned to see things in a different light and to accept with a smile the little cuffs and knocks that go with the game.

The pretty and inspiring scene on the South common yesterday afternoon is the talk of the town today. The attendance at the festival which marked the season's end of supervised playgrounds was attended by more than 10,000 people, an attendance far beyond the expectations of those most interested in the playground movement in this city. It was a sight that one could not well afford to miss and the cheers that went up for the girls in their dances and the boys in their games proved the interest of the crowd. The little girls in their dances presented a very charming picture and one long to be remembered. Many were heard to say that it was one of the prettiest sights ever witnessed in Lowell and to Miss Anna Moran and her assistants great credit is due for the splendid training so carefully remounted on the South common yesterday afternoon. That so much could be accomplished in a few months seemed almost incredible, but the proof was there. None of the dances, to be sure, was very difficult or intricate, but there was a good deal to them and the children did that good deal well.

An Irish jig and Highland fling were pretty features. Miss Mildred J. Tinker, who had presented Miss Moran a five dollar gold piece in behalf of the children from the South common, danced the Irish jig, and danced it to perfection, concluding her graceful yet joyous movements with a wave of the Irish flag.

MISS ANNA MORAN, Supervisor of Girls' Games

In the 75 yards dash the heats were won by the following: 1st, Henry McNulty; 2d, Leandre Marion; 3d, Russell Sullivan; 4th, Thomas Horgan; 5th, John Nevin; 6th, Michael Murphy; 7th, D. George; 8th, Thomas Donnelly; 9th, William O'Brien; 10th, Noel; and 11th, McDermott. The winners in the finals were: 1st, Henry McNulty; 2d, Leandre Marion; 3d, Russell Sullivan; 4th, Omer Noel.

There were four heats in the 100 yards dash, for the larger boys, the winners of the heats being: 1st, George McDonough; 2d, Harold Devno; 3d, Michael Murphy; 4th, Arthur Archambault. The finals went as follows: 1st, McDonough; 2d, Devno; 3d, Murphy; 4th, Archambault.

There was considerable rivalry evident between McDonough and Devno, and the former won by a few inches.

N. Y. POLITICAL SITUATION

BEVERLY, Aug. 31.—The New York political situation loomed up again in Beverly today when District Attorney Henry A. Wise of New York city and Representative W. S. Bennett, also of the metropolis, arrived here seeking interviews with the president. They did not come together, and the fact that the visits came on the same day was said to be a coincidence and nothing more. The president was golfing when they reached the executive office this morning but they were told the president would see them during the afternoon.

Mr. Bennett has been mentioned for the republican gubernatorial nomination. President Taft's last intimation of his attitude was that he was going to leave the New York situation entirely to the party leaders in that state, including Col. Roosevelt, of course. Mr. Taft feels he made his position quite clear enough in his letter to Mr. Griscom.

The president this afternoon will lay the cornerstone of the new Y. M. C. A. building in this city. Last year he headed the subscription list for the structure.

RAJAH IS DEAD

Was New York Zoo's Big Tiger

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Rajah, the big tiger of the Bronx zoo, paced restlessly back and forth in his cage in the lion house at feeding time yesterday afternoon waiting for keepers Schwartz and Grove to bring him his dinner. The nearer they came the more impatient he got for he was very hungry. Finally it was his turn and Rajah stood there lashing his tail while Schwartz selected the largest chunk of meat in the basket and tossed it between the bars.

The tiger began to gnaw at the meat, gulping it down in great bites. Before the keepers had passed on to the adjoining cage and before they had time to realize that anything was wrong, Rajah had choked to death. He gasped for a few seconds, struggled a little and then lay still.

Schwartz and his partner made mighty sure that the beast was dead before they ventured into the cage, too, for Rajah had the reputation of being one of the ugliest tigers in the country, although one of the finest. One of the other keepers suggested last night that Rajah had throat trouble and that it was the throat trouble that killed him. Dr. W. Reid Blair, the veterinary of the zoo, will perform an autopsy today to find out.

Rajah was caught in India thirteen years ago when less than a year old by a Hagenbeck expedition. When Director Hornaday went to Europe in 1902 to buy a tiger for the Bronx zoo he selected Rajah as the finest specimen in Europe and paid $1,000 for him. The money was donated by the late Charles T. Barney. What attracted Director Hornaday was the animal's massive head and shoulders. He weighed 300 pounds and was nine and a half feet long.

The results of today's athletic events on the South common were as follows:

Double relay race, Class A, won by J. Callahan's team.

Double relay race, Class B, won by George Tighe's team.

Double relay race, Class C, won by H. Devno's team.

One mile run, free for all (28 starters)—First, Martin Hayden; second, Harold Devno; third, Welch; fourth, Forges. Time—8 minutes.

SEEK TIN BOX

It is Said to Contain $30,000

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Special Surrogate Joseph M. Wilkin of Montgomery arrived in the city yesterday in quest of a tin box that is supposed to contain upward of $30,000 that is in storage in some banking institution in Newburgh or elsewhere.

John Hinkley of Montgomery died a few months ago. He had been a recluse for years, and during two years past had been more or less of an invalid. When his father died many years ago he left to the son a life interest in a fine farm in the town of Wallkill. This Hinkley leased for $250 a year, being just sufficient to pay his board. He was well to do in his own right and his father preferred to deed his farm to those whom he wanted to have it on the death of his son. Seven or eight years ago Hinkley called on Wilkin and intimated to him his will, whereby he too made provision for the distribution of the property. In doing so he referred to his railroad bonds and stock.

Two years ago Hinkley was stricken with paralysis. A few months later a second attack with apoplexy caused his death. The woman with whom he boarded said that during his illness just prior to his death he had told her that the executors of his will would find all his papers, bonds, etc., in a tin box he had left at a bank. His voice was low and indistinct. She is under the impression that he said at Newburgh. When Wilkin heard of it he remembered drawing the will, and being surrogate for this month he set out to find the box. Yesterday morning he visited every bank in Newburgh, but without avail. There was no clue to the box and no one seemed to know Hinkley.

The total playground attendance for the season was, as near as could be calculated, as follows:

Alken street—July, 2000; August, 2500.

North common—July, 5000; August, 5800.

South common—July, 12,000; August, 14,800; making a grand total of 43,100.

PIRATE CAUGHT IN CHASE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Three river pirates who declared they were customs inspectors boarded the steamer or Shawmut at Reed street wharf on the Delaware river yesterday and proceeded to rob the Norwegian crew of all their valuables. When they attempted to hold up the cook, who is an American, they were obliged to retreat in a hurry.

A chase along the river front followed. Two of the men escaped, but the third was caught. It was necessary to take him aboard the police boat to prevent the sailors from pummeling him.

FREIGHT RATE ADVANCE

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—James Peabody, statistician of the Santa Fe system, belittled the effect of the proposed freight rate advance before the interstate commerce committee here today. "If the proposed advance were to be put into effect and to remain in effect for one year," said Mr. Peabody, "the Santa Fe would earn only $91,000 more than it is earning right now."

ADMITS KILLING STEPBROTHER

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—When arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Nash in the Myrtle avenue court, Brooklyn, James C. Eagan, 20 years old, admitted that the stab wounds from which his stepbrother, Patrick Rhale, died on Monday at the Swedish hospital, were inflicted by him at their home, 772 Bergen street. He said that while he was trying to protect their mother from his abuse his stepbrother attacked him and that he used the knife to defend himself. Eagan was held without bail for examination on September 8. All that Rhale would say when dying at the hospital was: "Never mind, I know who stabbed me."

DRIVER WAS KILLED

KILLED BY DOORS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Thomas Kenny, 39 years old, of 498 Bergen avenue, Jersey City, was crushed to death yesterday afternoon by seven fireproof doors which fell upon him as he was helping to take them from a freight car at 449 Communipaw avenue, that city. The doors were constructed of concrete, sandast and steel and weighed a ton apiece. The body was sent to Hughes's morgue.

TO WED MANICURE

Millionaire to Get a Divorce From His Wife

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—William D. Bishop, former secretary and director of the New Haven railroad, and millionaire grandson of its founder, announced yesterday his intention of getting a divorce from his wife, from whom he separated three years ago, in order to marry Mrs. Pauline Valentine, until recently a manicurist, with a parlor on Fifth avenue.

Mr. Bishop declared that if he found it impossible to secure a divorce in the east he would go to Reno and live the necessary six months in Nevada.

Mrs. Bishop was Miss Susan Blackburn, the daughter of a former minister to France and a member of a family that has played a leading part in the politics of three great states. It is expected she will fight the suit if it is brought in New York or Connecticut, which is the legal residence of the former railway magnate.

A reporter saw Mr. Bishop at his country home on the north shore of Long Island. The property is in the name of Mrs. Valentine, who is now at the Miter.

Annoyed by Letters

"I am perfectly willing to make public the whole truth about my domestic affairs," said Mr. Bishop. "I am not afraid of the truth, but I have recently been annoyed by a number of slanderous, anonymous letters, and I hope this will end all doubt about my plans."

"I am determined to marry Mrs. Pauline Valentine. She is the only woman in the world I want, and the only one I have wanted for a long time."

It was suggested that the fact that he had still a legal wife offered some difficulty.

"I know it," he said. "and I can't understand why Mrs. Bishop acts this way. I ought not to have consented to a mere separation. If she wanted to leave me I should have made her get a divorce. She could get one now without any trouble, and why she insists on holding me, a tie that means nothing to either of us, is something I can't understand. I suppose nobody can figure a woman out."

"You see, I didn't think at the time that this situation could possibly arise. I made everything as smooth as possible for her, and there has never certainly been a question but that I was generous in the matter of settlement. She has both our children and I fixed all of them beyond the reach of want."

"Considerate" for Children

"No, I wouldn't bring suit for divorce at my home in Bridgeport," he went on slowly in reply to a question. "I might be able to win there, because the laws in Connecticut are rather liberal, but I have too much consideration for my wife and children. It would keep public attention fastened on them, and I don't want that."

Mr. Bishop was silent for a few moments and seemed to be thinking deeply.

"No, I have about made up my mind that if Mrs. Bishop cannot be moved to act I will have to go to Reno," he said at last. "But I hate the idea of living there six months."

Mr. Bishop then said that he had the Miter in Mrs. Valentine's name, and that reports to the effect that he was financially involved or embarrassed were utterly untrue.

The first William D. Bishop was president and practically builder of the New Haven road. He was a member of congress under Buchanan, and was later a great friend of President Grant. The William D. Bishop, who is about to begin divorce proceedings has been active in the railroad and political world. He was beaten for congress but has always been interested in state and national politics. His son, the third William D., is an undergraduate at Yale, and was recently romantically engaged to Blanch West, an actress.

Mrs. Valentine told a reporter she was willing to marry Mr. Bishop if it were necessary to his happiness.

"Yes, I have been a friend of Mr. Bishop's for years," she continued.

"Marry him? I would do anything to make him happy. His troubles so far have been too many for him to make any definite plans."

JOHN BROWN PARK

Was Dedicated by Col. Roosevelt This Morning

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., Aug. 31.—Theodore Roosevelt arrived this morning to dedicate the John Brown park, the battlefield of Osawatomie where, over half a century ago, the noted abolitionist and his meagre force fired the first gun in defense of liberty.

Col. Roosevelt was greeted in martial style, cavalry from Fort Riley, a military band from Fort Leavenworth, a company of state troops and hundreds of G. A. R. and Spanish war veterans taking part in the program.

After six hours here amid scenes of the early struggle of the anti-slavery league the ex-president with his party is to continue his trip, going next to Lawrence as the guest of Governor W. R. Stubbs.

Colonel Roosevelt's train is due at Osawatomie at 9:30 over the Missouri Pacific from Pueblo. At the station he will be met by troops G and H. Fifteenth cavalry, which marched fifteen miles from Fort Riley to act as his escort.

The program includes a visit to the Masonic temple where a reception will be held, a journey in automobiles to John Brown's old cabin situated a mile and a half northwest of the town and then luncheon at the state hospital for the insane.

The afternoon exercises are to begin with a parade to be reviewed by Col. Roosevelt.

In line are to be the Thirtieth regiment band from Fort Leavenworth, part of the Fifteenth cavalry, Company D, Kansas National guard, G. A. R. veterans, members of the Women's Relief Corps in autos and civic societies. The modest monument erected to Captain John Brown within a pretty will be met by troops G and H. Fifteenth cavalry, which marched fifteen miles from Fort Riley to act as his escort.

WOMAN GONE

SHE DISAPPEARED FROM MAHWAH, N. J.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Mahwah, N. J., the summer rendezvous for numerous notable New Yorkers, is stirred by the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Mary Rudolph, aged 70, one of the fashionable district's wealthiest residents.

Ever since her absence became known on Monday afternoon, searching parties, including prominent persons, have scoured the woods in the vicinity of Mahwah in the hope of finding trace of the missing woman. The search lasted all Monday night and continued yesterday and last night. But up to midnight no clue to the vanished woman had been found.

Mrs. John Van Pelt of Mahwah, daughter of Mrs. Rudolph, appealed yesterday to the authorities and the police took up the hunt. Mrs. Van Pelt said that her mother left the house shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, saying nothing of her intentions, and her daughter thought she had set out for a short walk. At that time Mrs. Rudolph wore a black suit and veil and carried an umbrella. She is described as quite stout and possibly may be identified by a slight affliction of deafness.

Mrs. Van Pelt at first thought that the old woman had come to New York to visit her son, George Rudolph, who lives at 1001 Sixth avenue. Mr. Rudolph said he had not seen or heard anything from his mother.

Mrs. Van Pelt said that she had the Miter in Mrs. Valentine's name, and that reports to the effect that he was financially involved or embarrassed were utterly untrue.

The first William D. Bishop was president and practically builder of the New Haven road. He was a member of congress under Buchanan, and was later a great friend of President Grant. The William D. Bishop, who is about to begin divorce proceedings has been active in the railroad and political world. He was beaten for congress but has always been interested in state and national politics. His son, the third William D., is an undergraduate at Yale, and was recently romantically engaged to Blanch West, an actress.

Mrs. Valentine told a reporter she was willing to marry Mr. Bishop if it were necessary to his happiness.

"Yes, I have been a friend of Mr. Bishop's for years," she continued.

"Marry him? I would do anything to make him happy. His troubles so far have been too many for him to make any definite plans."

INJUNCTION DENIED

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The petition of Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, for a preliminary injunction to restrain Glenn H. Curtiss from interfering with his contracts for flying exhibitions was denied today by Judge Lacombe in the United States circuit court. Hamilton complained that Curtiss blocked his arrangements to appear at the Harvard aeronautical meet.

ROBBED OF JEWELS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Jewels to the value of $4000, the property of Miss Ethel May Davis of Chicago, were stolen from her stateroom on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II during the steamer's voyage from Bremen to this port.

The robbery became known with the arrival of the liner here yesterday, but it took place last Friday morning. Two opportunities were presented. Miss Davis occupied a stateroom with her friend, Mrs. James S. Rodgers. At 2 o'clock on that morning a messenger awoke Miss Davis and delivered a telegram which had been received on the steamship. At 6 o'clock Mrs. Rodgers went on deck, but returned after a few minutes.

Shortly afterward she found that the jewels had disappeared. Search failed to reveal a trace of them or any indication of how they had been abstracted. During Mrs. Rodgers' absence the door of the stateroom was unlocked and Miss Davis was asleep.

A wireless message was set to a detective agency with the request that the steamship be met at quarantine. No trace of the valuables had been found up to the time the steamship reached port yesterday.

STRIKE ALMOST ENDED

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 31.—The strike of the building laborers in this city has almost entirely petered out. There is at present only one job that is not running, the B. F. Smith company's contract at the Textile school. The laborers' union opened a soup kitchen today for the hungry strikers and there were many applicants.

HEINZE IS MARRIED

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—E. Augustus Heinze and Mrs. Bernice Henderson, an actress, were married this afternoon at the home of Mr. Heinze in Brooklyn by the Rev. Dr. Hamel of the Protestant Episcopal church. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Heinze left the city for a cruise on a yacht loaned by a friend of the bridegroom. Next week the couple will depart for Butte, Mont.

SOCIALIST CONGRESS

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 31.—Former Pres. Roosevelt came in for a raking incidental to the discussion of anti-militarism at today's session of the international socialist congress. Several speakers turned their guns on the American, the most bitter attack being made by George Ledebour, a Socialist member of the German reichstag, who described him as "political drummer." Among other things Herr Ledebour said:

"He has forgotten that he represents a democratic nation whose existence was due to a revolution. Shame on him for joining the British rulers against Egyptian patriots."

FEAR PARALYSIS IN SCHOOL

FALL RIVER, Aug. 31.—Mayor Coughlin has called a conference for Thursday with the health and school authorities to discuss the infantile paralysis situation. The opening of the school may be delayed by the prevalence of the disease.

The mayor feels that the situation is grave enough to take extraordinary precautions toward safeguarding the school children from contagion. There was one more case reported yesterday, making the total 50.

REED STATUE

Dedication of Monument at Portland, Me., Today

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 31.—With an interest stimulated by the fact that their distinguished fellow townsman was a citizen of the world, as well as that the event had a world-wide interest, thousands this afternoon will witness the imposing ceremonies of unveiling of the statue of Thomas Brackett Reed, predecessor of Joseph G. Cannon as speaker of the house of representatives, and congressman from the first Maine district. The seating capacity was limited to 2000, but West-side and he will deliver a tribute to the statue, will be packed with spectators, automobiles and carriages.

The statue is of bronze, eight feet high and represents the former speaker in an attitude of repose with a scroll in the left hand. It is a striking reproduction. The pedestal is of Maine granite, nine feet high. It was the work of Burr C. Miller of New York and Paris, a son of Senator Warner Miller, who was an intimate friend of Mr. Reed. The cost was about $35,000.

Judge Joseph W. Coombs, president of the United States National Association of Friends of the Reed Memorial Association, and Mr. Reed's boyhood friend and college classmate of the famous Bowdoin class of 1860, is to preside and he will deliver a tribute to the statue, will be packed with spectators, automobiles and carriages.

The invocation will be spoken by Rev. William H. Fenn, D. D., for many years high and represents the former speaker in an attitude of repose with a scroll in the left hand. It is a striking reproduction. The pedestal is of Maine granite, nine feet high. It was the work of Burr C. Miller of New York and Paris, a son of Senator Warner Miller, who was an intimate friend of Mr. Reed. The cost was about $35,000.

Defends the Position of the Supreme Court

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, who wrote the prevailing opinion of the court of appeals in the New York "bake shop case," mention of which was made by Theodore Roosevelt in his recent address to the Colorado legislature, in which the former president criticized the supreme court of the United States, made the following statement today in defense of the supreme court:

"It is safe to assert that the attack upon the supreme court of the United States by Mr. Roosevelt in his address to the legislature of Colorado will not be approved by the bench and bar and the thoughtful people of this country who appreciate the importance of the judiciary in our governmental system and the necessity for a continuance of the existing public confidence and affection in our courts."

"It happens that in the case of People vs. Lochner, referred to in the address as the 'bake shop case,' the prevailing opinion of the court of appeals of this state was written by myself with concurring opinions by Judges Gray and Vann. Judges O'Brien and Bartlett wrote dissenting opinions; so that in all five opinions were written in the court of appeals showing the appreciation by that court of the fact that the question was a very close one about which minds must differ. Indeed this fact was made very prominent in the interesting debates around the consultation table as well as in the opinion written."

"The history of this case indicates how narrow was the dividing line between upholding and rejecting the statute."

"The trial judge held the statute constitutional, the appellate division affirmed his decision by a vote of three to two and the court of appeals affirmed the appellate division by vote of four to three. The supreme court of the United States reversed the courts of appeals by a vote of five to four."

"Every judge in every court gave to this important question his best effort, which is strongly evidenced by the differences of view of the members in the several courts. That fact should be quite sufficient to protect the great court in the world from offensive criticism from any source and especially from one who heretofore manifested his dissatisfaction with a department of government which was performing the independent functions conferred upon it by the constitution as to neither encroach upon its coordinate departments of government nor to allow them to encroach upon it."

WOMAN PROTESTS VOTE

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The recent school election at Rye, whereby William H. Geary, president of the board of education, defeated Mrs. W. H. Parsons by sixteen votes, will be investigated by the state department of education. A petition containing fifty signatures has been filed in appeal at Albany, and a certified copy has also been served on Mr. Geary and the local board of education.

The petitioners assert they have evidence of many illegal votes being cast and also appeal from the decision of the district in voting school accommodations in Edgeland and West Rye districts, on the ground that it is an unnecessary expense.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

There is nothing quite so provocative of genuine mirth and lots of it, as to see two gay old hoves trying to "whoop it up" in a musical comedy performance on the stage. That is why the author has taken the peripatetics of a couple of jolly old rovers as the basis for his story in the piece of that name which is being presented at Lakeview theatre every evening and with matinees all this week.

All the public needs to know is how they finish and what happened between them is left to the joyous anticipation of the audience. The jolly companions meet at a lawn party at Lester's home and they scheme for a jolly night. La Belle Pearl, a show girl, is taken into their confidence. Just as rovers are getting interested, the jolly rovers are surprised by their wives. Of course their attempted explanations get them into considerable complications, and their efforts to extricate themselves furnish no end of fun.

Enjoyed an Outing at Mountain Rock Today

About 1500 poor children are enjoying an outing at Mountain Rock today under the auspices of the local branch of the Salvation Army. While Adjutant Harry Hawkins and Mrs. Hawkins of the army have had general charge of the arrangements, the outing was made possible by the generosity of business men and people of Lowell who contributed liberally to the cause.

The weather was ideal for the picnic. It was rather cool about 8 o'clock this morning when the children began to assemble in Paige street, but when the sun rose higher it became warmer and it would be difficult to have chosen a better day.

While there were not as many children in attendance as there have been at the outings conducted by Constable John McManus, it was a very enthusiastic crowd of boys and girls that assembled at the starting point this morning.

Seventeen cars which had been donated by business men and individuals were lined up in Paige and John streets and shortly after 9 o'clock every car was filled between 9 and 9:30 o'clock the New England Provincial Staff band of Boston, Major Sheppard in charge, and Bandmaster Malpass leading, gave an informal concert which was greatly enjoyed by the little ones as well as many grownups, who filled the streets to witness the departure of the merry-makers.

At 9:30 o'clock the band boarded the first car and the signal for the start was given and the children left for Mountain Rock. There was nothing but cheering and singing going on from the time the cars left this city until they reached the pleasure grounds.

Arriving at Mountain Rock, the children repaired to the pavilion, where lemonade was served and the games were indulged in.

At 12:30 o'clock the baseball grounds was cleared of the children and after the little ones had been formed in line they marched back to the ball grounds, each child being given a box as he or she re-entered the grounds. As soon as the boxes were received the children sought out for comfortable places and started to enjoy the luncheon. Each box contained two sandwiches—one of ham and the other of cheese—a doughnut, a cake and a banana.

After the children's appetites had been appeased, a varied program of sports was carried out, the winners of the different events being awarded suitable prizes. There were sports for the boys and sports for the girls, special sports for the little tots and others for the older children.

Taken as a whole, the affair proved to be a very enjoyable one, and a grand success, and reflects much credit on Adjutant and Mrs. Hawkins.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Sterling with a matinee and evening performance next Monday, Labor Day, the theatrical season of 1910-11 will be in full swing at the Opera House and patrons of this theatre will be glad to learn that a fine list of the best in the dramatic and musical line will be seen at this theatre. As the opening attraction for Labor Day, Sept. 5th that earnest and talented portrayal of romantic roles, Daniel Ryan, will be seen in a new play of French Canadian life entitled "The Black Fox." This play which is said to be a well constructed dramatic story of life in the great northwest, permeated with the atmosphere of the Canadian wilds and telling a story that grips the auditor with a tense interest that marks the successful play, is to be given a New York hearing in October and all signs point to a successful New York run for this play. Mr. Ryan's supporting company is said to be an excellent one. The engagement here will be played at popular prices and the sale of seats opens at the box office Thursday morning.

"GIRLS"

Clyde Fitch's greatest comedy "Girls" will be at the Opera House Tuesday, Sept. 6th. No comedy of recent years has made the sustained appeal to the lovers of clever and unique stage writing that "Girls" has, and the fact that all classes and both sexes find it equally diverting is the surest indication the author knew his subject when writing this gently satirical story on the question of women's independence. It will be seen here with all the lavishness as to production and cast that mark a long New York run at the theatre. Seats go on sale Friday morning.

There are two hundred and fifty players in "The Midnight Sons," the famous Low Fields-Messers. Shubert Broadway theatre production, due here Sept. 9 and 10.

THEATRE VOYONS

One of the hits on the program given today at the Theatre Voyons is a dainty biograph subject, "Wildful Peggy," and it pleases everyone who sees it. Peggy is an Irish lass who marries a great lord and finds it very tiresome to maintain the sedate and dignified manner required by his family. Her fun loving nature gets her into trouble, but her wit and cleverness always get her out. At last a prank more mad than the others seems to bid fair to get her into serious trouble but she comes out with flying colors and her lord receives additional proofs that she is true to him and that she loves him. "The Three Cherry Pits" is a strong dramatic subject, well presented, and "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" is a timely comedy telling of the troubles of a baseball fan whose wife insists on going to the ball game with him. Tomorrow the feature subject is to be "The Vow," a biblical story, magnificently staged and acted in a most impressive manner.

Was Found in Remote Spot of the Scottish Moors

GLASGOW, Aug. 31.—The body of a woman on which there was a large sum of money in notes and gold was found, in a remote spot of the Scottish moors last Friday. It was identified on Tuesday as that of Lady Marjorie Gladys Stuart Erskine, second daughter of the Earl of Buchan.

Lady Marjorie was a popular society woman. She was 30 years old. She had been missing for a month. The condition of the body makes it difficult to discover the cause of her death. There is no evidence of foul play, however, and it is believed that she lost her way on the moors and died of exposure.

Dropped Out of Sight

Among the papers found on the body was a receipted bill bearing the name of a hotel at Kingussie. Inquiries show that Lady Marjorie, accompanied by a maid, arrived at the hotel on July 30. She left the following day, requesting the management to keep any letters sent to her there, as she intended motoring part in a few days.

The maid stayed at Kingussie a day longer and then went to Perth. Letters were sent to Lady Erskine at the Kingussie hotel. As they remained unanswered, her friends and relatives began making inquiries about her. The maid, who has since returned to London, is being sought to answer questions regarding her mistress' movements.

At present there is nothing to indicate the cause of death. The body is in very bad condition, having apparently lain on the spot where it was found for a month. It was taken to Inverness, where a postmortem will be held.

In Excellent Health
The police are very reticent. They are inclined to accept the theory that death was due to exposure and privation. It is reported that one of the ankles of the deceased shows signs of injury.

It is asserted that at the time of her disappearance Lady Erskine was in excellent health. Her friends are not aware that she had any trouble likely to lead her to commit suicide. Murder for the purpose of robbery is excluded, inasmuch as a considerable sum of money in banknotes and gold was found on the body. There were no signs of violence.

Lady Marjorie surprised her friends in 1904 by entering a hospital to Lady Erskine as a probationary nurse. She was called Nurse Erskine, and her identity was not generally known. She wore the regulation uniform and was always pleasant. Her reason for leaving the institution after a short course was understood to have been because her friends persuaded her.

Worked as a Nurse
While she was at the hospital, Lady Marjorie, like the other probationers, rose at 6 o'clock in the morning, did night duty and helped to scrub the wards. She was a general favorite.

Her engagement to Arthur Broderick, youngest brother of Viscount Middleton, was announced in December, 1908. This caused a sensation. Ten days later it was stated that the marriage would not occur, although the date had been fixed and the banns published. No reason was given for the breaking off of the engagement.

The coroner's jury has returned a verdict, ascribing Lady Marjorie's death to exposure and privation, in accordance with the doctor's assumption, based on an examination of the remains. Friends are of the opinion that she either broke or sprained an ankle among the rocks and was unable to walk.

All chances were against her cries being heard in the wild and remote region where her body was found. The weather was stormy early in August and cold enough in the mountains to cause death comparatively soon under such circumstances as seem to have befallen Lady Marjorie.

Lady Marjorie Gladys Stuart Erskine was born in 1880. Lord Cardross is her only brother, but there are an elder and a younger sister, both of whom are married. Lady Muriel, the elder, is the wife of Strathavon, Heathcote-Drummond-Willoghby, son of the Earl of Ancaster. Lady Evelyn married Walter Edward Guinness, son of Lord Meagh. The Buchan (pronounced Buck-an) earldom dates back to 1610. It is a Scotch peerage. The present earl is the 14th, the countess, mother of Lady Marjorie, was Rosalie Louise Sartons. The couple were married in 1876. The family seat is in Invergowrie, of which the earl is a deputy-lieutenant.

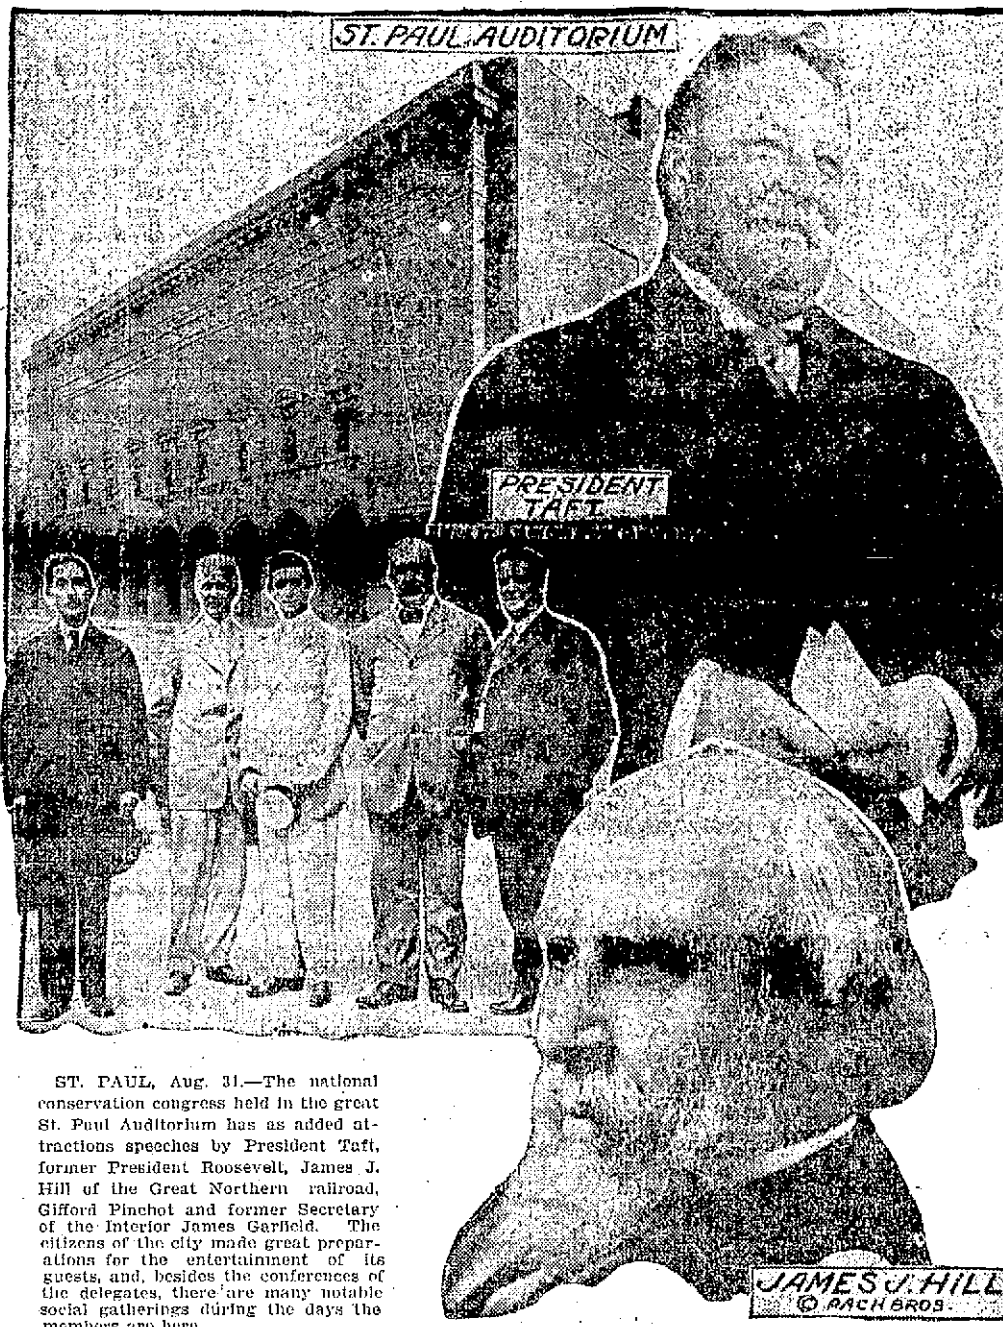

Kingussie is in the Highlands. It is in Inverness county on the Strathpey river, in a very wild and lonely region.

WEDS WIDOW

IN ORDER TO PROTECT HER PROPERTY

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—"A Romance of Winter" might be the title of the story of the marriage license issued yesterday to Jeremiah H. Jenkins, 50 years old, and Mrs. Elizabeth Walter, 55 years, who it not for the facts. The address of the couple is 116 Monroe street, Brooklyn. Jenkins is an inspector in the sewer department. A year and a half ago his wife died and Mrs. Walter, then the widow of a newspaperman, took care of her. Her dying wish was that Mrs. Walter take care of the old man.

MANY NOTABLE MEN WILL TALK TO DELEGATES AT CONSERVATION CONGRESS

ST. PAUL, Aug. 31.—The national conservation congress held in the great St. Paul Auditorium has as added attractions speeches by President Taft, former President Roosevelt, James J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad, Gifford Pinchot and former Secretary of the Interior James Garfield. The citizens of the city made great preparations for the entertainment of its guests, and, besides the conferences of the delegates, there are many notable social gatherings during the days the members are here.

Jenkins and the Widow Walter bought the two-family house in which they live jointly. She has looked after him ever since.

"Mr. Jenkins," said the widow who will be a bride when seen last night, "believes that he will die soon. He desires to see that I am protected in the matter of the purchase of the house and I am recompensed for my care of him. We have obtained the license and will use it. It is true there is not much affection, but we have the greatest regard for each other."

HOTEL GUESTS

WERE GIVEN A SCARE BY FIRE

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—At midnight the guests of the New American House, on Hanover street, were aroused from their slumbers by hearing the house fire alarm ring. When they heard the engines coming they hastily dressed, and gathering together their valuable possessions fled to the office corridor below and to the street.

The fire started in an awning on the fourth floor front and as the lace curtains were flying out the window it caught the curtains. The guest in whose room the curtains were pulled in the house alarm and the clerk rang in the alarm to start the engine and house lines working.

The fire rapidly spread from awning to awning until it seemed that the entire front of the house was ablaze. Some passerby pulled in an alarm from the new fire box which has just been installed at the corner at Hanover and Portland streets, and it only took a few minutes after the arrival of the fire apparatus until the flames were extinguished and the frightened and half-clad guests were induced to return to their rooms.

The damage was slight and will not be known until today.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Less than three weeks more at Camp Riverlook, and only two more Sundays. As the time is shortening, it would be the part both of wisdom and pleasure for those intending to visit the camp to do so at once. A cordial invitation is extended to those who would enjoy an outing over Labor day to spend Sunday and Monday at Riverlook. Register not later than Saturday morning.

The "True Blue" club meets again tonight at 8 o'clock for special business.

The home girls gathered in the recreation room last evening for an informal "Homey" time, listening to the graphophone and playing games. Present in our fun were three of the supervisors of the playgrounds, who have formed a happy, helpful part of our family during the summer.

After being cleaned and freshened with paint and varnish, the dining room will be opened again to our friends and patrons under the able management of Mrs. Munsey on Sept. 12.

In addition to the regular meals that have been served, meals will also be served in a canteen.

GIRL WAS KILLED

By a Fall From Fire Escape

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Ethel Baade, four years old, the daughter of William and Helen Baade, was instantly killed last evening by a fall from the fire escape of her parents' home, No. 622 E. One Hundred and Sixty-ninth street.

The family lives on the fifth floor of the six-story apartment, opposite McKim Square. With her sister, two years older, little Ethel was playing house on the fire escape. The father, who is an electrical engineer, was expected home for dinner in a few minutes, and the mother had called the children to come in and get dressed for dinner.

There was a scream, and the little one in some manner not explained had fallen from the escape. It is said she had squeezed through the uprights of the railing.

John Delaney, the janitor of the apartment, saw her fall. She landed on the cement court in the rear of the building. Delaney picked up the body and ran to the home of Dr. Ashley at No. 623, across the street. He said she had been instantly killed. Her skull was fractured and nearly every bone in her body broken.

Another child, Arthur Nass, five years old, living on the fifth floor of No. 517 East One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, was killed by a fall from the fire escape of his home about the same hour as the Baade child.

REV. BRO. JOHN

Popular Teacher Leaves St. Patrick's School

Rev. Brother John, who has been associated with the teaching staff of St. Patrick's academy for the past six years and to whom much credit is due for the present standard of the sanctuary choir of the church with which the school is affiliated, will leave this afternoon to join the teaching staff of a parochial school in Worcester, Mass. In the short time that Brother John has been with the boys of St. Patrick's, through his untiring efforts and zeal, he has endeared himself to all, and the school hall of St. Patrick's, where the members of the choir assembled last evening after enjoying their annual picnic at Canobie Lake park, presented a sombre scene when the reverend brother bade the boys among whom he has labored for the past six years, good-bye.

In a few words Brother Osmond, the principal of the academy, who will assume charge of the sanctuary choir upon Brother John's departure. Paid a high tribute to the zeal and perseverance of the departing brother. Upon concluding his remarks Brother Osmond called upon Brother John to address the members of the choir. After his remarks Brother John, under each member, individually, farewell. Although regretting to see him depart, the members of the choir are pleased to know that Brother John has been given a more congenial field to labor, as his health has been poor during the past two years, and it is believed that the change will be of benefit to him.

Brother Osmond, impressed upon the boys that it was not a "last good-bye." They were given to Brother John and intimated that "providing his health shows an improvement within a short time, he will be returned to this city to continue his work among the boys who he so dearly loved."

REV. DR. BERLE

Says Parents Are Not Fully Acquainted With Children

SAGAMORE BEACH, Aug. 31.—A clal institution will have to live up to them. Thousands of parents are less acquainted with their children than their teachers, their pastors, their playmates or their neighbors, was one of the declarations in the paper read by Dr. Berle of Boston before the Sagamore Beach conference on the moral and religious training of the young. Dr. Berle's topic at the forenoon session today was "The Training of the Youth in the Home and the Church."

The clergyman was unexpectedly prevented at the last moment from attending the conference and reading his paper in person and one of the delegates read it for him.

After making his statement concerning the lack of parental acquaintance with children, Dr. Berle said:

"The standing and conspicuous excuse of parents when confronted with the facts about their children is that they never dreamed that such things were possible concerning their children. As a rule, teachers, public officials and the public generally discount the parental opinion of their own children."

"It is because of this fact that the extra-domestic agencies for child training and child education have arisen. Sunday schools, when they first appeared, were opposed, among other reasons for the particular one that religious training was a function of the home. But the home did not do it; hence the Sunday school."

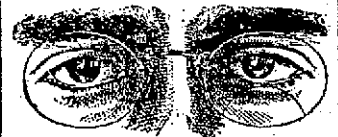

"Young people's societies and the like would never have come into being if the home had been properly organized and the young people trained in it."

"The public schools today are assuming functions which belong to the home and which, being delegated to an agency outside of the home, makes for disintegration of the unity of home life. Others have been given over to the church, which likewise is today doing scores of things which it has no proper business to be doing. The only reason why it is doing them is because they are not being done in the home. In so far as this is true the church also is a disintegrating force in modern society."

Judged by opportunity the children of the poorer and middle classes are better bred, morally cleaner and educationally more responsive than those of the families of greater wealth. But this does not compensate them for their fearful losses in the destruction of the home life.

"The home precedes the church, the state, or any instrument of the state, in authority. It has the first claims on the child and the best chance. Give the home ideals and principles and every school, every church, every so-

THE POST-VACATION TYPHOID SEASON

Now that people are beginning to return from the beaches we may expect to hear of a number of typhoid fever cases reported. The people who board at beach hotels cannot tell just what kind of water is used for drinking purposes and cooking. There is little doubt that some of the hotels impose upon their guests by using pump water instead of pure spring water usually sold around the beaches. It is this imposition that is responsible for the large number of typhoid cases annually resulting from a few weeks' stay at the beach.

The safest way to enjoy a vacation at a beach is to hire a cottage, and have your own cooking done, so that you will not be deceived in the water, or anything else. The water used at the average summer resort is never the best, but it seems that the worst of all is the pump water found at the beaches. It is a great source of typhoid, a fact that is apparent in the number of typhoid cases developed annually among the people who spend a few weeks at the beaches.

LIVES LOST FROM INABILITY TO SWIM

During the past few days we have had many foreboding illustrations of the necessity of teaching young people to swim. On Sunday in the New England states there were eleven drownings, and yesterday there were three in the vicinity of Boston.

At Jamaica Plain a baby carriage rolled down an incline into a pond, and the frantic mother following the maternal instinct jumped in to save her baby. She found herself unable to do so and was drowned in the attempt. A man who tried to save her life was also drowned. Both lives undoubtedly would have been saved had the parties been able to swim.

The matter of providing public baths, or at least a swimming pool in which the young people could learn to swim is of more importance than is generally supposed.

As a result of their inability to swim there are from ten to twelve boys and men drowned in our own city every year, and if we were to count the number drowned in the New England states we would have to go up high into the hundreds.

This is a matter upon which the public mind needs a rude awakening. It is perhaps useless to expect that any editorial effort will arouse the public mind which remains unmoved by the mere announcement of the drownings in the course of a summer, all resulting from the fact that the victims were unable to swim.

It would not cost very much to provide the means necessary to teach all our young people to swim. It should be made compulsory upon every pupil at school to be able to swim. It would be a protection to the pupils themselves, and to others who may be exposed to danger, and whose lives may be easily saved if everybody can swim.

WHERE'S THE DEMOCRACY OF THE FIFTH DISTRICT?

Where, may we ask, is the democracy of the Fifth congressional district?

Has the old guard disappeared or given way entirely to the domination of the political adventurers who would sell democratic nominations and conventions to republican candidates? While the spirit of revolt against the trust rule of the republican party is surging throughout the land, is there a single note of protest heard from the old Fifth congressional district? While decent republicans themselves rise in revolt are the democrats of this district so lost to all sense of duty and right that they will still cringe to the power that turns them over to the plundering trusts and the speculative combines nurtured, fostered and fathered by the republican party?

Through an excessive tariff the republican party has licensed the trusts to levy tribute upon the people, and from this extortion there is no relief and no hope except through the overthrow of the ruling party and the election of a democratic administration to conduct the government of this republic. The party in power is split in twain, and there is a general demand for a change.

As a result it is predicted, even by candid republicans, that the next congress will be democratic. That will be but a step towards the complete overthrow of republican trust rule in 1912.

At such a juncture and in such a crisis will the democrats of the Fifth congressional district rise to the occasion and prove their loyalty to democratic principles or will they continue to favor upon the candidate who is a factor in upholding all the evils of republican sway in this country.

Are the loyal democrats of the Fifth district to submit to this political debauchery or are they ready to enter the fight for the nomination of an able, clean and reputable democrat who can be elected?

This district has always been considered good democratic fighting ground with the right kind of a candidate. There are plenty of good men in the district who can give Mr. Ames the run of his life, and in justice to the citizens of all parties as to the democracy of the district such a man should be nominated.

Mr. Ames will undoubtedly endeavor to dictate the democratic nomination in order to prevent the nomination of a strong candidate. Will the democrats tolerate this method of rendering democratic victory impossible or will they go in to fight for victory by selecting a winning candidate?

Is it not significant that a young man whom the democratic party honored with high office and who tried to give Mr. Ames the democratic nomination for congress two years ago is now employed at the congressman's Boston office? What is he there for? Is it to help the cause of democracy or to assist in debauching the democratic party, a work for which he openly showed such eminent aptitude at the last congressional convention?

The time is ripe for action. Let the democracy of the old Fifth district be heard from as of yore and let the political supporters of Mr. Ames be overwhelmed in a defeat that will vindicate the cause of democracy and give the Fifth district the able and efficient representation to which from its industrial importance it is entitled.

SEEN AND HEARD

A polite and obliging salesman in a department store had had his patience sorely tried by a fastidious shopper, who, after causing the salesman to take down from the shelves every bolt of cloth except one on the top shelf, finally glanced at her watch, saying: "Oh, I must be going. I was merely looking for a friend."

"In that case, madam," replied the unhappy salesman, "I'll gladly get down the last bolt if you think she is in that."

Boggs, a cavalry officer at West Point academy, was an assistant in the riding hall. On one occasion he overheard Whistler, who thoroughly disliked to ride, objecting strenuously to the horse brought for his use. The horse, he argued, was too heavily built, and much too large for a man of his size.

"Whistler, with much vehemence, urged the man next to him to swap. The man with whom he wished to exchange horses was of muscular build and a 'pretty generous size' and his horse a lightweight animal, so it seemed to Whistler that it would be a 'most fitting exchange.'"

"Oh, don't swap, don't you swap, Mr. Whistler," cried the dragon; "your's is a war-horse, sir." "A war-horse!" exclaimed Whistler. "That settles it, I certainly don't want him."

"Yes, you do, sir," reiterated the man; he's a war-horse I tell you, for he'd rather die than run."—The Century.

"The most amusing story of an American in France that I ever heard," said a recently appointed attaché to the French embassy, "is this: 'A well-known French actor became involved in a discussion with an American, heated, drew his card from his pocket, thrust it on the table with a tragic air, and stalked out.'"

"The American regarded the card for some moments, then took out his fountain pen, wrote 'Admit bearer' above the engraved line, and went off to the theatre."—Brooklyn Life.

William H. Crane, the actor, says he first learned what true love is by accidentally overhearing a brief conversation between a young man and a very pretty girl.

"And you're sure you love me?" said she. "Love you?" echoed the young fellow. "Why, darling, while I was hiding you goodly in the porch last night your dog bit a piece out of the calf of my leg and I never noticed it till I got home."—Judge.

LAKEVIEW PARK

"Magic Hearts," an extraordinary dazzling spectacle, will feature the final free exhibition of fire of the season at Lakeview park next Friday evening. Set-pieces, aerial torpedoes and multi-colored sparks will abound with illuminating and "big noise" effects that are perfectly entrancing. The pyrotechnical display closes the most successful season Lakeview park has ever enjoyed and is the climax of a list of highly appreciated specialties which the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co. has been providing all summer.

The hearts are truly magic. Two flaming red hearts appear in great gossamerous and then suddenly as if by magic they pulsate. Together the hearts open and from them dart two large round heads with elongated necks. The two fiery creatures immediately start to make friends of each other and they bow and nod with surpassing grace.

Everybody enjoys patriotic set-pieces and of these two will be provided Friday night. The "Unfurling of the Stars and Stripes" shows the flag in white and blue gradually developing into the stars and stripes of the American flag.

To every American the spectacle is extremely edifying and among the young people creates an exceptionally favorable impression. The "American Shield" is another wonderful piece of artistic work and presents the red, white and blue in a different way amid sparks of varying colors. One supplements the other in bringing forth in their most beautiful light our national colors.

The "Tree of Fire," a gorgeous flaming set-piece in itself, is made much more gorgeous by the millions of multi-colored sparks that shoot about from it after a sudden explosion in the tree's fiery leaved branches.

Another brilliant display is the "Rising of Jupiter," the planet being represented as rising from clouds of fire between revolving zones of dazzling colored rings.

It will be Master & Wells' choicest exhibition.

The leaves fall clattering upon the walk. The lover lends his ear, alas! to hark—but silence, only silence comes to mock.

No low, sweet accents greet him—he's alone! Then the old lover, wrinkled, bent and gray, Kisses the face as chill as chastest stone And puts the old daisy-chain to rest.

Former United States Senator James McCready has announced his active candidacy for the democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky to succeed Governor Augustus E. Willson.

A young man of Schuylkill Haven, Pa., has been hanging signs with texts from the Bible printed upon them on walls and in conspicuous places along highways and railroads. One of the texts was hung by chance opposite the residence of a well known politician of the country. It read, "Be sure your sin will find you out." The young man was arrested on the charge of making threats.

BREAKING OUT ALL OVER BODY

Itched Dreadfully. When Scratched It would Bleed and Become Very Sore. Could Scarcely Sleep as the Itching was Worse at Night. Dreaded Putting Hands in Water.

Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment 3 Weeks. Trouble All Disappeared.

"Some time ago I had a breaking out all over my body. It first started like what we call goose flesh and itched dreadfully. When I scratched it, it would bleed and become very sore. I tried almost everything for the itching but none gave me any relief. I could scarcely sleep as the itching was always worse at night. My hands were so sore I dreaded putting them in water and after I would wash dishes or do laundry work that required the use of other soaps they were always worse. This went on for about six months. Then I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and in two or three weeks the trouble all disappeared. I always found that my hands were worse with a dry scale on them after using any cheap soap but the Cuticura Soap produced such a soothing feeling on my skin that it was a pleasure to use it. I also know what wonders the Cuticura Remedies have done for a friend of mine, so I would recommend them to any one. Mrs. Delmar Barrett, 611 King St., Wilmington, Del., Nov. 15, 1909."

PROPHYLACTIC SYSTEM OF DENTISTRY

Prophylactic or Preventive Dentistry is fast becoming more widely understood and practised by those who stand highest in the dental profession. The mouth is the gateway to the entire digestive tract. If it is kept in a healthy condition, the whole system is greatly benefited. This new field opens up wonderful possibilities for future generations, who should have little or no trouble with their teeth and whose general health should be far above that of the present day.

AN EARLY WINTER

Predicted by Flocks of Sea Gulls

Members of the Lynn Yacht club who went on cruises to various points along the north shore, Sunday, says the Lynn Item reported when they returned to the club house last night that they had been greatly bothered by large flocks of sea gulls, which not only followed the boats, but kept up an incessant squawking for food. Around the fish traps at Nahant there were large flocks of the birds from early in the morning until sundown waiting for a chance to capture any fish that might be unwary enough to be snared in their nets. Along the shores, too, where clams are found in some abundance, immense flocks of young gulls were with the older ones, digging food and covering the flats with shells.

The gulls returned from the north some 10 days ago and those who have lived in the vicinity of Lynn harbor declare that they never before saw so many of the birds at one time. The number of young is unusually large, too, and weather prognosticators take that as a sure sign for an early winter.

The older gulls leave this section for the north about the middle of May, going as far as the banks to mate and nest. After the young are hatched they make every progress down the coast, and usually arrive in this vicinity about the middle of September. This year, however, they are a month ahead of their usual time for arriving, and as the young have a heavy coat of feathers, the weatherwise declare that it means a very severe winter. One of those who watched the birds off Nahant yesterday declared that there was no fowl of the air that was a wiser than the sea gull. He is not only a good fisherman, but he knows more about the coming weather than any groundhog or weather sharp that ever lived.

If a gull is far at sea, and this man and a severe storm is approaching, it immediately makes flight for shore and finds places of security until after the storm has passed. That was one of the chief reasons why this man believed that a severe winter was coming, and coming early. He also believes that the present spell of good weather would soon be broken by a storm of unusual severity.

AT PINE CAMP

NEW ENGLAND MEN LAST TO LEAVE

PINE CAMP, N. Y., Aug. 31.—With the departure of the two New England regiments, several of the organizations of the regular army and Gen. Fred D. Grant, the maneuvers camp of 1910 is a thing of the past. With the exception of the regular Monday night, it has been successful.

Of course, the topic of discussion yesterday was the shooting affair Monday night, and the colored troops were much worked up over the tragedy.

The breaking of camp of a large army is one of the most interesting spectacles that can be imagined, and that of yesterday was made doubly so by a stampede of the mules just after supper when the men of the Tenth cavalry were loading their horses. The

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association

The olive waves her symbol from the sea to bordering sea,
The dove has dropt a plume in every hamlet of the land,
The musket leans unloaded in the fort and armory,
And silent in the parapet the muzzled cannon stand.
But the town is like a heaven with her starry fields of blue;
The strains of martial music thrill the thousands through and through,
Till not a throat is silent, and not a heart is still,
For the double-stepping feet
Of the legions in the street—
The caravan of toilers from the shop and mart and mill!

The hulks of belted armor plunge across the warless wave;
The stallion of the charges stands unsaddled in the stall;
The veteran's hair is silver, and the turf is on the grave
Of his brother in the bivouac who went out to fight and fall.
But the shout of marching armies has arisen loud and long;
Bright are the eyes of daughters and the pride of mothers strong,
With bell and bugle swelling the clamor and the hum
For the long and steady lines
From the furnace and the mines
That double step the chorus of the trumpet and the drum.

The buttercup and daisy bloom on Cemetery Ridge;
The wheat and purple clover choke the mouth of Devil's Den;
The laurel drops her berries in the dust of Wilson Bridge
In rosaries of requiem for the souls of slaughtered men.
But the soldier of the anvil and the pulley cog and wheel,
His sword a flaming bubble from a pot of puddled steel,
Is singing in the cities, from Tampa up to Nome,
The stirring battlecry
Of the men that do and die
To save the glory of the land, the altar and the home.

The lark has built her nest upon the grass of Bunker Hill,
Whose canister is buried with the hatred of the foe;
The wilderness surrenders to the wooing whippoortwill,
And all her deadly shot and shell were relics long ago.
But the pickets of the throttle and the sentries of the mine
Are flanked on every crowded curb and falling into line—
The legions of the drill and forge, the soldiers of the soil,
That guard the smiling land
With heart and soul and hand,
The God Almighty armament of capital and toil!

STATE OR NATIONAL CONSERVATION?

The Question at the Coming Big St. Paul Congress

It is an irrepressible conflict between opposing and enduring forces," said William H. Seward in 1858, referring to the struggle between slavery and free labor. Were he alive today he might apply the phrase with justice to the contest between the proponents of the two theories of conservation to be maintained at the coming national conservation congress which will begin in St. Paul Sept. 5.

It is a question of enormous magnitude and far-reaching importance that will be discussed during the deliberations of the congress. In it are involved phases of the state rights dispute which brought turmoil in Jackson's time and almost rent the nation asunder in 1861-5. Political pessimists assert that the dispute is endless; that we shall have it as a perpetual thorn in our sides so long as our confederation of states, with its delimitations of the respective rights and duties of the state and federal governments, shall last.

Simply put, the present question is this: Shall the states control the conservation of the natural resources within their boundaries, when such resources are to be drawn from land owned by the government, or do the interests of the nation, taken as a whole, require the conservation of land and water and their products by the central government? It has been asserted that the dispute may be defined as the clashing of section against section, the west against the east. But if this be so—and it is open to grave doubt—the lines are not drawn with any approach to closeness.

The matter is one of those on which men may differ honestly without laying themselves open to the charge of roguery.

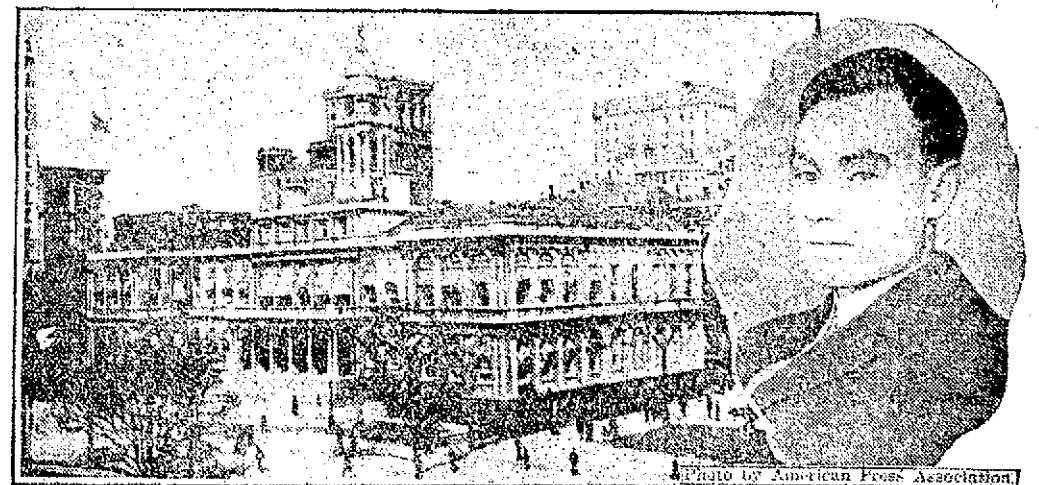

The upholders of the state rights idea assert their belief that their opponents' view of conservation means locking up the nation's resources for an indefinite period of time, preserving them so well that no use can be made of them until the present generation at least has passed off the stage. The states are able to govern their own property, they say, and may be trusted to see that the wolves of selfish interest do not raven among the sheep of public property. The "federalists," on the other hand, declare that the stand of the "state righters" is that of the man who said he would do nothing for posterity since posterity had never done anything for him. The cornerstone of the "federalists' faith is the belief that conservation without the strong protecting arm of the federal government is a mockery and that turning over the nation's resources to the care of the individual states means intrusting them to the land shark and the despoiler.

It is a brilliant array of speakers that will address the congress. On the opening day President Taft will deliver the great speech. A day after his predecessor, Mr. Roosevelt, will reiterate the views on conservation already made familiar to the public in messages, speeches and articles. Colonel Roosevelt will be followed by Governor Eberhart of Minnesota, and the latter by Gifford Pinchot, the deposed chief forester. Among the other speakers will be Mr. Pinchot's successor, Henry S. Graves; former Secretary of the Interior James R. Garfield, James J. Hill, Senators Dooliver, Nelson, Dixon of Montana and Beveridge, Governors Stubbs of Kansas and Hadley of Missouri, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Thomas L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, Herbert Knox Smith of the department of commerce and labor, Director John Barrett of the bureau of American republics and Francis J. Heney of San Francisco.

It was announced recently that the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee will meet in St. Paul during the sessions of the congress to announce the result of the probe into the charges against the secretary of the Interior. As in these charges is involved in some degree the question of conservation, it is expected that the announcement of the findings of the committee will arouse as much interest as the deliberations of the congress.

MAN OF 31 NOW NEW YORK'S HEAD

CITY HALL, NEW YORK.

JOHN PURROY MITCHELL.

At the head of the government of the great city of New York is a young man, a very young man for so exalted a position. He is John Purroy Mitchell, elevated to the mayor's chair for the time being by the pistol shot which laid low Mayor William J. Gaynor. Mitchell stepped into the mayor's place from that of the president of the board of aldermen, who holds in the city's government a position analogous to that of the vice president in the federal government.

According to the comments of the public and the press immediately after the shooting of Mayor Gaynor, the reins of power fell from his hands into others capable of holding them firmly over the multifarious branches of the city government. No doubt was cast on the ability of Mr. Mitchell to serve acceptably as mayor, despite his lack of years. He is the youngest executive New York has ever had and one of the youngest on record in the United States. He was thirty-one years old on July 19 of the present year. In justifying their optimistic view of his abilities his friends are pointing out the fact that Napoleon Bonaparte was only twenty-seven when he won his brilliant victories in Italy.

It was as a lawyer and reformer that Mitchell was known to New York before his nomination on the fusion ticket last fall for the important position of president of the board of aldermen. By his successful searching into numerous cases of official misconduct in office and graft he had won for himself the titles of "watchdog of the city government" and "Purroy quennade," the latter from the name of the celebrated Spanish inquisitor.

His thoroughness is the quality that first brought him into public notice about three years ago. At that time he occupied a minor position in the office of the corporation counsel of the city, William B. Ellison. It was the duty of the latter to see that the city was represented before the commissioners of accounts when charges were brought against John F. Ahearn, president of the borough of Manhattan. Mr. Ellison delegated the task to Mr. Mitchell, and then Mr. Ahearn, probably not liking the quiet setting of the mouth muscles with which Mr. Mitchell went about the job, raised legal objections to his appointment. Whereupon Mayor McClellan showed most admirable judgment in the choice of an investigator and appointed Mr. Mitchell commissioner of accounts to conduct the investigation himself. Later, as a result of Mr. Mitchell's handling of the probe, the connection of Mr. Ahearn with the city government was severed. The same fate befell President Herriot of the borough of Queens, likewise accused of misconduct in office.

From investigating high city officials and bringing about their removal young Mr. Mitchell—he was only twenty-eight then—turned his pitiless searchlight on other parts of the city service. He revealed scandalous conditions in the fire department and elsewhere and helped materially in bringing about their abatement. It took a lot of hard work on his part, of course, but he has never been known to shy at hard work. And he does not flinch either when some one of the numerous men whom he has ousted or helped to oust, and their friends speak in determined tones of "getting" him. He comes of the Scotch-Irish ancestry that has always treated as an insult the suggestion that it might be afraid of anything.

Mr. Mitchell's uncle, the late Henry D. Purroy, was a great power in the Democratic politics of New York twenty years ago. Henry D. Purroy is remembered in the city as having been one of the bitterest and most determined opponents Tammany Hall ever had within the Democratic party.

In person Mr. Mitchell is tall, spare and ascetic looking. He is an indefatigable student of men and affairs. He was married last year and resides in a flat on the west side of Manhattan.

Finding of Suicide in Case of Newman Approved

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—The committee of the house of representatives appointed to investigate the suicide of John Newman of Cambridge and the treatment of boys at the Lyman school made its report yesterday and in it there are several important recommendations.

Trustees of the school testified that, serving as they do without compensation, it has been difficult for them to attend to the work of the school and they advocated the appointment of an executive agent. The committee approves of the appointment of an executive agent with compensation and recommends the abolition of the boards of trustees of the Lyman school, the industrial school for girls and the industrial school for boys at Shirley, and the appointment of a board of trustees of five with power to employ an executive agent.

The recommendation, according to the committee, is made in no spirit of hostile criticism of the work of the present board of trustees, but that a consolidation would result in a saving of considerable money, through better management and greater attention.

No Surveillance After Release

One sweeping change is the doing away of the surveillance that boys have been under after being released from the school. It has been customary when boys were released that the probation officer keep track of them for some time to see how they were doing. Under the new ruling when boys have been discharged on account of good behavior there will be no more probationary restrictions.

The committee with one exception is for the retaining of corporal punishment, but it is recommended that reports of punishment shall be closely scrutinized and that as little of it be done as possible.

Representative Carmody favors the abolishing of corporal punishment. Corporal punishment is not abolished, although the committee recommends that reports of punishment shall be closely scrutinized and that as little of it be done as possible.

The committee, composed of Harry H. Ham of Boston, chairman, Henry Pond of Greenfield, Zebedee E. Cliff of Somerville, Cornelius J. Carmody of Worcester and David C. Ahearn of Framingham, devote more than twenty pages of the report to the investigation held from June 9 to June 15 into the circumstances of the death of John Newman of Cambridge.

The report gives a complete statement of facts concerning the case, and the committee approves the finding of Judge Fowler after a thorough inquiry, whose conclusion was that young Newman came to his death by his own act, and that no unlawful act of any other person contributed in causing his death.

The committee believes in indeterminate sentences, claiming that the aim of the state is to reform rather than punish boys. To assign him to the school for a definite period of time would mean that he would have no incentive for improvement in his own welfare and would have no greater desire for good behavior on the last day of the sentence than he had on the first.

At the present time there is a superintendent of the probation department, and a superintendent of the school. The committee feels that there is no distinction between them, it believes that it would be better to have one man responsible for the time the boys are on probation as well as while they are in school, and recommends that the superintendent of the schools be made responsible for the work of the probation department.

It has been claimed that when boys are released there is no proper method whereby a record may be kept of the career of the contract which has been made, and it is suggested that a permanent record be kept of the terms of every contract.

Corporal Punishment

The detention rooms which are used for punishment purposes come in for denunciation. According to the committee they are a survival of certain prison features which existed in the old reformatory and should be abolished in the modern cottage reformatory system. If they are continued it is the opinion of the committee that another suicide similar to the Newman case is an ever present possibility. In those rooms boys have been placed without observation for from one to three days.

The committee recommends the total abolishment of the detention rooms and suggests that a place of confinement should be so located as to permit constant observation.

Provision should be made for continuous supervision of all the boys in the institution at night, fault being found by the committee with the present system.

Of corporal punishment the committee says: "The subject of corporal punishment of children by those charged with their care has been given deep study, not only by those engaged in conducting reformatory schools, but by many authorities responsible for the education and training of children in the public schools. Recently a Boston school board made particular investigation of the subject, and still is in favor of corporal punishment. In the common law, from time immemorial, it has been permitted to parents, guardians and those otherwise intrusted with the care of children and charged with the responsibility of their training to use corporal punishment within sound and reasonable limits."

"It should be remembered that the average boy sent to the school is one whom the home cannot manage, the church influence nor the public schools control. He is a boy who has shown a lack of appreciation for social convention and restraint, and, unless he can be taught the necessity for obedience to proper authority, his reformation is well-nigh impossible. To deny the officials of the Lyman school the right to use corporal punishment, no matter what exigency might arise which, in the opinion of the officials, demand its use, would be a step in a retrograde direction and might necessitate the substitution of a method of punishment more severe and far more abhorrent than corporal punishment."

"Thoughtless Sentimentality"

"The committee has been urged to recommend that the use of corporal punishment at the Lyman school should be totally abolished, and, indeed, at the time the committee was organized, and before any investigation had been made, a majority of the committee were inclined to oppose its use; but in view of the searching investigation that has been made, and the testimony that has been given by all who have made a study of the subject from its practical working, the committee is compelled to the conclusion that the objection to the use of corporal punishment springs mainly from thoughtless sentimentality, and are advanced by those who have had no experience in the scope of the work investigated."

"These objections, moreover, are based on no other argument than that occasionally some boys have grown out of the use of corporal punishment. No reason founded in any degree on soundness or logic has been advanced by any one to show that its proper use is not beneficial for the purpose for which it is intended."

The committee recommends that the trustees in the future not only make a more rigid examination of the monthly reports of corporal punishment which are sent to them than has been their custom in the past, but also cause to be promptly discharged any official who is found violating the spirit of the statute and the rules in relation thereto which have been enacted and established."

Carmody Dissents

Representative Carmody favors the abolishment of corporal punishment, his opinion being as follows: "I concur with the other members of the committee with reference to their findings of facts and recommendations, except that I am obliged to dissent from their conclusions as to the necessity for corporal punishment. From the first I have been opposed to flogging, considering it a cruel and ineffective method of punishment. I believe that whipping tends not only to make a boy sullen and resentful, but it tends also to brutalize the master who applies it."

"There is no corrective force in a punishment unless the boy recognizes and admits the justice of it, and the right of the one over him to inflict it. The child admits the right of a parent to whip him, but he resents having any one else usurp that parental right. To his mind it is an act of tyranny, and he lays up in his mind the determination some day to revenge the insult. He often admits that he is at fault, that he is guilty of the offense, but he can never bring himself to justify the administration of the lash upon his body by any person not his parent."

"The argument is often made that the abolition of corporal punishment in public institutions necessarily means the substitution of some other form of punishment for more cruel and injurious to the boy. This argument has little weight with me, for I find myself unable to understand why such a substitution is necessary. There is in every boy's heart a place which can be reached, it only those in charge of him have the ability to reach it. That is the whole problem,—to awaken a spirit of manliness and self-respect, an ambition to assume a place of respectability with other boys

great playground is to be purified—it is being cleaned and will remain clean. These have been familiar words to the readers of newspapers for years, for every time Coney Island is mentioned it is almost sure to be said that reform has seized fast hold on the resorts once existing there, John Purroy Mitchell, New York's 31-year-old acting mayor, evidently did not believe all that he read, for almost as soon as he took the reins of government in hand after Mayor Gaynor was shot he started out for a little trip to Coney Island to see just how far purification and reform have traveled. He asserts that he caught up with both in a short time, and, besides causing the removal of a police inspector, with reduction in rank, to another part of the city, it is reported he also started some hundreds of chorus girls, music hall attaches and their friends on a parade in abbreviated costumes that only ended when Coney Island was far behind. Friends of the acting mayor assert that this is really the first and only genuine reform that Coney has ever experienced, notwithstanding reports to the contrary. Only one or two of the resorts are now selling liquor, and about the only familiar scenes are the "ho dog" and popcorn vendors. The pictures show not only the Bowery, but some of the more respectable show places.

SUPT. WHITCOMB

Was Re-Elected by the School Board Last Night

The school committee met at city hall last night and took favorable action on the recommendations of the committee on teachers relative to various transfers. Arthur K. Whitcomb was elected superintendent of schools of the city of Lowell for the coming year.

Members were present when Chairman Lamoureux called to order at 8 o'clock. Supt. Whitcomb read a communication from Frank M. Dowling, clerk of committees, stating that the committee on appropriations had decided not to make any further recommendations for loans for the heads of departments and urged the school board to keep within appropriation. Another communication having to do with unused school houses was referred to the committee on schools.

The first business was the report of the committee on teachers recommending the following transfers: From the training school to the New Moody street school, Miss Addie B. Merrill, as principal; Miss Grace C. Delaney and Miss Mary E. Snow; from the Pawtucket school to the New Moody street school, Miss Maudie M. Hardy, and to the Lexington avenue school, Miss Carrie A. Hart; from the Greenbush to the Varnum school, Miss Annie V. Donoghue; from the Grand street school to the Pawtucket school, Miss Corina G. Cover; from the Lexington avenue school to the Cheever street school, Miss Helen Kohnan; from the New Moody street school to the Colburn primary, Miss Ellen M. Holden, as principal, and Miss Nellie F. Davidson; from the Colburn primary to the London street school, Miss Mabel H. Elia; from the New Moody street school to the Cabot street school, Miss Eugenia L. Hogan.

The committee's report was accepted and adopted, and the following report, from the same committee was also adopted: We recommend that Miss Helen M. Shean be made principal of the Colburn school, and that Miss Mary T. Whelley be made principal of the Cabot street school.

We recommend that teachers elected last June be assigned as follows: Minnie E. Colburn to the Laura Lee school; Anna T. Coffey to the Merrill school; Eugene V. Frappier to the Cheever street school; Grace E. Frye to the Greenbush school; Loretta A. Hannafin to the Lyon street school; Anna M.

AN EXCITING TRIP

Of the Balloon "Boston" Yesterday

Jay B. Benton, city editor of the Boston Transcript, and Frank P. Bowker, also of Boston, had a thrilling experience during their ascension in the balloon "Boston" from the yard of the Lowell Gas Light Co. in School street yesterday afternoon. Owing to the high and changeable wind currents, the ascension was made under most hazardous conditions and the occupants of the basket had a narrow escape from being dashed to the ground as a result of the balloon colliding with a steel trestle and later with a high chimney in the yard.

The balloon reached an altitude of 7200 feet and after being in the air for about an hour landed in Carlisle.

When the balloon was released at 4.40 o'clock there was a high wind blowing. Before it could ascend high enough for clear sailing the big gas bag crashed against the steel trestle work in the yard. Pilot Benton realizing the danger threw out a bag of sand, but the bag caught in the ropes. The trestle work was passed, however, and the balloon rose slowly. The wind was blowing from the north and before the aerial craft cleared the obstacles in the yard it struck against a chimney in the yard. The basket struck the chimney with considerable force and the spectators in and about the yard expected to see the occupants dashed to the ground but Mr. Benton succeeded in clearing the obstacle, and the balloon being caught in a strong air current was carried northward over the Merrimack river. After remaining almost stationary over Pawtucketville for several minutes, it was caught in another air current and started to travel in a southerly direction.

While passing over Mt. Vernon street a bag of sand was thrown out, but for some reason or other the bag did not open and fell directly in the yard of Charles T. Upton of 63 Mt. Vernon street.

Several more bags of sand were emptied over the side of the basket at this point and the balloon began to steadily rise until it reached an altitude of 7200 feet, the greatest altitude yet reached by any balloon which ascended from this city.

The landing was made in a large field in Carlisle after the balloon had been in the air about an hour.

DELIGHTFUL LAWN PARTY

A delightful lawn party in honor of Miss Mildred Austin of Somerville and Miss Grace Miller of Newburyport by Miss Marion Fox on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Filker's home at No. 1 Wellington avenue was held last night. The lawn was decorated with Japanese lanterns, a musical program was carried out and refreshments served.

Delany to the Colburn primary school; Elizabeth A. Gilinson to the Riverside school; Cora E. Jones to the Green school; Charlotte O. Love to the Lakeview avenue school; Ellen F. Lynch to the Lyon street school; Charlotte A. Parsons to the Grand street school; Alice O. Stickney to the Billings street school; Grace M. Thurber to the Greenhedge school; Eleanor J. Lelacheur to New Moody street school.

We further recommend the assignment of other teachers as follows: Lena Collins to the Colburn school; Leona M. Small to the Varnum school; Laura F. Greene to the Washington school; Edith T. Sanborn to the Riverside primary school; Kathleen E. Driscoll to the Bartlett school; Rena J. Thomas to the Colburn school; Frances L. Donovan to the Colburn school; Elizabeth A. Conway to the Colburn school; Elizabeth G. Common to the Pawtucket school; Louise C. Thomas to the Colburn school; Sadie A. Connor to the Colburn school.

Dr. Lambert, chairman of the committee on schoolhouses and hygiene, recommended that the school in Charles street, near the corner of Lawrence, be named the "Colburn Primary." Also that the care and control of the temperature and ventilation of the school rooms be entrusted to the janitor, and that the temperature records be kept and sent to the committee on the Saturday before the last Tuesday of each month. The report was accepted and adopted. The same committee also recommended a leave of absence of Dr. Daniel A. O'Hearn, who is a member of the staff of district physicians recently appointed to the board, and that Dr. Merrill Long be temporarily elected to serve in his place.

"FRAUDS UPON THE PUBLIC"

is what some physicians have called patent medicines, and it is undeniably true that some are frauds and some are even worse, because they are injurious. On the other hand, there are many patent medicines such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and others, which are of real worth, and are recommended by physicians of recognized standing.

COL. ROOSEVELT

Will Fight for Primary Law Plank

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—A formal challenge to that faction of the republican party of New York state which encompassed the defeat of ex-President Roosevelt when the latter's name was presented to the state committee for temporary chairman of the state convention was issued yesterday by Lloyd C. Griscom, chairman of the New York county committee.

Mr. Griscom was in conference during the greater part of the day, with Frederick Greiner, the republican leader of Erie county. Collector of the Port William Loeb and other prominent republicans.

After carefully considering the situation, the conference gained the conviction that they could depend upon at least 650 of the 1015 delegates and issued a formal statement to the effect that they would not only present Mr. Roosevelt's name for temporary chairman of the convention, but do their utmost to have a direct nomination plank inserted in the platform.

It had been the intention of the Roosevelt supporters to bring the state committee together again in advance of the convention in order that the action of the committee in selecting Vice President Sherman for temporary chairman might be reconsidered; but after much discussion it was decided to make the attempt to substitute Col. Roosevelt's name Sept. 26, the night before the convention.

Caused Great Havor in Texas

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 31.—The gulf storm, which has been sweeping inshore along the Texas coast of Texas since Monday, increased in severity Monday afternoon, and showed little indications of abating. Point Isabel and Brazos de Santiago Pass, where the brunt of the wind was felt, are cut off from communication with Brownsville, but before the wires failed yesterday afternoon several substantial buildings were reported unroofed, a number of Mexican huts had been wrecked and other minor damage done.

Fears are entertained for the safety of the government gasoline launch Florence with Engineer F. M. Hartick, Junior Engineers N. J. Blackburn and P. H. Smith, both of Galveston, Tex., and a crew of five aboard. The last heard of the boat it was heading for Brazos Island, and it is not improbable that those aboard were rescued by the lifesaving crew stationed at that point.

MUST PAY OWN FARES

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Customs employees are not allowed to collect car fares or the price of meals for unusual service for the government under a ruling made by Controller R. J. Tracowell of the U. S. treasury.

The circular was received yesterday and created a lot of talk at the custom house. The messengers are the worst sufferers. They get $750 a year and they have to travel every morning with papers to the farthest ends of the town. They must either walk or pay their fare. If they pay their fare, not under the ruling of the controller reimbursed. The decision is based on a literal translation of the law that no more than the absolute compensation allowed by the congress shall be paid to an agent of the customs service unless he has to go outside his district on duty.

BOARD OF POLICE

Last Night

The regular meeting of the board of police held last night took the form of a band concert, for the feature of the meeting proved to be the concert program carried out by the band of the Extein-North institute for colored boys and girls at Cane Springs, near Louisville, Kentucky. Besides the members of the police board, there were present Supt. Welch, Clerk Flaherty, newspaper men, a couple of proprietors of Greek coffee houses and a score of newsboys and youngsters, the latter having been attracted to the office by the sound of the music.

The band is composed of eight colored boys who range in age from 8 to 14 years, the big bass drum being pounded by the youngest member of the organization, while the oldest foots through a bass horn. The uniforms worn by the youngsters are of blue and gilt.

The boys are in charge of one of the teachers at the institution, John W. White and Robert R. Brown, another official of the institution. They are making a tour in order to raise funds to finish their education. They came to the meeting last night to obtain a permit to play in the public streets for a day or two. They use the old fashioned method of playing to attract a crowd and then passing the hat.

All three members of the police board, when told of what the band desired, were for having the band come into the office and play several numbers. The band came and played, opening up with "Old Kentucky Home."

Next "The American Habit" was played, after which the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Dixie" were rendered in a manner which reflected much credit on the ability of the youngsters.

At the conclusion of the concert the board unanimously presented the band a permit free of charge, to play in the streets of the city for two days.

The board then considered a few minor license applications and later went into brief executive session. It granted the following minor licenses:

Billard and pool: Theophile Clairmont, 613 Merrimack street, five tables; Thomas P. Flynn, transfer from 380 Central street to 375 Central street; Thomas McEvoy, 305 Lakeview avenue.

SHOT HIMSELF

Pistol Found Beside the Body of Man

VINEYARD HAVEN, Aug. 31.—The body of William A. Vanderhoof, aged 54, was found today on the wharf of the New Bedford, Martha's Vineyard & Nantucket Steamboat Co. at Oak Bluffs with a pistol by its side. Vanderhoof, who was employed as freight agent by the company, had apparently shot himself in the head late last night and the police declared it a case of suicide. It was presumed that he expected his body to fall off the wharf into the water. No cause for the act is known.

Vanderhoof was unmarried and had lived in Oak Bluffs for 30 years.

JUDGE PARKER

MAY ACT AS COUNSEL FOR THE STRIKERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Announcement was made at the headquarters of the striking clock makers here yesterday that Judge Alton B. Parker, one time democratic presidential candidate, had been retained as special counsel for the union.

He is to seek a reversal by the higher courts of the recent decision of Justice Goff holding the purpose of the strike to be illegal in that it demanded the closed shop, and the enjoining of the strikers.

Judge Parker is of the opinion that the Goff decree is too sweeping as it forbids the right of peaceful assembly and free speech.

The broad effect of Justice Goff's ruling, which caused some disorder Monday night, became apparent yesterday, when it was announced that picketing of the factories will be stopped by the police.

MAYOR'S MAN

DERMEN

SALEM, Aug. 31.—As had been predicted, the board of aldermen last night refused to confirm Mayor Howard's nomination of Sergt. John J. Carr for captain of the police force. The vote against confirmation was 4 to 3, Adams, Gifford, Wilkins and Whipple voting no, and Capill, Colbert and Doyle voting yes. The name of Lieut. Lewis A. Manning, the ranking officer, was then presented by the mayor, and under the rules this went over until the next meeting.

It is said to be the intention of Mayor Howard to place in nomination for the lieutenantcy the name of Sergt. Carr if Lieut. Manning is confirmed for captain.

As a result of his attempt to pass over the heads of several of the officers ranking Sergt. Carr there has been stirred up considerable feeling against the mayor, and charges have been made that he is playing politics and bringing racial and religious issues to the fore. Aldermen Adams, Gifford, and Wilkins refuted insinuations cast upon them by the mayor in his newspaper articles accusing them of being influenced by religious prejudices.

At the afternoon's meeting there was a decidedly lively one. There was offered by Alderman Gifford an order that the committee on police and licenses report on the advisability of doing away with the office of sergeant of the police force. Alderman Adams introduced an order to reduce the number of police from 37 to 30. The force was only recently increased on an account of the illness of the late Capt. Blinn.

Both orders went to the committee on police and licenses.

AMES' REPLY.

TO THE STATEMENT OF CON-GRESSMAN GREENE

FALL RIVER, Aug. 31.—Hon. Butler Ames gave out yesterday his answer to the strictures passed upon him by Congressman William S. Greene on the former's campaigning methods in this section of the state. In it he says:

"Congressman Greene's attack upon me for daring to fight the bosses and machine in his district is entirely unwarranted, and, moreover, is based upon and composed of utter misstatements of fact. I have so far made no public utterances against Mr. Greene, nor have I publicly or privately threatened to make him sorry if he did not support me against Lodge."

"If Mr. Greene would attend to his business of being a congressman, and not try to dictate the political beliefs of every aspirant for political office in his district, he would command even greater respect from his constituents."

"In my visits to Fall River and New Bedford I have only endeavored to find candidates for the legislature who will stand as Ames men against the Lodge machine candidates, thus giving the voters a chance to express their preference. I have not 'financed' anybody's campaign, nor have I promised to do so."

"I am fighting Senator Lodge and his corrupt machine and I hope I am not, therefore, fighting Mr. Greene. If to fight Mr. Lodge is 'bossism on my part,' if to arrange for candidates opposed to his improper political practices, so that the voters may have a chance to vote on that issue, is 'dictation on my part' then I am willing to bear the burden."

certain newspapers which are incapable of dealing with public men and questions with fairness or decency it becomes necessary to state that there is not a particle of truth in the rumor that I will withdraw from the contest for governor. I am representing not my personal ambition, but the party that has honored me, and with it I will go to victory or defeat."

1000 DELEGATES

Opened in Providence Today

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 31.—The betterment of waterways throughout the entire country but mainly those in the eastern part of the United States, was the object of discussion among more than 1000 delegates at the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association which opened here today amid great enthusiasm. The visitors, who came from all sections of the country, were greeted by a gallantly decorated city and on every side were reminded that the whole state of Rhode Island was trying to make the four days' meeting a memorable one.

The Atlantic Deeper Waterways association was organized in Philadelphia in 1907 by men interested in the development of inland waterways. The purpose of the convention today was to pass upon measures that may best bring about the deepening of such waterways and to form plans for a chain of inland waterways stretching from Maine to Florida. The advantage of these canals in the country, it is claimed, would be cheaper freight rates, less loss of life from marine disasters and benefit to the navy in case of war.

The convention was called to order in the convention hall of the Providence Opera House. Rev. Samuel H. Webb of this city gave the invocation, following which Mayor Henry Fletcher of Providence welcomed the delegates. Mayor Fletcher said in part:

"Mr. Chairman and delegates to the third annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association: Back of the verbal greeting which it is my privilege and pleasure to extend to you today on behalf of the city of Providence beats in unison of welcome the pulse of a quarter of a million persons. It was here that man received the God-given freedom of religious liberty, a boon obtained, not by force of arms, not with the roar of cannon, the rattle of musketry or the ring of steel, nor yet by throwing the devious and oft-times dubious pathway of subtle statecraft, but by the sheer force of the magnetic personality and the prophetic power of Roger Williams, the founder of these plantations. To a city whose birth was amid such circumstances we receive you today."

"To us it seems especially fitting that Providence should play its part in the promotion of the great and magnificent enterprise to which you have pledged your energies. Therefore, we are with you heart and soul in your efforts to develop the inland waterways of this fair land for the fulfillment of your purposes will provide the solution of many an economic problem in the reduction of transportation cost, the conservation of time, the elimination of dangers and the consequent protection of life and property that now so frequently pay a costly toll to wind and wave. Finally, your plan means the ultimate bringing together in closer bonds of commercial, and therefore national unity of all our people, north, south, east, and west."

After Governor Pothier had welcomed the delegates on behalf of the state Congressman William S. Greene of Massachusetts, chairman of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries gave a brief address. Congressman John H. Small of North Carolina then voiced the appreciation of the delegates from the south for the cordial welcome which had been extended to them.

"While I am a loyal son of the south," he said, "yet my colleagues and I from that section have received the same welcome and will, I am sure, receive the same consideration as the men of New England or Pennsylvania because we are all citizens of the same great republic, protected by the same laws and loyal to the same flag."

Referring to the purposes of the convention, Congressman Small said: "The bonds of commerce stretching to the remotest boundaries make the resources and prosperity of each section the common heritage of all. During the past nine years the exports from the ports of the South Atlantic and gulf states have increased more than thirty-five per cent. while imports have increased more than one hundred per cent. yet their exports aggregate more than six and a half times the value of their imports."

"Our length of coastline assures us a prominent position in the world's commerce. When the Panama canal shall be opened the trend of inter-oceanic commerce will be southward and the commerce of these ports will receive even greater impetus."

Mr. Small then spoke of the great possibilities of development of 15,215 miles of navigable streams in the south. "Not alone do these streams furnish navigation," he said, "but marvelous and potential water power. There are in the south not less than five million horsepower, most of which is produced by streams which lie in the south Atlantic states and have their source in the Appalachians. This is conceded an under estimate. It is merely suggestive of the wonderful resources of this section when it is all made available by protecting headwaters and by wise conservation in the building of reservoirs so as to preserve the regularity of their flow."

Congressman Small dwelt on the great products and natural resources of the south and added:

"Far removed as we are from you we need to shorten the lines of communication and cheapen the cost of movement in our interchange of products. You need the output of our fields and forests and mines. We require your machinery and your fine manufactured goods. The railroads have served and still subserv a most important part in transportation but there are limitations which they have reached. We must construct canals across the six links which separate these inland sounds and bays along the Atlantic seaboard and make the inter coastal waterway a reality. Then not only shall our ports but our more than four thousand miles of navigable rivers in the South Atlantic states have cheap and easy communication with your ports and your thousands of miles of rivers and the commercial millennium of prosperity and peace will have arrived."

There is no clue to the identity of the burglars. Albert Currier, who is employed by the D. Gage Ice Co., reports for work early in the morning. As he came near the store he heard what he now believes to be hammering going on inside the store and as he turned from School street into Pleasant street he saw a man standing in front of Ducey's store, but as he suspected nothing wrong he did not take particular notice of the man to describe him.

Make Your Money

Earn More Than 4%

I have a few shares of stock of the United Butchers Supply Corporation, incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and doing a daily cash business. I believe this stock will pay dividends of more than 10 per cent on every dollar you invest in it. The corporation owns and controls valuable patents. The reason it is placing this stock on the market is to increase the factory space and present capacity. The above is practically a monopoly with no competition.

In a very short while this stock should be worth a great deal more than its par value. It is now selling at $10 per share.

This is not a risk. It is a sure thing. This business has existed four years and each day has brought a larger increase in its present capacity. Full information and reasonable prices.

BODY IDENTIFIED INSTANTLY KILLED
Woman Suicide Was Mrs. Cavanaugh of Roxbury Man Either Fell or Jumped From a Building

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—The body of the well-dressed, good-looking young woman who committed suicide in Young's hotel, was identified today as that of Miss Clara E. Cavanaugh of Roxbury. Relatives of the young woman, after reading the description of the suicide, visited the morgue today. Upon viewing the body they declared that it was that of Miss Cavanaugh.
The discovery of the body at the hotel was made yesterday and the police believe that they had a baffling mystery to solve. Miss Cavanaugh registered at the hotel last Sunday, giving an assumed name and address.
"Miss Clara E. Moulton, Beverly, Mass."
A slip of paper found in her room, on which was written "Ill health," is believed to be the cause of Miss Cavanaugh's committing suicide by shooting herself through the heart. Menial Examiner Waters stated that in his belief, Miss Cavanaugh committed suicide Sunday night.
The body was identified by her sister, Miss Louise Cavanaugh. Miss Cavanaugh stated that her sister had been missing from her home in Roxbury since Saturday last and that for some time the young woman had been in a troubled state of mind.
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Crowds on Park row, one of the city's busiest streets, stopped horrified today at the sight of a man's body hurtling through the air from the roof of the 35 story Park Row building. The body crashed into the skylight of the six story building adjoining and became jammed in the machinery of the elevator of the building. It was hardly recognizable and some difficulty was expected in identifying it. Surgeons who made a hasty examination said that the man had been instantly killed.
No one seems to have seen the man go to the roof of the building and it is not known whether he fell from a dizzy height or deliberately jumped to his death.

WIDOWS PLENTY
Those at Newport Are Worth $300,000,000

NEWPORT, Aug. 31.—Widows, grass and sod, representing an aggregate fortune of about $300,000,000, are eligible for remarrying, some anxious for the chance and others merely in a receptive mood, are congregated in Newport. The town has been dubbed "Widowville," and the name is likely to stick, at least through the present season. Word has been received here that a large delegation of foreign noblemen is headed this way with all sail set. Dukes, earls, lords and barons, with a prince or two thrown in, are coming. All carry credentials which they are willing to sell to the highest bidder.
Among those who will have an opportunity of selecting titles are Mrs. Ogden Golet, Mrs. Robert Golet, Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Alexander S. Clarke, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, Mrs. Harold Brown, Mrs. Benjamin P. Clyde, Mrs. William A. Bull, Mrs. Thomas Emery of Cincinnati, Mrs. Richard Cambrill, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mrs. French Vanderbilt and Mrs. John Jacob Astor.
Mrs. William E. Leeds will return here in December. Mrs. Leeds has written to friends here that she will take personal charge of the decorations of Rough Point, formerly the residence of Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt. Mrs. Leeds' friends have remarked facetiously that she is returning to escape attentions of a regiment of foreigners who are seeking her hand and fortune. If that is so she will arrive in the thick of battle and will be among those present at the auction sale.

A STRONG LIST
Fine Attractions Booked for Opera House

Tomorrow morning at the usual hour the box office at the Lowell Opera House will reopen for the business of a season that promises to be one of the most successful in the history of Lowell's leading place of amusement.
After temporarily degenerating into a "picture" house, the Opera House has returned to its original policy of the best of dramatic productions and Manager Ralph Ward, who is again at the head of the concern, has succeeded in booking a fine list of attractions.
At present the painters and decorators have the theatre in charge while behind the scenes Stage Manager John J. Carling and Master of Properties George Callahan, assisted by a large force of men, are hustling the work of renovating the stage. A vacuum cleaner is giving the seats of the house the best cleaning in their career and the interior fairly shines with cleanliness.
Manager Ward was found at his desk in the manager's office attending to his correspondence. Speaking with the reporter of The Sun Mr. Ward said: "The house has returned to its old policy of straight dramatic productions and I think that a glance at the immediate bookings will assure the patrons of the theatre that we intend to give them only the best. We have entirely renovated the house and will be ready for business on Labor day."
The theatre will open with two performances on Labor day, introducing Daniel Ryan, the former repertoire actor, as a star in the new play presented for the first time, entitled "The Black Fox," a modern melodrama of great power. Mr. Ryan intends to take his production to New York and several New York critics are expected here for the opening performances.
On Tuesday, the day following Labor day, Clyde Fitch's celebrated comedy, "Girls," which made such a big hit throughout the country, will be presented by a strong company. Mr. Fitch considered "Girls" the best of his comedies, and that is saying much. Other attractions to follow closely are "The Midway," "The Midnight Sons," with Lew Fields' own company on Friday and Saturday. This play will tax the capacity of the Opera House stage as there is a wealth of scenery and 15 people in the cast. Clyde Fitch's latest comedy, "The City," is booked for two days, while other popular attractions announced are "The Merry Widow," "The Man from Home," a three nights engagement, Wright Lorimer in "The Shepherd King" for a week; Frank Daniels in his new play, "The Belle of Brittany," Tom Wise in "The Gentleman from Mississippi," and many others of equal prominence in the world of drama.
The laying of the tracks in Appleton street and the change in the running of cars around that way will be of great advantage to the patrons of the theatre in inclement weather. Heretofore, the Lawrence street line was the only line running close to the Opera House but henceforth two additional lines will be available.
The same efficient and accommodating working staff has been retained including Arthur Norris, treasurer and presiding genius in the box office; the courteous Ted M. Forrest on the main floor; Cecil Hoamer, head usher, and Prof. Borjes and his orchestra.

Tomorrow Afternoon at 3.30 O'Clock
THE SALE OF THE JONES PROPERTY BY PUBLIC AUCTION.
2½-STORY HOUSE, TWO STABLES, CARRIAGE SHED AND ABOUT 18,000 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT 113 SCHOOL STREET.
As I am about to move to California, I have placed my property in the hands of the auctioneer to be disposed of on the premises, regardless of any condition of the weather, on the day and hour advertised. The house has 16 rooms and bath, and at a very small expense could be turned into a two-tenement house. In fact, it is already laid out for a two-tenement house for the other half. The rooms are large, airy and well lighted. It is heated by an up-to-date hot water plant, has gas lighting, cemented cellar, excellent closet room and the best of sewerage. There is one stable which has two stalls, and immediately adjoining is a workshop, also a stable with three stalls, large carriage room, and an excellent lot for the storage of hay and grain, and situated between the two stables is a large carriage shed. These buildings are all in good condition. There is a small hen house and hen yard also located on the lot. The lot, which has a frontage of about 100 feet, has an area of about 18,000 square feet. There are eight pear trees, five apple trees, one plum and one cherry tree, six grape vines and a very large garden. The house, which has good elevation, sets well back from the street. The stables and hen houses are located in the extreme end of the lot, with driveway leading to the same. Now, then, here is a parcel of realty which should interest the business man who keeps a number of horses. When you stop and consider, a house of 16 rooms, which could easily be turned into a two-tenement house, two stables, a carriage shed, a workshop which could be made into a nice automobile house, and 18,000 square feet of land with all kinds of fruit, located in an excellent neighborhood, but one minute's walk from three lines of cars, it is seldom you get the opportunity to purchase anything of its kind at public auction, and if it were not that I am about to move to California it would not be for sale at any price. The premises can be inspected at any time by calling at the office of the auctioneer.
Terms: $500 to be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. A good liberal mortgage can be had at 6 per cent.

By order of A. A. JONES.

Anniversary Day
OF BARGAIN DEPARTMENT AT O'DONNELL DRY GOODS STORE

THE O'DONNELL DRY GOODS STORE

Great Event In the History of This Firm and One That Will Interest All Housekeepers—Unrivalled Bargains Promised on Saturday

When a department store of such high standing and reliable business methods as the O'Donnell Dry Goods Company announces a special sale the public should take due notice. On next Saturday this Company will observe the first anniversary of its bargain department in the basement in which is found a great many household articles at a price that enables the housekeeper to accomplish many economies in the cost of living. During the year the management of this store has had many special sales in which the bargains offered in this department were among the most attractive ever offered in Lowell.
The idea of a special bargain department in a large store of this kind is one that is very uncommon, even in this city. When there is any special line of odds or ends that must be moved from the other counters to make way for new goods, when a purchase is made at low rates or when some merchandise is secured that will offer special attractions for purchasers in Lowell, the bargains are found in the basement, and there the patrons of the store can make their selections and take advantage of the low prices at which the goods are offered.
So successful has this arrangement proved during the past year that the bargain counters in the basement have become one of the greatest attractions offered in any store in the city of Lowell. The management, in fact, feels elated at its success, and while it does not detract in the least from the steady business done in the other departments of the store yet this department has won a popularity entirely its own.
For the past few weeks the management has been planning to make the anniversary of this department and the opening of the Fall season an event of unusual importance and a red letter day in the history of the store. Accordingly the markets of the East have been watched and arrangements made for the purchase of sample lines of high grade goods with the result that special bargains in dry goods and merchandise of various kinds will be offered to the public at remarkably low prices. The papers of Friday will give some idea of the bargains to be offered at this anniversary sale and the management announces that it will be one at which every housekeeper will find some household necessity at a price that will compel purchase.
This article is but a notification to get ready for the sale and to be on hand early and see what this great department store has to offer as a special attraction at its anniversary sale. This Company has established a reputation as "the store for quality and style," and what it has to offer at Saturday's sale will, we are assured, add to its reputation in this respect, not only for what it will offer in the line of women's wearing apparel but in general household necessities.
On Saturday every department at this popular store will have its special lines, its bargains and attractions for purchasers, but in the bedding department especially there will be a demonstration of bargain giving that will astonish everybody and surpass anything offered in Lowell within recent years.

YALE VS. TUFTS
MEDFORD, Aug. 31.—Manager Mo-Phe of the Tufts college football team stated today that a report circulated in New Haven that a game would not be played on Oct. 5 between Yale and Tufts was erroneous. Tufts has not cancelled the date, he said, and, so far as the Medford team is concerned, the game will be played at New Haven.
WOMAN MAY DIE
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Little hope was held out today for the recovery of Vera Fitch, daughter of the late Henry Fitch of Oakland, Cal., who shot herself in the waiting room of the Hotel Astor late Monday.
